CEMETERY CLEAN-UP

In spite of the warm, sunny weather this month of October, the Woodlawn Cemetery Board is beginning to think of Fall Clean-Up.

If families wish to keep summer decorations they need to be removed by November 1.

Recently placed fall items will not be removed, trusting families to remove these as we get into winter weather. Christmas items may be placed after Thanksgiving. Please label and securely anchor all arrangements. The board appreciates the respect and assistance the grounds receive from visitors. Call 375-2970 with any questions. The volunteer board of directors will begin clean-up after November.

ARE YOU WONDERING?

For those who are asking "The Wonder of It All" Holiday Bazaar at the United Church of Christ will be Saturday, November 6th. Mark your calendar and watch your Warren Weekly for further details.

BARGAIN BASEMENT

We are overflowing with great warm clothes to get ready for old man winter. Yes, winter will be here before we are ready.

We wonder if the men in the community realize what we have for them so, we are offering one free bag of clothes to the men if they come in with their wife or significant other. Don't have one right now? Come on in anyway. We think they will be surprised at what we offer, in sizes Small to 4X. This special will be October 15-16 & 22-23.

The $5.00 bag sale is ongoing and it includes everything except specially marked items that will be in an easily identifiable area. Yes, that means housewares, sheets, curtains, decorative items, and pictures, anything that will fit inside the paper grocery bags. Appliances that won't fit inside the bag are still ½ price. Check it out and see what you can find! Remember to ask for paper bags at the grocery store and pass them along to us for the bag sale.

We still have Halloween items and clothes, etc, to create your costume and scarecrow for the festival.

If you have an extra crockpot or paring knives, please bring them to the Bargain Basement—we'll take them to the Food Pantry for their cooking classes.

Thanks so much for all you do. Keep those donations coming! We are here for you and because of you! May God Bless you and yours.

Jan & Nancy
and the BB staff.

THE UPTOWN GARDENER
by Ruth Herring

Each day we try to get a few more things done to winterize. This week it has been a bit difficult as both of us has been under the weather with sinus or some crudy thing.

Still have some apples to get done up and will be done for this season. The jars are all filled, not nearly as many as what my mom always had, but we will enjoy many meals with what I have done.

The new grass we had put down is coming up nice except for a few spots that the strong wind got.

Flower beds are about done for the year except for the mums. What I tried transplanting, I hope will make it, the ground is just to hard and dry.

I have brought in some coleus, begonias and impatiens slips for rooting and are doing well. Hopefully I won't need to be buying as many new plants.

The one thing I plan to do with the apples is to make up fried apples similar to Cracker Barrels. I have made these for several years and they sure come in handy.

This is how I make them.

I like to use an apple similar to golden delicious or any good cooking apple that stays firm after being cooked. For our use I peel and slice 3 or 4 apples, dip them in vinegar and salt water to keep their good color. Mix together 1/4 cup sugar 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon and 1 tablespoon cornstarch. mix it well and add to the apples that have been drained, coat the apples well and put in a freezer pouch such as you would use for a seal a meal. Freeze and when ready to use place frozen bags in microwave to cook. Takes about 3 to 5 minutes. I use this as a basic guide, you may need to add more sugar depending upon the variety of apples used. I do several bags at a time.

Enjoy

PIZZA & THE PULSE

Pizza Hut Fundraiser for the Pulse Opera House

Calling all Pulse supporters! If you eat dinner at the Huntington Pizza Hut on Monday, October 18 between 5:00 and 8:00 p.m., part of the proceeds will go to the Pulse. Even better, Pulse Players will be serving your pizza! The purpose of the fundraiser is to help the Pulse Opera House offset the offset expenses of the postponed production of "Fiddler on the Roof" and the loss of the anticipated ticket income. The rights to the show were pulled three days before opening because a National Touring Company of "Fiddler" was scheduled to come to the area; thus, preventing all amateur groups within a 100 mile radius from doing the show.

The Pulse Opera House is a non-profit 501(c)3 community theatre serving the Huntington County area and beyond for 24 years. The theatre supports the work of talented local performing and visual artists. In addition to the productions, the theatre works with area schools providing productions such as "Diary of Anne Frank," "The Boxcar Children," and "Midsummer Night's Dream" for field trips. They have done reading programs with the library, provided food for the food pantry and developed new scripts through the Playwright's Project. In 2000 and 2004, the Pulse Opera House was selected to represent the United States in International Theatre Festivals in Germany.

Medicaid patients may obtain the shot for $0.00 copay, if they present a currently active Medicaid card.

Medicare patients may pay for the vaccination and send their bill into Medicare for reimbursement. The Health Department will issue a receipt of payment. Cash or Local Checks are accepted.

