Thanks for all your support!

4-H OUTDOOR PURSUITS

Wells County 4-H will host four Outdoor Pursuits classes for youth in grades 3-12. Sessions will be held on Saturday, August 26, September 2, 9 and 16, 9:00 AM – 11:30 PM at the Wells County 4-H Park. Plan to meet in front of the Quonset Building and then move to one of the wooded areas. Classes will be held rain or shine, so dress accordingly.

Class topics will include:

Rule of 3; S.O.S Signals; Survival Packs/Gear; First Aid "Leave No Trace" practices; Food (what & where / how to get) – snares, bows, rock traps; Fire Starting / Types of Fires; Outdoor Cooking

Shelters (emergency & long term); TEAM CHALLENGE – show your knowledge and skills. Practice what you've learned.

Outdoor Pursuits is a part of the 4-H Shooting Sports Program and certified instructor, Mark Durham, will lead the sessions.

The classes are free to participants and are sponsored by Wells County 4-H and Wells County Whitetails Unlimited.

Pre-register at 260-824-6412 or register at the first session. Parent volunteers are welcome to attend. For additional information contact Mark Durham, 260-273-6508 or the Wells County Extension Office, 260-824-6412.

CATTLEMEN MEETING

The Huntington County Cattlemen will meet on Monday August 28 at 7:00 p.m. at the Huntington County Courthouse Annex.

Topics for discussion include: proposed changes for beef and starter calf projects; dates for Beef ID Day and Preview Show in 2018; judge selection for Preview Show, 4-H Fair Beef Show, and 4-H Fair Starter Calf Show in 2018; and a review of the food tent at the 4-H Fair.

Interested 4-H members and parents involved with the beef and/or starter calf project are encouraged to attend this meeting. As a reminder, submit bios of judge candidates in advance of the meeting.

For more information, contact Purdue Extension – Huntington County Office, 1340 South Jefferson, Huntington or call 260-358-4826.

McLAUGHLIN TO PERFORM

In just two weeks, Indiana native and national pop-rock singer/songwriter, Jon McLaughlin, will perform a free show in Marion, Indiana as part of the City's Concerts in the Gardens music series. The special performance will take place on August 31st in the Gardens of Matter Park (1 Matter Park Cir., Marion, IN 46952), from 7-9pm.

Jon McLaughlin learned to play piano at an early age, and began creating music as a child. McLaughlin attended Highland High School in Anderson, and then attended college at Anderson University while performing, writing, and touring under the university's record label. In 2006, he was signed to Island Records and has since been writing, producing, and performing songs with undying passion. He has worked with artists such as Sara Bareilles, Demi Lovato, Need to Breathe, and many others. Jon has shared the stage with Adele, One Republic, Bon Jovi, and even piano legend Billy Joel. He has shared his music through television, film, and other promotions. Disney featured "So Close" in the movie, Enchanted. Jon's music is also featured in the film, Georgia Rule; the TV series, these two!

So You Think You Can Dance; and TV drama, Ghost Whisperer. Jon has appeared on the Tonight Show, The Today Show, CBS Saturday Morning, and various other talk shows.

Jon McLaughlin has 5 full-length studio albums, one of which is entitled, Indiana, in honor of his home.

Patrons may bring lawn chairs, coolers of food/drinks & other picnic items, however, food & beverages will be available for purchase. This is a FREE event, so no tickets need to be purchased or reserved. This series welcomes all ages. The Gardens of Matter Park has restrooms and offers handicap access. Questions may be directed to the City of Marion Parks Department at 765.382.3761.

The Gardens of Matter Park is a nationally designated Signature Garden by Proven Winners®, with over six acres of living beauty, offering a variety of seating & shade, garden statues, and are available for rent.

LET'S TRY TO BE MORE TOLERANT

A few years ago my son Michael and his wife Meredith were invited by the FOX network to go to the Super Bowl and Terry and I were invited to babysit our two grandchildren Jack, age eight, and Brooklyn, age eleven. I have such fun with

The first night we were with them, when it was bedtime they both wanted me to tell them a bedtime story. Since they slept in separate rooms I sat in the hallway with the light on so they could both see me if they sat up and it was easy for them to hear me. I love to make up bedtime stories because I never know what I'm going to say myself. I guess I should say Nelly (my inner child) loves to hear my stories or maybe she's the one who makes them up? Whatever, I love to do it.

