MEETING TO DISCUSS

CURBSIDE RECYCLING

The Huntington County Solid Waste Management District Board of Directors will be holding a special meeting to discuss funding a proposed countywide curbside recycling program with a $54 special assessment on all residential properties in Huntington County. This new assessment would be combined with elimination of the district's current property tax and CAGIT rates.

The meeting will be held Saturday, April 12th at 10:00 a.m. at Huntington University, Dowden Science Hall Room 224, 2100 College Ave, Huntington.

Members of the public are encouraged to attend the meeting to provide feedback on the proposal.

For more information, contact Jonathan Leist, District Director, at 260-358-4886.

BASEMENT NEWS

A TASTE OF SPRING

Are your calendars marked for Saturday evening, May 3rd?! The Warren Area Chamber of Commerce's Fifth Annual "A Taste of Spring" will be held on Saturday, May 3, 2014 at Dogwood Glen's Banquet Facility in Warren. This year's fundraiser is featuring Hors d'oeuvres and a silent auction. The event begins at 7:30 p.m., and tickets are $35 per person. VIP admission is at 6:30 p.m. Tickets for the VIP admission are $50 per person. Tickets will be available soon for purchase at several local businesses. Proceeds to benefit the Warren Downtown Park Project.

If anyone is interested in donating to the silent auction, please contact Jeff Souder at 260-375-6199. Items for the silent auction may be dropped off to Jill Huston at Heritage Pointe or Claudia Boxell at IAB Financial Bank. Items will need to be donated by April 26th, a week prior to the event.

Support your community and please join us for this years "A Taste of Spring." Bring a friend or date and enjoy a night out, while sampling handcrafted wines and homemade Hors d'oeuvres and desserts. The Warren Chamber hopes to see you all there!

HOG ROAST

Solid Rock United Methodist Church, Warren, will sponsor a hog roast at the church, 485 Bennett Drive, on March 29, 2014. Proceeds will go toward the construction of an outdoor worship area. Noon and evening meals will be available.

Carry-out meals will be served from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. This meal will include roast pork, barbecue sauce, coleslaw, and dessert.

The evening meal, served from 4:30 to 7:00 p.m., will be a sit-down dinner with a menu featuring roast pork, barbecue sauce, buttered potatoes, green beans, dinner rolls, dessert, and drink.

A freewill donation will be accepted for both meals.

SUNDAY LUNCH

Beta Delta Chapter of Sigma Phi Gamma sorority is hosting the April Sunday Luncheon. Sunday April 6th from 11am-1pm at the Knight Bergman Center. Menu includes baked steak, ham, scalloped potatoes, assorted vegetables, assorted salads, desserts & drinks. Adults $8, kids age 6-12 are $6 and 5 & under are free.

CEMETERY MEETING

The Lancaster Cemetery Association will hold its annual meeting on Thursday April 10, at the Salamonie Church of the Brethren at 7:00 p.m. Financial updates and other information will be given. Anyone owning spaces at the cemetery or having questions regarding the cemetery is invited to attend. The church is located on IN 124 just south of the cemetery.

SCHOLARSHIPS AVAILABLE

The Warren Gamma Upsilon Chapter of Tri Kappa is making available scholarships to graduating high school seniors of the Warren area. Scholarship forms are available in the guidance counselor's office in both Southern Wells High School, and Huntington North High School.

We encourage all likely candidates to apply, as we are interested in helping young scholars further their education.

Please send applications to: Christy Neuenschwander, 1420 Halliday Drive, Warren, IN 46792. Deadline is May 17, 2014.

IMPORTANT MESSAGE TO WARREN CABLE TV CUSTOMERS

The co-op that Warren Cable uses is in contract discussions with Viacom, the parent company of MTV, VH1, Comedy Central, CMT, SPIKE, Nickelodeon and TV Land. Our existing agreement with them expires on March 31, 2014. Although we are working to negotiate a fair price for these networks, after March 31, Viacom may turn off their networks or require us to remove all their channels until a new agreement is secured. At this point the two parties are very far apart on price so losing the channels for a period of time is a very real possibility. We are looking at suitable replacement channels in the event the above mentioned channels cannot be retained. You can visit TVOnMySide.com to learn more about cable TV negotiations.

