BMV CAUTIONS

Officials at the Indiana Bureau of Motor Vehicles (BMV) are cautioning Hoosiers about websites unrelated to the BMV that charge a fee to obtain the information and forms for renewing an Indiana driver's license that the BMV provides for free.

BMV Commissioner R. Scott Waddell reports that the BMV has been contacted by customers about a website that charges $34.96 for assistance in obtaining an Indiana driver's license. This particular website, DMV-Renewal.com, requires payment of a fee to obtain "all the details that you need for your driver's license renewal." Some of these websites appear when customers use online search tools to find the official Indiana BMV website.

Waddell reminds all Hoosiers that the official website for the Indiana BMV is myBMV.com. On the homepage, customers click on the yellow "Renew Driver's License" box in the right side of the page and are taken to the page with the simple instructions for renewing an Indiana driver's license online or at an Indiana BMV license branch.

He encouraged customers to call the BMV Customer Contact Center at 1-888-692-6841 with any questions about a driver's license renewal website other than myBMV.com. BMV officials have also shared this information with the Better Business Bureau.

THANK YOU

I would like to take this time to say thanks to all my customers from Huggy Bear Ice Cream Stop for supporting me and our station for the 15 years I've been here.

I would also like to say Thanks to all my employees, you are hard workers and a great group to work with. I've had a lot of fun and I know you will miss my sticky notes! HaHa.

I will miss you all. It has been great working in Warren. I have grown and learned a lot from Dallas. We've come a long way from the Little Station on the corner, and with your patronage we've been able to open a larger station.

The time has come for me to move on to new things. Please continue to support our Huggy Bear, we couldn't have done it without you.

So, thank you Dallas and Sheila for everything.

QUESTIONS I MUST ASK

I have lived a good long life,

So these questions I must ask,

Did I live for me or others?

Did I hide behind a mask?

Was I sincere and truthful?

Did I seek out those in need?

Did I forget my own desires

To help and clothe and feed?

Did I always have compassion?

Rejoice when others won,

Or felt their pain when hurting?

Did I pray "God's Will Be Done?"

Did I lift up or knock down

With the words that I had said,

Or had a cheerful attitude

With God's Word which I had read?

Did I ask to be forgiven,

And gave Jesus 'all of me',

So He could shine His Holy light

For everyone to see?

Did I waiver in my faith

When things were getting tough?

God helped me through my problem

Then it didn't seem so rough.

Did I tend to make excuses

When asked to do my part?

Or did I follow through

With all my strength and heart?

MY TOWN and Yours BY DENNIS STROUD

The headlines of the Warren Tribune were "Donkey Basketball Fills Gymnasium." In November, 1935 the donkey basketball game played at the Warren High School gymnasium was enjoyed by one of the largest crowds ever to see a basketball game in the local gym. The game, played entirely with the players mounted on the donkeys, provided plenty of amusement and the crowd received ample thrills for its money.

The game was sponsored by the Warren Lions Club for the benefit of the Warren Boy Scouts. The players were local boys who, also, seemed to get a lot of fun out of the affair. The game was managed and the donkeys were provided by Ralph Miller a veteran professional basketball star of the Fort Wayne Hoosiers.

The players were: D.V. Cady, Dean Huffman, Bryce Clinger, Edward Brown, Edwin Brown, Roger Myers, Hiram Adsit, Frank Myers, Robert Mossburg, Robert Laymon, Harry McElhaney, Richard Batteiger and Eugene Turner.

47 TO 74!

Schweikhardt Cousin's had their first annual get together last Sunday evening at Heritage Pointe. Honored guests were Uncle Norm and Aunt Peggy Schweikhardt. Good food, laughter, new stories on each other, reminiscing and good feelings that we followed through with out nudgings we've had to do this made our Frank and Lovie Schweikhardt family circle stronger.

Missing were: Bev and Bob Trout, Betty and Melvin Roush, Dan and Pam Spahr, Matt and Melanie Schweikhardt and Mindy and Troy Drayer.

COUNCIL NOTES

The Van Buren Town Council held their first meeting of 2012 on Wednesday evening, January 4 in the Council Room at Town Hall. Marvin Surber opened the meeting at 7 p.m. and all in attendance repeated to Pledge to the American Flag.

Clerk-Treasurer Michelle Sexton swore Bill Wentz in as a new member of the Council.

Marvin Surber was elected president of Council for 2012.

Office Pat Collins gave the Police report.

Superintendent Jim Webb gave his report. He noted that there are issue at the Wastewater Plant, and that efforts are being made to correct them.

The next Council meeting will be January 25.

CHAUTAUQUA

The opening meeting of the New Year began with the Pledge of Allegiance, prayer, and a reading by the President, Barbara Engle, with 22 members present. The collect was repeated before a short business meeting was held.