Here's the story I told that night:

Rabbit Ears, Elephants, and Donkeys

Once upon a time there was a wonderful family that was happy and healthy. There was a mom and a dad and a boy, eleven and a girl eight. (I reversed the ages for the story so the kids wouldn't think this story was about them.) The family lived way out in the country and the mom homeschooled the two children (neither of them knew what that was). There was one small, genetic problem with the family; they were born with bunny ears. Beautiful, long soft bunny ears. The parents raised the children to be thankful for their ears. They showed them pictures of human ears and of course their ears were much better looking because human ears are just plain ugly!

THE UPTOWN GARDENER
 by Ruth Herring

Did everyone enjoy the eclipse - to me it was another interesting day. I remember quite well when I was quite young there was an eclipse similar and my mom had made a tiny hole in a shoe box so I could see it, it must have been back in the 40's and was quite an experience for me as she explained what was happening. My dad said that at work they had to turn on extra lights to work by. This time I watched it all thru TV what a different experience.

In the garden: I think it looks pretty sad and makes me want to start a bit of cleaning up and renovating things that will need separated. The tomato plants that I thought were helpless have finally come thru. I had this great pickle vine that must of had a hundred blooms, must have been a male plant as I only got three pickles from it and it is now on its way to become compost. Thanks to my neighbor she supplied me well and also gave me a good recipe for refrigerator pickles. Having them made up, my thoughtful daughter was a bit concerned as to what you were going to do with several jars stashed in the refrigerator. I calmly told her I planed on passing some of them on to my son in law.

Here is the recipe Roselyn Poulson gave me.

I cut the recipe in half for myself. Wash and slice 4 1/2 cup pickles, 3/4 cup sliced onion, green pepper if desired diced fine. 1 cup sugar, 1/2 cup cider vinegar, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 teaspoon celery seed. Mix sugar, salt and celery seed into the pickles, fill clean canning jars and pour the cider vinegar over them. I put lids on and turned the jars several time to mix the vinegar thru, place in refrigerator and in a few days they will form juice and be ready to eat, keep them refrigerated. Nice way to put a few away without lot of processing. Enjoy have a great rest of summer.

One day the parents told the children that Mom was going to have to go to work and she would no longer be able to home school them and they would have to go to public school. They explained to the children that when they got in school there probably would be some children who would be mean and tease them about their bunny ears, but that they should just ignore them. Then I said, "Michael, you Sure enough, on the first day of school, the boy was out on the playground and a nasty, mean girl came up to him and said, "Hey rabbit ears, want a carrot?" The boy ignored the wicked girl, but she wouldn't relent. "Hey, can't you hear with those big ears or are you just stupid?" She was just one of those people who is intolerant of people's differences.

At this point in my story, Jack, my sweet eight-year-old love, said, "Was she a republican?" Now I was already sitting on the floor so I didn't have far to fall in my hysterics! I laughed till I couldn't breathe and then I said, "Jackie, did you know I'm a republican?" Both children sat up in bed and stared at me as if I'd said,

"Did you know I'm a witch and I'm going to eat you alive?"

When their liberal parents came home, I forgot to tell them about the incident, but a few weeks later I was on the phone with Michael and remembered to tell him what happened. He laughed and said, "You know Jack came to me a few days after you guys left and said, 'Dad, did you know Gramma's a republican?' I told him I did."

Then I said, "Michael, you know it might just be the right time to explain to the children that we need to respect each other's differences. You'd have thought I'd confessed to murder with the shocked reaction I received." It was quiet on the phone.

I love America! I am a republican and some of my best friends are democrats. My husband is a democrat and our votes probably cancel each other out, but that's what makes this country great! We can never go too far left or right. If you are a democrat, be nice to a republican today. If you are a republican, be nice to a democrat today. That's all I'm ever going to say about politics.

RECOGNIZING AN ABUSIVE RELATIONSHIP

from the American Counseling Association
It's an unfortunate situation, and one that happens all too frequently, that people get trapped in an unhealthy and abusive relationship. And while it sometimes is the man who is being abused, in over 90 percent of reported cases it is the woman who is being victimized.