HIGN Co Ag Day

Huntington County Ag Day will be held at Hier's Park on Thursday March 27. Third grade students from public, private, and home schools in Huntington County will participate in this event.

The Huntington County Extension Office has coordinated an Ag Day event each spring for many years to educate third grade students about agriculture. Individuals who work in agriculture-related fields have volunteered their time and talents to make this program a success.

There are a total of thirteen learning stations at this event. These stations include topics involving animal agriculture, crops, machinery and food safety. Teachers are provided a question for each topic in advance to help prepare the students. Every child attending the program receives an activity book and other educational items donated by area businesses and state-wide agricultural commodity organizations.

The material presented incorporates academic standards to allow this educational program to be taught outside the traditional classroom. Approximately 40 volunteers will be assisting Purdue Extension Staff with teaching the students.

Many people in Huntington County are employed in farm or farm-related jobs, including production agriculture, farm inputs, processing and marketing and wholesale and retail sales. According to the most recent Indiana Ag Statistics Report (2010), Huntington County farms generated $145,938,000 in annual crop and livestock income. Huntington County ranks 27th out of 92 Indiana counties for cash farm receipts.

Opportunities exist for young people to pursue agricultural college degrees. There are

KUDOS, KICKS & KARATS

THE UPTOWN GARDENER

by Ruth Herring

Looks as if winter is going to hang around for a few more days, one thing for sure March is nearly over so surely it has got to get better. March for me is the longest and most tiresome time of the year.

Just this week I received an order of plants and I thought sure with the ground froze who in their right mind would try to plant anything now. I many times have planted peas on ST Patrick day but not this year with a few inches of remaining snow where I could have put them.

Tonite as I set here trying to get inspired to write I can see a beautiful sunset and that is something I really enjoy having a good view of it each evening. Will be glad when I can sit on the patio and with a cup of coffee and really enjoy it.

This week I am having our 4 year great gran here one day and we are going to start flower seeds in pots and hopefully get them growing to plant outside when time is right. This is a 4 year old going on 21 so this may be an experience, but I have all confidence that I will make a gardener out of her. I am certain I might be the one who really get an education, but I will make it a fun day for both of us.

In all this snow and cold weather I do have spring bulbs coming up and some of the hyacinth I can see the blooms forming and for sure they will get nipped from the cold or frost a few times but they are strong little guys that can stand the cold.

This week it has been a real struggle to think of something to write and hopefully next time I will do better for my faithful readers which I appreciate very much. It has been 6 years that I started this column and as I have told a few I have dug up all "printable" memories of my family so bear with me till next time.

Soon we hope the fresh veggies will be coming off the early garden and I especially like on my salad of fresh greens the dressing I make. It is like French Dressing. It takes 4 teaspoon of grated onion, 2 teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cup sugar, 1/4 cup lemon juice, 1 cup catsup, 2 cups oil, 1 cup vinegar, 1 tablespoon celery seed, put all in blender except for the oil, Blend for about 1 minute or bit longer making sure it is all mixed in well. Last slowly add oil while blender is running on slow speed. This will make about 2 pints and I generally make half recipe each time. This is good on salads and also tasty on fried potatoes. This sometimes turns out rather thick if so add a bit more oil to make it a good consistency for pouring.

Enjoy and HAPPY SPRING.

many possible majors. Food Science, Agricultural and Biological Engineering and Agricultural Economics are just a few options.

One recent study involves the shortage of college graduates to fill need. The USDA "Employment Opportunities for College Graduates in Food, Renewable Energy, and the Environment, 2010-2015" report projected 53,500 qualified graduates will be available for about 54,400 jobs annually the agricultural and food systems, renewable energy and the environment.