The Roll Call was answered with "A Resolution I should have made." The treasurer's report was given after the minutes were read.

"Betsy Ross: Her Life" was the subject of a very interesting and mainly untold story of the program given by Jane Ruble.

Betsy's Great-Grandfather, a Quaker carpenter, came from England to New Jersey in 1680, later moving to Philadelphia. His name, Andrew Griscom, is inscribed on a wall at Carpenter's Hall in Philadelphia. His grandson, Samuel, helped build the Bell Tower at Independence Hall in Philadelphia. Samuel and Rebecca James were parents to 17 children, Betsy being #8. Betsy attended Friends Quaker public school 8 hours a day, studying reading, writing, and instruction, usually a craft, before being apprenticed to a local upholsterer. Here she performed many sewing jobs including flag making. There she met and married a fellow apprentice, John Ross, in 1773 after eloping to New Jersey.

This caused her to be "read out" of the Quaker meeting house, completely cut off from her family and the meeting house. On Sunday's they attended Christ Church where you would often find George Washington, America's Commander in Chief, sitting nearby.

After joining the Pennsylvania militia, John was mortally wounded in 1776. Betsy, the widow, returned to the Quaker fold.

Betsy's 2nd husband, sea captain Joseph Ashburn, was captured by the British on a trip to the West Indies to get war supplies, and died in prison 1782.

In 1783 Betsy married and old friend, John Claypoole, who had been in prison with her husband. Betsy had a total of 7 daughters. After several years of ill health, John died in 1817. Betsy never remarried, and died Jan. 30, 1836, at age 84. She is buried in the Courtyard of the Betsy Ross House in Philadelphia.

In 1776 George Washington showed Betsy a rough draft of a flag design with a 6 pointed star. She showed him how to cut a 5 pointed star in a single snip. He was impressed, and the committee entrusted Betsy to make our first flag. On June 14, 1777, the Continental Congress, seeking to promote national pride and unity adopted the 1st National flag--13 red and white stripes, and 13 5-pointed stars in a field of blue. It was the first of 5 National flags-----all of which are on display at the Dan Quayle Museum in Huntington, Indiana. In 1949 President Harry Truman declared June 14 to be Flag Day Observance.

When we view the flag, we think of liberty, freedom, pride, and Betsy Ross. The American flag flies on the moon, sits atop Mount Everest, is hurtling out in space. The flag is how America signs her name.

Honor, Stand, and Salute the flag as it goes by!

Ann Miles and Sharon Gebhart served refreshments to Sue Blair, Nancy Bonham, Freddie Couch, Barb Engle, Linda Howell, Phylis Hubartt, Joan Huffman, Karen Hunnicutt, Crystal Lee, Colleen Odem, LuEllyn Pond, Jane Ruble, Martha Shafer, Ann Spahr, Carolyn Sparks, Kitty Throop, Alice Whitmore, Freda VanWinkle, Oma Zent, and Georgina Laymon.

The next meeting will be February 3, 2012, at Heritage Pointe.

COOKIE TIME

Girl Scouts of Northern Indiana-Michiana are ready to provide the community with its favorite treat as they learn valuable life lessons. This year, as they celebrate their Year of the Girl - 100th Anniversary, Girl Scout cookies will be on sale beginning Friday, January 13, continuing through March 13. For $3.50 per box, customers can help girls build business skills and gain financial knowledge as they sell these Girl Scout Cookie varieties: Thin Mints, Shortbread, Peanut Butter Patties®, Peanut Butter Sandwiches, Caramel deLites®, Thanks-A-Lot™, Lemonades™ and Shout Outs!

The Girl Scout Cookie Program is the largest girl-led business in the country and helps girls build important life and leadership skills. Through cookie program activities, girls learn how to plan, build teams, speak up, make decisions, solve problems and manage resources. These skills help girls learn to be leaders - ultimately in their own lives and in our communities. Girls are the main beneficiaries of all Girl Scout cookie activities, directly and indirectly. While learning valuable life skills and earning money for their troops, the girls decide how to spend that money to achieve their troop projects and goals. "We don't know of any other youth-oriented activity where the girls themselves decide what to do with the money they earn," says Connie Frederick, Product Program Manager.

Visit www.gsnim.org to find a Cookie Booth near you, or to participate in our Cookie Share program; which provides cookies to military troops and personnel. If you don't know a Girl Scout in your area or would like additional information, please call the Girl Scouts of Northern Indiana-Michiana at 800.283.4812.

WEIRD TREE SEARCH

The time has come again for Indiana's trees to let their freak flags fly.

But first, the Indiana Department of Natural Resources needs the public's help in finding these woody weirdos.