Abusive relationships aren't always about physical abuse. It also includes sexual and emotional abuse. And while it's pretty clear that if someone hits, pushes, slaps or shakes the other person that abuse is taking place, abuse in other forms is just as real, often more damaging, and actually more frequent than physical abuse. Signs of such abuse include:

- forcing sex when it's not wanted
- name calling and constant put-downs
- frequently checking up on what the person is doing

maintaining total control over money making threats to kill you if you leave, threatening the children, threatening pets keeping you isolated from your family and friends.

Experts report that these forms of sexual and emotional abuse are more common than physical abuse, and can even be much more damaging as they destroy the victim's self-esteem.

While correcting or leaving such a relationship can be difficult, and even sometimes dangerous, there is help available. Today, battered women's shelters are available in many communities. Staffed by caring volunteers and professionals, such shelters work hard to help victims find safety and peace in their lives. Shelters provide temporary housing, meals, clothing, and safety. Many shelters also provide medical care, childcare, counseling, job training, and transitional housing.

Fortunately, today there is a much wider recognition of the abuse problem. A starting point for many victims of abuse is a phone call to the National Domestic Violence Hotline at 1-800-799-7233. They can offer confidential information, support and resources for victims of abuse. They also offer assistance for someone who recognizes that his or her behaviors may be harmful to a partner.

No one should stay in an abusive relationship. If you're in such a relationship, call the Hotline or contact a shelter if there is one in your town. If you know of a friend or relative who may be the victim of an abusive relationship, let her or him know that you're there to listen and be supportive without being judgmental. Let them know there are options and encourage them to get help before their situation becomes worse.

ART SHOW

The first community-wide MS Art Show, featuring various art works by individuals with multiple sclerosis, is 4:30-6:30 p.m., Wed., Oct. 4, in the Plassman Athletic Center at Turnstone, 3320 N. Clinton St., Fort Wayne. The free event, which is open to the public, is co-hosted by the Anna Yoder MS Fund at Indiana University School of Medicine-Fort Wayne and by Turnstone.

The event, in open house format, includes tours of Turnstone's new adaptive fitness center and opportunity to talk to the artists and purchase their art. At 5:45 p.m., a panel discussion will take place with several artists on how their lives are being enhanced through their artistic endeavors, followed by a short update by Dr.

Jimmy Yen, lead MS researcher at the medical school, on the work his research team is doing.

"Working collaboratively, Turnstone and the Anna Yoder MS Fund have discovered the greater Fort Wayne area has many talented artists who happen to have multiple sclerosis," said Jennifer Boen, director of the Anna Yoder MS Fund, which provides MS education and outreach services and supports MS research at IU School of Medicine-Fort Wayne. "We want to give opportunity for these individuals to come together and show off their work." Some participants are painters, others are glass makers, photographers or artists using other visual media to express their creativity.

"Collectively, they send a strong message that multiple sclerosis does not define them," Boen said, noting more than 7,000 people in northeast Indiana are living with multiple sclerosis.

Founded in 1943, Turnstone's mission is to empower people with disabilities to achieve their highest potential by providing comprehensive services and programs. It is the only not-for-profit in the region that offers a full range of programs and facilities designed to meet the unique needs of people with disabilities.

"We offer a lot of opportunities specifically in our recreation and adult day programs for people to express their creativity, despite their disability," said Tina Acosta, Turnstone's Director of Program Outreach. "This event is a wonderful opportunity for the artists to display their work and to show how a disability can be turned into a possibility."

Artists who are either living with MS or related to an individual with MS are invited to participate. There is no cost involved. To register or for more information, call Boen at 260-481-0577 or email her at jboen@iu.edu.

GETTING READY FOR BACK TO SCHOOL: HOW SETTING GOALS CAN HELP

GENERATION Z STUDENTS EXCEL IN THE NEW SCHOOL YEAR

(BPT) - Generation Z, born between 1995 and 2012, is the first generation to grow up with a widespread use of digital tools. While technology is now part of everyday life, it's important to remember that writing things down can be the first step to getting them done, especially when it comes to identifying and achieving goals for the upcoming school year.