Note that there are many different ways in which communities celebrate Ag Day across the U.S. However, the intent of every county Ag Day is to recognize and celebrate the abundance provided by agriculture. The National Ag Day Web site provides more details (<http://www.agday.org>).

LOVE UNITY FEAST

Postponed from March 2, the fifth annual Love Unity Feast will be Sunday, April 6 from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. at Hier's Park-Heritage Hall. Sponsored by area churches, the meal features chicken and noodles or a roast pork dinner plus side dishes and dessert. Cost is $8.00 for adults and $4.00 for children 10 and younger. There will also be a bake sale. The Joy Pleasers clown ministry will entertain the young and young at heart.

New this year is a pie auction beginning at 12:30. Steve Ness, Ness Bros. Real Estate & Auction Co, will be auctioning pies donated by Glenda Giggy, Grandma Sue's Pies, Kim's Katered Affair, Nadean's Cakes/Cookies/Catering, Nancy's Country Café, Nick's Kitchen, Serendipity Sweets, The Country Post and Victory Noll.

All proceeds from the event will go to Love In The Name of Christ. In 2013 Love INC served 4680 people, or 12.6 percent of Huntington County. Located at 715 Byron St, ministries include the Clearinghouse, Food Pantry, Supply Closet, Diaper Depot, Loving Neighbors and Covered With Love.

Tickets will be sold at the door. No ticket is needed for the pie auction.

SWINE BOOSTERS

The Huntington County Swine Boosters will meet on Tuesday April 1 at 7:00 p.m. in the Huntington Co. Courthouse Annex Conference Room (first floor). The discussion items include swine barn improvements, 4-H swine enrollment updates for 2014, Pork Quality Assurance (PQA) training and other old/new business. 4-H SPONSOR

OPPORTUNITIES

Plans are progressing for this year's 4-H Fair, July 19-24. The Wells County 4-H Association, which helps to organize and conduct the fair, recently announced the fair sponsorship program for 2014.

The Wells County 4-H Fair continues to be a free fair (no gate admission or parking fee) thanks to the many sponsors. In our area, Huntington, Adams and Whitley County 4-H Fairs also continue to be free.

Sponsorship funds help to provide the evening entertainment, sound system used throughout the fair, the popular 4-H Spirit Night and the 4-H Talent Contest along with other events and activities.

This year's sponsor levels include: Diamond Supporter, $1000; Gold Supporter, $500; Day Supporter, $300; Silver Supporter, $100; Bronze Supporter, $50; and Crystal Supporter, $25. Each of the levels has various donor recognition ranging from the Fair Scrapbook tabloid to the year-long fair supporter sign at the 4-H Park.

Sponsorship forms are due by May 12 in order to be included on the 4-H fair supporter sign for the 2014 fair.

For information about becoming a Wells County 4-H Fair sponsor, contact the Wells County Office of the Purdue Extension Service, 824-6412 or visit the web site for a flyer, www.extension.purdue.edu/wells.

4-H DEADLINE NEARING

Wells County 4-H membership forms for 2014 are due on Tuesday, April 1 at the Wells County Office of the Purdue Extension Service located at 1240 4-H Park Road, Bluffton.

4-H membership is open to all youth grades 3-12. The membership fee is $20 per person with a fee cap of $60 per family. Youth in shooting sports clubs have an additional supply fee. Scholarships are available upon request.

Youth in grades 1 and 2 may join mini 4-H. Membership forms for Mini 4-H are due May 1.

For more information on joining a 4-H Club contact the Wells County Office of the Purdue Extension Service at 824-6412 or www.extension.purdue.edu/wells.

