KUDOS, KICKS & KARATS

MUSIC DEPT. NEEDS YOUR SUPPORT

Unfortunately, "Hello Dolly" may be the last musical at Southern Wells. We all know about the financial situation that the school is in – and as a result one of the proposed cuts is to eliminate one of the music department positions in the high school. We don't yet know the total effect this cut would have, but common sense says that if 3 people are doing the current programs K-12, 2 people cannot continue to provide all of the programs we currently enjoy and all of the classes that the students currently take. This initial cut will affect more than just the high school.

We would like to let the school board and administration know that the SW community DOES value its music department – which is shown by the wonderful attendance at every program. So if you enjoy attending the musicals, band and choir concerts, hearing the pep band at the ball games, watching the showcase, spring fling or winter Christmas program in the elementary; following the achievements of the show choirs in area contests or hearing about the awards won by the band and choir students at local and state competitions, please let your voice be heard. Send a letter showing your support for the program. These programs teach children much more than just music.

Please write the board members and administration to let them know your thoughts on the importance of music in your life and the lives of these kids. It is imperative that we gather the letters immediately, as the final vote is coming on April 21.

Mail your letters to: 7060 W. 700 S. – 90, Warren, IN
 You can also e-mail letters to: stoffer@citiznet.com or rjsj@citiznet.com
 Thank you in advance for your support!

HEALTH ISN'T ACCIDENTAL

by V Neil Wyrick

There is an old saying that "Whoever prescribes for himself has a fool for a doctor." So, when should you go to the physician and what kind?

Dermatologist take care of people like you and me who when we were young bathed in the sunlight until sometimes in place of a golden tan we looked more like a lobster. Skin cancer is a reality and ignored can become a deadly reality. Catch a cell gone bad early and it's easily fixed. Let it get out of hand, it isn't. It's that simple.

Eyesight? Does it seem you are seeing through a fog these days? Your side vision deteriorating? Haloes around lights? An ounce of prevention is certainly worth a pound of blindness. Go see an eye doctor even if you are afraid you may find out something you don't want to know. By way of example, glaucoma doesn't send pain but it can send darkness.

Teeth? Past 60 half of all people have lost all their teeth. It's true but not necessary. How to avoid being a member of the lost tooth tribe? Regular visits to the dentist keep your teeth around longer and when one goes neighboring teeth quite often follow. In short, see your dentist at least twice a year. See him less and it will cost you more; both in dollars and in pain. Want to cut cavities down to a minimum or even nothing. I switched from having my teeth cleaned twice a year to three times a year and I've had only one cavity in four years. Before that I had a cavity every time I went to the dentist.

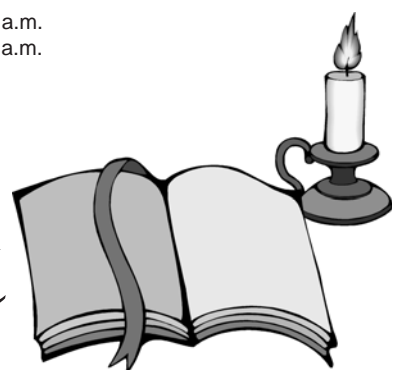

It is good to remember that a health tip in hand is worth two ignored

In 1969 Dane felt a call to the ministry. In 1975 Dane started seminary at Grace Theological Seminary, Winona Lake, IN and that fall did his first concert. He has been traveling, ministering, and entertaining at churches, conferences, conventions, fairs, festivals, campgrounds, restaurants and banquets, as well as on radio and television ever since. He also traveled with a gospel quartet for approximately four years. In 2006, Dane was honored with an invitation to sing at the "Pageant of Peace," an annual event held at the National Christmas Tree on the ellipse near the Whitehouse in Washington, DC.

In 2001 Dane was able to take another step in his music career by stepping out as a full time singer-recording artist. He now travels throughout the United States with last year doing over one hundred concerts and traveling over 20,000 miles. He has seven recordings and a live concert video to his credit. Four of The recordings, "Touch of the Master's Hand", "One More Time," and "The Sketch" and a favorite of everyone, "Old Hymns and Favorites," are all southern gospel projects. His latest release is "What's In Your Heart" is on the New City Label. Believing that laughter lightens the heart, Dane released an all comedy project, "Laughin' Time," and with his traveling to our nations capitol for Christmas, released a project, "Live at Christmas." Watch for Dane's newest project recorded on a new label, BCS Records of Woodland Al. A big band project "Coast To Coast," and a variety project, "Just Singing" have been released this past summer. He is now currently working on a patriotic project to be released this spring.

His growing list of music now includes not only Southern Gospel, but many old standards, big band, country, and comedy songs that extend his program into many different venues looking for good entertainment that is family oriented with a high standard of performance. This criteria has brought him an endorsement by the Christian Music Presenters which stands for musical excellence, spiritual integrity, and ministry preparedness.

Dane is a "real for sure auctioneer" and a growing part of his travels include auctioneering, entertaining, and emceeing for benefit functions helping a variety of groups raise money. He is a partner in Martin and Bailey Auction Realty in Fort Wayne, IN, real estate broker, and an instructor at the Reppert's School of Auctioneering, Auburn, IN, teaching voice care, vocal technique, and bid calling.