Residents of neighboring counties are welcome! You do not need to be a Huntington County resident. If you have questions about vaccinations you may call the Health Department at 260-358-4831.

ESSAY CONTEST

"Agriculture: Then and Now" is the theme for the 2010/2011 Dick Lugar/Indiana Farm Bureau/Indiana Farm Bureau Insurance Companies Youth Essay Contest for eighth graders.

When composing their essays, students are asked to address the following:

"Agriculture has a long and rich history in Indiana but what does it mean to you? Consider the many ways Hoosier farmers impact your daily life and then describe the significance of our agricultural heritage, the state of agriculture today and its importance to our future."

Essays will be judged on correct use of grammar and punctuation, spelling, understanding of the topic, neatness and overall appearance of the essay, and originality and creativity.

The contest is open to eighth-grade students in Indiana schools. First prize for one male and one female winner is an all-expenses paid trip to Washington, D.C. One male and one female winner per Indiana Farm Bureau district will receive a $50 U.S. Savings Bond. Award certificates will be given to county winners.

Interested students should ask their teachers or principal about specific essay rules and additional details. Essays must be sent by the school to the Farm Bureau county woman leader for the county where the school is located (not necessarily the county the student resides in) by Nov. 1. More information is available on the IFB website, www.infarmbureau.org.

10 STEPS TO A HAPPIER RETIREMENT

by V Neil Wyrick

It has been said that the trouble with retirement is you never get a day off. Therefore, to benefit the most from it...think on the following.

1) Think of retirement not as a time of being "over the hill" but rather a time to view the world from a different hill. Consider what you are retiring to, not just what you are retiring from. Yes, it should be a time for smelling the roses, but also a time for planting some.

2) You may be working into your nineties and loving every minute of it or need to switch gears and get as far away from work as possible...but whether it is a vacation or an avocation, nature abhors a vacuum.

3) Whatever amount of time you have left before retirement, save more and spend less. Don't buy everything within sight. Rather try buying with more insight.

4) And as a motivation, stop and figure out what your annual income would be if you were forced into retirement tomorrow. Then figure what you will retire with at say 70, not even thinking 65.

5) Today, the experts figure you need twenty times your present income in the bank, if you want to retire in the same financial neighborhood of your present income.

6) When the time comes think long and hard before you move into a retirement community or a smaller home. Think long before you act short (too short a time).

7) When you think of long term nursing care, think statistics – the average nursing home stay is two to three years. Consider a bigger deductible vs. a bigger premium. But then, don't spend so much time thinking you become your own worst enemy. And yes, again...let any conclusion simmer for awhile rather than immediately bringing them to a boil.

8) If at all possible, pay off your mortgage. It's very comforting to know that, if needed, there is the possibility of a reverse mortgage rather than an ongoing mortgage payment that, with a reduced income, can be increasingly difficult to pay.

9) Think capital preservation as well as capital appreciation. There are countless formulas, but the stock market is always a giant question mark. Remember, if an investment seems to be too good to be true, it probably is.

10) Last and certainly not least talk to a financial manager. However, check them out carefully because you don't want one with any kind of vested interest in his or her proposals. And you certainly want first class recommendations about financial managers from friends rather than ads.

It may be an over-simplification but I think not too much so; Prepare for retirement so it will not be a time of sadness but of hope.

GOAT & SHEEP

Area goat and sheep producers can learn more about good production practices by attending a series of webinar sessions. These programs will be carried by several Extension Offices throughout Indiana. Anyone with an interest in goat and sheep production can attend these sessions. The Huntington County Extension Office conference room will be a host site for this program.

Purdue University Extension Service, Kentucky State University, and the University of Kentucky are sponsoring the webinar series, which will be held on three consecutive Tuesday nights starting on October 26 from 7-9 P.M. EST. The focus of the programs is nutrition and health issues in raising goats and sheep. Classes will be taught by Purdue Extension Specialists, Educators, and Kentucky livestock specialists.

Goat production numbers are rising in Indiana and Kentucky. According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture (U.S.D.A.) 45,000 goats are raised in Indiana and 87,000 in Kentucky. Sheep and lamb numbers in Indiana have been fairly consistent over the past several years. The most recent U.S.D.A. report as of January 1, 2010 listed sheep and lamb numbers at 52,000 in Indiana. The topics for each webinar session are as follows:

- Session 1 on October 26, concerns Parasite Control in Small Ruminants and will feature discussion about Internal Parasite Control by Dr. Kenneth Andries, Kentucky State University; Coccidiosis in Goats and Sheep and External Parasites in Goats by Dr. Mike Neary, Purdue University.