HUNTINGTON UNIVERSITY FEEDS THE FARMERS

Huntington University celebrated National Ag Day in a special way, feeding the farmers who typically feed us. Having no agriculture department yet, Huntington University is looking to expand and offer an agriculture program while still focusing on their Christian values. University President, Dr. Sherilyn Emberton welcomed local members of the agriculture community and FFA members in the Upper Level of Habecker Dining Commons on March 25, 2014. FFA chapters represented included Manchester, Jay County, Columbia City, Southern Wells, and Huntington North. Dr. Emberton was enthusiastic about the possibility of a program starting at the university.

She introduced a team of students who competed and won a statewide agriculture marketing plan competition "Promoting the Good Works of Indiana Agriculture" with their idea of "Hoosier Grown". Thirty teams from 17 Indiana colleges and universities submitted entries in the competition sponsored by Lieutenant Governor Sue Ellspermann. The purpose was to promote agriculture to young Hoosiers. The team from Huntington University led by faculty advisor Dr. Ann McPherrren was awarded a $25,000 check. This team comprised of seven students, all from various fields of study, none being agriculture. These students have a background in agriculture and hope to portray Indiana agriculture in the best light possible. Team

Their "Hoosier Grown" campaign proposes a new brand image, an integrated social-media marketing plan, and increase in awareness of the agriculture economy and opportunities. The prize money was graciously provided by sponsors including Indiana Soybean Alliance, Indiana Corn marketing Council, Elanco, and Indiana Farm Bureau. Congratulations Huntington University!

Guest speaker, Senator Carlin Yoder spoke about the issues the senate has been tackling within the last year. Senator Yoder is from District 12 and serves on the committee for Agriculture and Natural Resources, Chair Education and Career Development, and R.M. Utilities. He fully backs the agriculture industry and believes in the Right to Farm and the Right to Hunt and Fish. He believes that there is room for everyone and agriculture must come together and stick together to protect against those who are threatening a vital industry that is "the backbone of what Hoosiers are all about". Yoder wants to continue to bring Indiana to the forefront of agriculture and keep the state thriving.

Huntington University hopes to one day reach a wider variety of students through agriculture education while providing a strong Christian environment. Their Feed the Farmers luncheon offers the highest level of appreciation for the industry as well as those who work hard to take care of the land.

HP POOL

There were 16 residents that entered the pool tournament at Heritage Pointe on March 21st. The winners were Floyd Blake and Ralph Taylor with Larry Langdon and Norm Hiser finishing second. The in-house play is held every Friday at 1:30 in the Fults recreation room. The in-house tournament will be held on Monday April 14 and Tuesday April 15th starting at 9:00am with coffee and rolls available at 8:30. The public is invited to watch.

GRADUATES BASIC

Army Pvt. Keith A. Myers has graduated from basic infantry training at Fort Benning, Columbus, Ga.

During the nine weeks of training, the soldier received training in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, physical fitness, first aid, and Army history, core values and traditions. Additional training included development of basic combat skills and battlefield operations and tactics, and experiencing use of various weapons and weapons defenses available to the infantry crewman.

Myers is the son of Dana Myers of Van Buren.

He is a 2012 graduate of Eastbrook High School, Marion.

RABBIT WORKSHOP

Youth and adults interested in the 4-H Rabbit Project are invited to a Rabbit Workshop Monday, April 7, 7 PM at the Wells County Community Center, 4-H Park, Bluffton.

Tips on getting started in the project and feeding rabbits will be covered.

4-H youth are reminded that membership forms for 2014 are due April 1 at the County Extension Office.

Youth in grades three and above may join 4-H and participate in the Rabbit Project. Youth in grades 1 and 2 may join Mini 4-H and are invited to attend any of the Rabbit Workshops.

Future Rabbit Workshops will be held May 5 and June 9. A Rabbit Identification day will be held on June 30 at the 4-H Park.

For more information about the 4-H Rabbit Project, contact Lisa Boxell at 260-694-6265, David Kilander at 260-228-0033, or the Wells County Office of Purdue Extension at 260-824-6412.

4-H GOATS

The 4-H Goat Project across Indiana and in Wells County continues to grow each year in popularity. Last year, 4-H youth in Wells County exhibited goats at the fair.