SCREENING KITS

Since 2005, Parkview Hospital's Community Health Improvement Program has provided thousands of free EZ Detect colorectal cancer screening kits to individuals in northeast Indiana. EZ Detect kits provide a simple way to do blood stool screenings at home.

Once again the kits are being offered free to the public, and are available in the lobby of Parkview Huntington Hospital and at the Parkview FirstCare offices of:

Antonio Garrido, MD, 240 S. Jefferson St., Huntington

Tina Lawson, MD, and Debra Lazzaro, MD, 2003 Stults Rd.,

Suite 215, Huntington

Kevin Stamm, MD, 2003 Stults Rd., Suite 120, Huntington

Duane Hougendobler, MD, 2003 Stults Rd., Suite 105, Huntington

If diagnosed and treated in the early stages, colorectal cancer is highly curable. Beginning at age 50 (45 for African-American men and women), Parkview and the American Cancer Society recommend that people at average risk for developing colon cancer have a fecal occult blood test yearly and a colonoscopy every 10 years. People with higher risk factors may need to begin screening at an earlier age.

Parkview's Community Health Improvement Program funds the EZ Detect initiative. For more information, call 1-877-784-4673 or visit www.parkview.com.

WHY BOATS SINK

The Common Causes

ALEXANDRIA, Va., — Launching a boat in the spring for a new boating season is normally a happy occasion, but some owners get a rude surprise instead — a sinking. "While not widespread, sinkings during re-launch at the dock are easily avoidable," said Bob Adriance, editor of Seaworthy, the magazine from BoatU.S. that helps boaters avoid damage and improve safety aboard their boats. Here are Bob's tips to avoid a springtime sinking:

- Hose clamps: Winterizing an engine in the fall often requires the removal of coolant hoses. Come springtime, boaters are in a rush and the hoses aren't reattached and clamped properly. Adding to this, cramped engine boxes mean that the hoses and the clamps holding them sometimes can't be visually inspected easily. In the spring you'll need to ensure all of the hose clamps are securely tightened in place.

- Hoses: During the winter as the water inside them freezes, some hoses can lift off their attached seacock (valve). However, with spring's warmer temperatures the water now returns to a liquid, and if the seacock was left open last fall, water can pour into the bilge. Double clamping with marine-rated stainless hose clamps, inspecting hose attachment locations, or keeping seacocks closed can all save you from a spring sinking.

- Spring rains: Combine heavy rains with leaking ports, deck hatches, fittings, chain plates and even scuppers clogged by leaves from last fall and you have a recipe for a sinking. Just 100 gallons of water weighs over 800 pounds so a boat with a low freeboard only needs to sink a few inches before cockpit scuppers (drains intended to remove water) submerge and water starts to enter the boat. Larger boats with cracked or improperly caulked fittings that are located just above the waterline can also inadvertently let water in when they become submerged. Ensure that rain rolls off the boat and not into it.

- Sea strainer: For inboard/outboard and inboard powered boats, always inspect the strainer for cracks or other damage. If it wasn't properly winterized, the intake sea strainer could have frozen over the winter, cracking or bending the inspection bowl. And if the seacock was left open the boat will sink as soon as ice in the strainer thaws or the boat is put in the water. Boats have also sunk when the seacock was closed over winter and then opened in the springtime, but the owner failed to notice water trickling into the bilge from a freeze damaged bowl.

- Stuffing Box: On powerboats or sailboats with inboard power, if the stuffing box's packing material that seals the prop shaft is not tight, a steady drip could eventually swamp a boat if it's ignored. Remember, the stuffing box should only leak when the prop shaft is turning. Stuffing boxes need to be inspected routinely, regardless of the season.

To learn about more causes of sinkings, or to get your own copy of the quarterly Seaworthy go to BoatUS.com/seaworthy/sinking.

PLANT PERMITS

Before you remove aquatic plants from a public lake, check with the Indiana Department of Natural Resources. You may need a permit before proceeding.

State law requires that residents of a public lake who want to chemically control or physically remove aquatic plants along more than 25 feet of their shoreline, a total surface area of more than 625 square feet, or at water depths greater than 6 feet, must first obtain a written permit from the DNR. Residents who treat less than the specified amount do not need a permit.

This allows property owners to control small areas of aquatic plants around piers and swimming areas that may interfere with lake use.

"Aquatic plants play an important role in lake ecology," according to

Rod Edgell, DNR assistant fisheries biologist; "however, removing plants is sometimes necessary to allow residents and anglers access to the lake."

When using any pesticide, it's important to follow the product's label directions, and only use herbicides registered for aquatic habitats. Improper use of any aquatic herbicide is not only illegal, but can be hazardous to humans and aquatic life.

In most cases, permits to chemically control aquatic plants are granted only to licensed pesticide applicators who have knowledge and training in the proper use of pesticides.