David Stillman, coauthor of "Gen Z @ Work," speaker and generations expert, explains that this generation lives in a "phigital" world - they seamlessly combine their digital and physical surroundings. "While Gen Z has grown up in a world full of the latest technology, when it comes to education, we find they value a combination of both analog and digital tools to help them achieve goals and get through daily tasks," Stillman says.

According to a recent study commissioned by the Post-it Brand, 79 percent of Gen Zers write down their goals on paper.

The American Legion Auxiliary marion Unit #10 hosted the August 12 Fifth District meeting following a dinner served from 5 to 7 p.m. Unit #10 Auxiliary President Pat Brown welcomed District President, Roxy Stoner, district officers and delegates from units Frankton #469, Hartford City #159, Jonesboro #95, Kokomo #6, Laketon #402, Marion #10, Montpelier #156, Roanoke #160, Tipton #46, Van Buren #368 and Wabash #15.

Reports were given on the State Convention held in July at the Indianapolis Marriott East and awards received by several Unit members, District officers and chairmen were distributed. Fifth District was well recognized and Congratulations to each and all for a job-well-done! Julie Webb, Van Buren Unit #368 of Van Buren, presented Past President, Linda Torpy of Laketon Unit #402, with the Prayer Book, compiled with Prayers and Inspirational Thoughts from friends and Units of the District 28 Units. The book received first place of the eleven districts entered at the Department convention.

Membership chairman, Julie Webb of Van Buren #368 urged Units to send membership to Department early and 25% was 'goal' set for September 10 Legion Day at Department Headquarters.

President Stoner urged Units to attend the Fall Conference September 29 to receive the programs and goals set to carry-out the Department President Judy Morris's theme for 2017-2018 ... "Reflecting Our Past - to Better Serve Our Veterans".

A meeting for Junior Auxiliary members will be held on September 23 at American Legion Post #500.

Marion VA Hospital representative, Lori Linton of Van Buren Unit #369, reported 165 veterans currently at Marion VA and it is not too early to send items and/or monetary donations for the annual Gift Wrap on November 29. Volunteers are always welcome and the veterans enjoy the smiling faces and the Christmas camaraderie.

SMYTH

Robert Carl Smyth, 89 of Warren, passed away Thursday, August 17, 2017 at Heritage

Pointe, Warren, In. Bob was born April 11, 1928 in Detroit, Mi. to Carl and Mae (Kreischer) Smyth. He lived his formative years in Bellville, near Warren, where his parents owned and operated the Bellville Mill.

Bob graduated from Jefferson Township High School in 1946, where he was point guard for the basketball team, and was class president. He started his college education at Purdue University eventually transferring to the University of Cincinnati for the coop program in industrial design.

He was a member of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

On August 30, 1953, Bob and Nancy Gebhart were united in marriage at the Congregational Christian Church, Warren now the United Church of Christ.

Following graduation from the University of Cincinnati Bob entered the Air Force pilot training where, as a captain, he flew T-33 Single Engine jet, and F-100 Super Sabre Jet aircraft. While stationed in Las Vegas, Nevada he was assigned to a radar site on Mount Charleston that overlooked the yucca flats where he and Nancy were able to watch the atomic bomb testing that was taking place.

After leaving the service Bob accepted a job with Endicott Church Furniture in Warsaw, Indiana. He owned and operated Smyth Manufacturing, and eventually retired from Shuttleworth, Inc, Huntington, In. After retirement, Bob and Nancy opened Handcrafters Marketplace in Warren, which was a crafts store that featured the work of local artisans. In addition, Bob was an avid volunteer and board member of the Pulse Opera House, Warren.

Bob loved life and his family.

He lived his life with unbridled curiosity and infectious optimism. An avid reader, Bob was always good for an inspirational quote, or a good story. Later in life Bob enjoyed walking their retired racing greyhound, Russell, whom he said taught him many things about life. He was always very proud of all their children, Cynthia (Ron) Smyth-Wartzok, Warren, Todd Smyth, Bethesda. Md, Steve (Janice) Smyth, St Louis, Mo, and Chad (Stephanie) Smyth, Larwill, and six grandchildren.

Family and friends may gather to share and remember Bob at the United Church of Christ, 202 E 2nd St, Warren, IN on Sunday, August 20, 2017 from 2:00 PM to 5:00 PM. and one hour prior to service on Monday, August 21, 2017.