The DNR Forestry division is accepting submissions for its 2012 "Invasion of the Weird Trees" online publication, which identifies the weirdest tree for each county and is updated every four years.

Submissions can be any species and size. The only requirement is that they be weird.

Past entries in "Invasion of the Weird Trees" have included trees that swallowed signs, trees grown together like conjoined twins, trees with trunks twisted like a snail shell, trees that resemble giant octopuses, and trees with root systems so exposed that it appears they might run away.

Entry deadline for this year's search is April 30, three days after Arbor Day.

To submit a tree, send at least two non-returnable photographs to Sam Carman, DNR Division of Forestry, 402 W. Washington, Rm. W296, Indianapolis, IN 46204. Digital photos should be emailed to scarman@dnr.in.gov. Along with the photos, be sure to include your name, address, phone number, and the specific location of the tree, including county.

Based upon your photos, district foresters will narrow the field to the weirdest tree for each county, and these will be included in the 2012 "Invasion of the Weird Trees," which should be available online in the fall.

To view the current "Invasion," go to www.in.gov/

JANUARY, WHAT DO I DO NOW?

by V Neil Wyrick
Since it is National Get Organized Month I decided the best thing I could do was organize and put together this column. A kind of combination New Years Resolution and action all wrapped up in one. In short, this is yet another year to turn a prediction into a habit, an act that I have heard is supposed to take at least twenty one days to accomplish.

With the positive thought that this is the equivalent of the first day of the rest of my life it certainly would be an act of wisdom to not waste any of the days of this new and vital month. January has always been a fascinating month for me. There is something about getting use to putting down the right year that shouts the word "opportunity" to me loud and clear.

I've put eighty-three of these January's together now and each one is just as exciting as was the last one. Indeed, at least for me, it is a good month for looking back over all my resolutions and realizing that yes I actually did follow through on some of them.

I remember back in my college days one day reading that "Neither an egg nor an ego is any good until you break it." I had had a reasonable amount of success in both athletics and education and decided that I had better start courting humility or else I might spend the rest of my life trying to play Hamlet. It's been a difficult balance to try to accomplish but I've made some headway. I do know that if you have too little pride you have no confidence and never reach your potential. If you have too much you become vain with a capital V.

A few years later smack dab in the middle of a novel the chief character taught me a lesson; that I needed to allow myself to be overwhelmed by gratitude or risk the possibility of becoming a curmudgeon of the first degree.

There are certain things of which there is little doubt. If you guard your time till the cuckoo strangles; or your talents till they shrivel; or your treasure till you are rich at the bank but in danger of bankrupting your soul, take care, for you are in trouble. I take these thoughts to every January first because I need the lesson renewal this once a year.

And what specific pledges will I have made on the first day of this month of promises.

I pledge to always be thankful for friends and family who love me and forgive me and support me in my dreams.

I pledge to do everything I can to stay in love with beauty. Beautiful images that I can see with my eyes. Beautiful thoughts I can feel with my soul.

I pledge to learn from the labors that are set before me, and hopefully set at least some examples worthy of following.

I pledge that while I seek knowledge, I will try not fall victim to becoming a wise guy.

I pledge to be content with small victories, even if some large victories never come my way.

I pledge to say "I'm sorry" when I should say "I'm sorry."

I pledge to constantly and consistently pray for God's help and strength rather than being a fool who sometimes thinks I am the master of my fate and the captain of my soul.

I pledge to work with might and main to never give up on anyone...anywhere...anytime...no exceptions.

I pledge to continue to trust people until they give me reason to do otherwise. And then, while I must be cautious, I will not be judgmental.

I pledge to give the gift of listening. It is a pledge that will sometimes be easy to achieve and sometimes not easy at all. But I will try. I truly will.

MORE PAGE 2

Did I give God the glory?

Did I speak of His great love?

Or did I hide His truth,

Looking down and not above?

I know I don't like changes

But I know they will take place.

I'll lose my independence

And other losses I must face.

Can I graciously accept them

Keeping cool and calmly right?

I know to get my own way

I'll simply have to fight.

But wait, I'll keep my focus

On the One who's with me now.

I know He'll never leave me

So to God, I humbly bow.

I know that Jesus loves me.

Some day I'll see His face!

And He will draw me to Him

With His amazing grace!!

When my earthly life is over -
For the human race I've run,
My Heavenly Father will greet me -

"Welcome Home, my child,
Well Done!!"

My closing comments to the readers.

Soon I'll be relocating. As a result this will be my last writing. Thank you for the opportunity to honor my Saviour Jesus Christ. Along with the life-long memories I'll take with me.

Remember this -
Life is not measured by the number of breaths we take. But by the moments that take our breath away.

I Love You Guys - Hoov