- Session 2 on November 2, features teaching about Forages and Grazing Systems for Goats led by David Trotter, Purdue Extension Educator; Alternative Forages for Goats by Dr. Kenneth Andries, Kentucky State University; and Supplementation and Feeding the Gestating Doe by Terry

Hutchens, University of Kentucky.

- Session 3 on November 9, will have information about Vaccination Programs, Common Diseases and Medication Availability for Goats and Sheep by Dr. Michelle Bilderback, DVM, University of Kentucky; Urinary Calculi Problems in Small Ruminants by Terry Hutchens, University of Kentucky; and Foot Rot Control in Goats and Sheep by Dr. Mike Neary, Purdue University.

There is no cost for this program. Advanced registration is requested by calling the Huntington County Extension Office.

HALLOWEEN TIPS

Waverly, Iowa—Get into the spirit of Halloween this year with party ideas that will assure your guests have a howling good time and allow you to relax and join in the spooktacular fun-filled events.

Follow these basic tips to make any occasion—Halloween included—extra special:

- * Start with a plan. Make a to-do list and prioritize each item. It's very satisfying to cross items off a list.

- * Set a budget and stick to it. It's easy to let a "simple" party get out of control.

- * Expect the unexpected. Go with the flow and enjoy yourself, and remember that minor mishaps are part of the experience and may end up being part of some very special memories.

- * Ask for help. If you're hosting a group of children (or adults who simply act like children), it's a good idea to have other adults there to help keep an eye on things.

- * Be sure to take plenty of pictures. The memories you capture will be priceless!

Whether your group includes 4-year-olds or 40-year-olds, food can be fun, and keeping the menu interesting will lend itself to good times, lots of laughter and plenty of interesting conversation. Be sure you supply guests with several delicious food choices. Follow these additional tips for entertaining with flair.

Make it fun. Dough toes (see recipe below) are an interesting addition to any Halloween snack table. They smell good fresh out of the oven, are great for dipping and will amuse your guests. Make it delicious.

Make it simple. By offering easy-to-eat finger food, your guests will feel comfortable nibbling and you will have fewer dirty dishes. Make a batch of dog food (see recipe below) that you can serve from a clean dog bowl if you wish!

IT'S A SMALL WORLD

by The FlyLady, Marla Cilley
 In the last fifteen years our lives have changed with the availability of the internet. I will never forget the first thing I ever searched for on the internet. I was taking some classes at Brevard College. I was using a search engine called DogPile; this was before Google!

In the seventies I found Pam Young and Peggy Jones when they were on the Phil Donohue Show. I knew right then that the Sidetracked Home Executives understood my desire to become organized. After many years of following their books, card file system and their monthly news letter; I had lost track of them. So in 1996, did a search for them and found they had a website. Wow my heroes were on the internet.

They had message boards and real time chat. Those of us on these message boards became great friends. This is where I met Kelly and Dana who work with me today. We supported each other, answered questions and most of all accepted one another just the way we were. It was such a pleasure to frequent a website where you fit in. We were not afraid to be ourselves because we knew that everyone there had the same issues with organization that we had. We were blessed to have found each other.

Now men go to the internet to find out information. Just this weekend Robert had car trouble. His little car had been in the shop while we were traveling but the issue of it stalling had not been fixed. Intermittent problems are really hard to find. When we had to have a wrecker tow him home on Saturday he started searching for the problem online. He found an answer complete with pictures. In less than an hour he had the problem fixed! His answer was at his fingertips and not stuck in manufacturer's trouble-shooting guide. He was able to fix it for just $50 where a trip to the car dealer would have cost an average of $800. He was so happy!

The internet is changing how we connect with family too. Facebook is giving us the ability to interact with our old friends and family almost without even thinking. We can see pictures of class reunions and the birth of new babies on our home page. I actually get most of my news via Facebook sent directly to my phone from my favorite news agencies. Facebook has become my source for headlines from around the world. In fact Facebook is like a newspaper with only the headlines that you want to see. I actually found a long lost first cousin that I had not seen in forty-five years on Facebook.

Here is the best part about the internet. For many years I have been searching for my baby brother. I only met him once when he was a toddler. I knew his first name and our given last name. Intermittently I have searched, MySpace, Facebook, and Google. I never had any success. This past Labor Day weekend I got on Ancestry.com and started to build my father's family tree. As I was searching I found that someone else was looking up the same line. I messaged this person asking if we were cousins. He told me that his father's name was my father's name. I finally found my baby brother. We were both in shock! He had been looking for us too. We got to meet him last week. It truly is a small world when you have the internet.

The internet is a wonderful place to connect with family, reconnect with old friends, find out important information, get support, build a business and shop. You can do it all from your favorite chair, cell phone or iPad. You just can't be afraid to try new things. I hope and pray that when I am old that I always have a computer at my fingertips so that I can stay connect to the world the way I want.