A service to celebrate his life will be at the United Church of Christ, Monday, August 21, 2017 at 10:00 AM with Scott Nedberg officiating. Interment will follow in the Woodlawn Cemetery, Warren. Graveside Military rites will be conducted by the United States Air Force.

Preferred memorials: To the Pulse Opera House, P. O. Box 631, Warren, In 46792.

Arrangements are being handled by Glancy- H. Brown and Sons, Warren, In .

Jonah Stillman, a recent Gen Z high school graduate who writes and speaks about Gen Z with his father David, adds, "While I use technology all day long, when it comes to lists and goal setting, when I write things down it signals that it needs to be done and it's not as easy to forget."

To help Gen Z prepare for back to school, David and Jonah offer tips for parents to help their students excel in the new school year.

Combine the analog and the digital. Getting and staying organized is easier when students have the tools that work best for them. "When it comes to education and learning strategies, analog tools can complement the digital tools that Gen Z is so entrenched in," states David Stillman. Post-it Super Sticky

Notes are an easy way for students to jot down quick, digestible thoughts as they are studying and with two times the sticking power, they stick and re-stick so information can seamlessly be organized and rearranged.

Keep track of to-dos. According to the same study from the brand, 89 percent of Gen Z respondents reported they forgot to do a task or missed a deadline specifically because they didn't write it down. Having List Notes on hand can help students keep track of their tasks and they are easy to take on the go to keep to-dos front and center.

Schedule "non-digital" time. While technology is an everyday presence, it can also be disruptive.

Fifty-seven percent of Gen Z explain they are often distracted by TV and social media, so it's important to take a physical and mental break from electronic devices. Encourage students to set aside "non-digital" time each day to read and have face-to-face communication. Students can use this time to focus on studying, school work or the goals they are trying to achieve.

Mark what's important. Encourage students to use Flags and Tabs to help them mark important information, whether it's a new fact to study from their notebook, key material from a textbook or even a goal in their planner that they are working toward. Marking essential information will ensure that no time is wasted getting to the right page and gives more time to focus on the task at hand.

Write it down to achieve it. Research has found that you're 42 percent more likely to get something done if you write it down. At the beginning of the school year, sit down with students to help them identify and write down their goals. Check in regularly about their progress and visit Post-it.com to check out additional tips on goal setting and how students can #makeitstick this school year.

Survey details: The Post-it Brand Gen Z Survey was conducted by Wakefield Research (www.wakefieldresearch.com) among 1,000 U.S. "Gen Z" respondents ages 13-21, between June 7 and June 15, 2017, using an email invitation and an online survey.

PETS HELP SENIORS STAY HEALTHIER AND HAPPIER, WHEREVER THEY LIVE, STUDIES SHOW

(BPT) - French novelist Sidonie-Gabrielle Collette once said, "Our perfect companions never have fewer than four feet." Pets provide meaningful social support for owners, and they can be especially beneficial for seniors. Ample research shows pet ownership delivers physical and mental health benefits for seniors, regardless of whether they're living on their own or in a senior living community.

However, many older Americans still mistakenly believe moving into a senior living community means they'll have to leave their pets behind. In fact, the fear they'll have to give up a beloved pet is among the top emotional reasons seniors don't want to move into senior living, according to author and senior real estate specialist Bruce Nemovitz. In an informal survey by Nemovitz, seniors ranked losing a pet as emotionally jarring as having to leave their familiar homes and possessions.

"Senior living communities like Brookdale Senior Living are all about supporting the physical health and mental well-being of residents," says Carol Cummings, senior director of Optimum Life.

"For many senior citizens, pets are an important part of their lives. It makes sense to preserve the bond between pet and senior owner whenever possible."

Physical benefits Pet ownership benefits senior citizens in multiple ways, research shows. Older people who own dogs are likely to spend 22 additional minutes walking at a moderately intense pace each day, according to a recent study by The University of Lincoln and Glasgow Caledonian University. Published in BioMed Central, the study also found dog owners took more than 2,700 more steps per day than non-owners.

Multiple studies have also concluded that pet ownership can help lower blood pressure, contribute to improved cardiovascular health and reduce cholesterol.