"We recommend that lake residents combine their resources and hire a licensed applicator for large-scale treatments," Edgell said. "Applicators are trained to properly identify target plants and use the most appropriate herbicide."

In most cases, permits are issued only for control of non-native plants such as Eurasian watermilfoil and curly-leaf pondweed. Native plants seldom interfere with lake use, and are rarely treated on a large scale.

Permit applications are available at the Northeast Regional Office, 1353 S. Governors Drive, Columbia City, IN 46725, or (260) 244-6805. Application fee is $5. Processing may take up to six weeks, so plan accordingly.

Questions regarding pesticides and their use should be directed to your local Purdue University County Extension Office. The location of your county extension office can be obtained at extension.purdue.edu/extsite/counties.shtml, or 1-888-398-4636.

A BEAUTIFUL CLEAN

by The FlyLady, Marla Cilley
Did you ever dread going home? You knew what was waiting for you; the dirty dishes, Mount Washmore and hotspots turning into flaming avalanches of papers. No wonder you dread going home. Maybe it will look better in the dark of night. You deserve to have a home that hugs you when you walk in your door.

Just a few short years ago when I was surrounded by clutter and CHAOS (Can't Have Anyone Over Syndrome) it would take several days to get ready for guests to come to our home. I have even hired someone to come in and help me get our home company ready. Those poor people didn't know what to do with our clutter either. It would get boxed up and stuck in the basement or the extra bedroom. When you rake the hotspots into boxes your home will look better, but it doesn't feel clean. You know the clutter is hiding in those boxes and as a result we would spend hours searching for things that used to be in those hot spots.

All we really want is to open the door of our home and be greeted with the feel of a beautiful clean. Not that fake clean that still leaves you with the guilt that is hiding in those boxes, but a clean that starts at your toes and penetrates every sense you have.

Our perfectionism has caused us to live this way! Do you ever hear yourself say, "I don't have time!" I want you to finish this sentence! You don't have time to WHAT? Clean? Clean like your mother taught you to; spending hours making everything picture perfect! We all have the same hours in a day! We just need to get things done and quit complaining that we don't have time because we really do if we will just do it!

We were taught since the day we were born that if we can't do it right, then don't do it at all! We listened very well. We have also been punished for not living up to that white glove clean. We were forced to redo things to live up to someone else's unrealistic standards. I don't know about you but we live in our home and it is not a museum and it is not a junk yard either. It is our sanctuary from the busy world. After all housework done incorrectly still blesses your family!

With a five minute room rescue, a two minute hotspot fire drill, a shiny sink and a simple swish and swipe daily, your home can have that beautiful clean feeling too! So when you hear yourself say, "I don't have time!" Then just do two minutes. You will be surprised at how fast and easy you can create that beautiful clean feeling in your home.

Are you ready eliminate "I don't have time" from your thoughts and do two minutes! Now set your timer for two minutes and go wipe down your appliances fronts.

For more help getting rid of your CHAOS; check out her website and join her free life coaching at www.FlyLady.net, listen to her channel <http://www.blogtalkradio.com/channels/flyladyshow> or read her books, Sink Reflections published by Bantam and her New York Times Best Selling book, Body Clutter published by Fireside. CREATED EQUAL

At America's founding, the Declaration of Independence proclaimed that "all men are created equal." Since that time, Americans have struggled to understand the meaning of equality. The latest poster in the National Endowment for the Humanities "We the People Bookshelf" series, Created Equal, features books and other resources teachers and parents can use with children from kindergarten through high school-age to explore what universal human equality has meant over the decades. Novels and stories about slavery, the Civil Rights movement, the Civil War, and even the Ugly Duckling and Native American Chief Joseph all help children learn and talk about equality in American history and their own lives. For a copy of this colorful, free poster, send your name and address to the Federal Citizen Information Center, Dept. 506P, Pueblo, CO 81009. Or call toll-free 1 (888) 8 PUEBLO, that's 1 (888) 878-3256, and ask for Item 506P. And visit www.pueblo.gsa.gov to read or print this and hundreds of other FCIC publications for free.

in a bush. Love sweets? I do! But I also try to remember that one cookie will taste just as good and not give me the negative sugar kick back that a handful will. Consider adding oats to your diet. They may not necessarily make you feel as frisky as a colt but scientists are saying it is one of the best ways to reduce the type of cholesterol that contributes to heart disease.

Do you like a mid-morning and mid-afternoon snack? Would cutting them out make you weigh less? Do you find the very thought more than you want to handle? Would you like to have these snacks and still eat no more calories than if you hadn't indulged? Simple! Only eat half as much for breakfast and lunch and eat the other halves later as your snack. You may leave the table hungry, but a few minutes later your hunger pangs will have caught up with the reality that you really did eat enough and are not about to starve.

Can push-ups in the morning give you more get up and go for the rest of the day? Can a morning run or fast walk at seven oxygenate your system so that it keeps you going longer and with less effort? Can a stretch or two on a regular basis keep a disc from slipping or a muscle from pulling?

There is, indeed, great satisfaction in waking up in the morning and knowing you are looking in the mirror at someone who is at least trying to be their best.