Mental health

Interacting with pets also has many mental health benefits, especially for seniors. Spending time with pets can help relieve anxiety and increase brain levels of the feel-good neurochemicals serotonin and dopamine. Pets can help relieve depression and feelings of loneliness.

The online journal Current Gerontology and Geriatrics Research reports multiple studies indicate dementia patients who interact with animals become more social, are less agitated and have fewer behavioral issues.

Pets in senior living settings "For too long, some senior living communities didn't recognize the value of allowing residents to bring their pets with them," Cummings says. "That has definitely changed."

For seniors looking for a community that will accept their pets, Cummings suggests a few questions to ask:

* What is your pet policy and what type of animal do you consider a pet? Generally, small dogs, cats, birds, rabbits, rats, hamsters, fish, turtles and other small companion animals qualify for pet policies. Seniors should check to be sure their pet meets the standards of the community.

* What is your pet health policy? Typically, senior living communities that accept small pets will want them to be current on all vaccinations and have regular exams by a licensed veterinarian. Pets will also need to have any required state- or county-issued licenses.

* What, if any, kind of training do you require pets to have? Requiring dogs to be house-trained and cats to be litter-trained is standard. Communities will also want to know your pet is well-behaved and not aggressive. They may ask you to have pets obedience trained.

* Do you offer any assistance with pet-related tasks? Most communities will require residents be able to care for pets themselves, including feeding, walking, potty needs and health needs.

"Moving into a senior living community is a big change, one that most residents find positive," Cummings says. "They gain freedom from home maintenance tasks and household chores, a socially rewarding environment, and as-needed support for healthcare and daily care. As long as seniors are still able to care for their pets, there's no reason they shouldn't be allowed to bring their best friends with them to their new homes."

FORWARD-THINKING YARD PROJECTS TO TACKLE AS THE WEATHER COOLS OFF THIS FALL

(BPT) - The temperature may not have dropped just yet, but make no mistake, fall is coming. Soon enough, baseball will give way to football, green leaves will turn yellow and red and your lawn care routine will take on a whole new set of tasks. Fall lawn care isn't the long marathon of the summer yard season, but it packs plenty of work into a few short months before the winter. You can make this lawn care blitz a little bit easier by applying the following tips.

* Stimulate your lawn. While your grass may no longer need its weekly mowing in the fall, you can't ignore it until spring. Look for brown, tan or white patches on your lawn, as this can be a sign of mold growth. Apply a lawn fungicide to halt this growth and an organic fertilizer to stop its spread and support future root growth.

* Blow those leaves away. Raking leaves can be a Herculean task, so simplify the process by investing in a lithium-ion blower. The Greenworks 60-volt Backpack Blower is a heavy-duty solution perfect for homeowners with a quarter to three-quarters of an acre to cover. And for yard-lovers that prefer a handheld blower, Greenworks has you covered there too! Both solutions are lightweight and reduce noise while eliminating emissions, and because they're battery powered, you don't have to bother with mixing gas and oil.

* Seed and sod. If you do notice patches of dead grass in your yard - a common occurrence if fallen leaves have not been blown away - don't wait until spring to address the issue. Overseeding the area can rectify the problem if the spaces are small. If your lawn has significant portions that have died, it may be time to look into sodding options instead for more comprehensive coverage.

* A fresh spray clean. A season's worth of wind and rain can leave the sides of your home looking pretty dingy. Fall cleanup is the perfect time to give your home a reset by spraying down your siding, decks, and patios. Greenworks 2200 PSI Electric Pressure Washer is an environmentally friendly gas-alternative solution with five nozzles that allow you to adjust the tool's water pressure based on the task at hand. The pressure washer is also designed with Smart Response Technology to adjust motor RPMs as nozzles are changed, ensuring the perfect water flow for every job - and the on board LED display guides you to the best job for each nozzle, letting you clean your home in a smart, efficient way.

* A hole in the ground supports future growth. Fall is arguably the best time of year to aerate your yard, allowing water, oxygen and fertilizer to more easily reach the root structure of your grass. Self-propelled aerators are relatively inexpensive, and you can also rent one if you plan to make this a once-a-year chore. Whatever you decide, tackling this chore now will allow your lawn to grow back thicker and fuller next year when it will be time to start thinking about spring lawn care once again.