Through the years the type and breed of animals exhibited in the goat project has changed. In the 1980's and 1990's the dairy goat breeds such as Alpine, Nubian, Oberhasli, Saanen, Toggenburg, LeMancha and Nigerian Dwarf were very popular. After 2000 many exhibitors have shifted to exhibit a meat breed such as Boer, Kiko, Myotonic or fainting goat, Savannah, Spanish, Pigmy or a Crossbred.

One of the reasons that youth enjoy the 4-H Goat Project is because goats can be very curious animals. They also like to climb and be on top of things. These things help make them fun to raise.

One of the new changes for the goat project in 2014 will be the electronic enrollment of the animals. The traditional paper enrollment form listing the goat's breed, birthday, etc. will now be entered into an online enrollment system coordinated by the State 4-H Department.

Complete details will be sent to goat members in April. The details will include information about the Goat/Sheep ID Day, Sat. May 3, 8-10 AM at the 4-H Park in Bluffton. An online enrollment night will also be held Monday, May 12, 6-8 PM at the 4-H Park Community Center in Bluffton.

For more information about joining 4-H and the Goat Project, contact the Wells County Office of the Purdue Extension Service, 8 2 4 - 6 4 1 2, www.extension.purdue.edu/wells, or Goat Superintendent, Bruce Price 260-827-8165.

BEING PREPARED

As part of Severe Weather Preparedness Week, the Indiana Department of Homeland Security advises Hoosiers to locate important documents before disaster strikes. Having access to these documents can expedite the recovery process.

According to a 2013 survey of Hoosiers, more than half of Indiana households who responded did not have important and hard-to-replace documents safely stored and had not included copies of them as part of a preparedness kit in the event of a disaster or emergency. It is helpful to have these documents organized and safely stored regardless, and now can be a good time to set a goal of gathering these documents as part of tax preparation.

"Having important financial and other documents organized in a safe place can be very helpful in the event of an emergency," said IDHS Senior Public Information Officer John Erickson. "We also encourage Hoosiers to have copies of important and hard-to-replace documents in a 'grab-and-go' box or folder should it become necessary to quickly evacuate their home. The November tornadoes are an example of the importance of having vital documents stored properly."

Below is a list of important and often hard-to-replace documents to consider making copies of so they can be taken along in the event of an evacuation. Erickson says a binder, expandable file or box is fine, as long as it's portable and to remember that most of these documents will be copies. He adds to always be sure to store originals in a secure, dry place like a fire safe or lockbox. Having important information in one place is invaluable, whether or not there is an emergency. IDHS suggests gathering and copying:

- Vital records: birth certificates; marriage licenses; passports; adoption records; property and auto records (deeds, titles, leases); insurance policies (auto, home, renter's, umbrella policies)

- Document locator: tells others where originals are stored

- Financial information: list of all bank account numbers; copies of the front and back of each credit card; list of all retirement, pension, investment account numbers; mortgage and loan information; payroll and benefit information

- Medical information: copies of health, life and disability insurance cards and policies; medical history of each family member; list of medications and prescriptions, including dose and pharmacy; details about any ongoing treatments or conditions

- Contacts: contact information for friends and extended family members; neighbors who have access to your home; physicians and specialists; financial

IS YOUR TECHNOLOGY

WORKING FOR YOU?

(BPT) - For every new computer, gadget or service there are several different stages of ownership. Unfortunately, the first and happiest phase - the honeymoon - doesn't last forever. Eventually, devices can slow, services get outdated, and in the end, the ailing technology begins to work against you.

Stay ahead of the curve and prevent reduced productivity by maintaining your machines, upgrading your services and adopting new technologies. Here are five ways to make technology work better for you.

1. Go paperless

Reduce the desk and office clutter by cutting down on the paper scattered about. Tablets and other devices are making it easier than ever to go paperless. For example, a digital scanner can turn paper into PDF files, allowing you to take on clients, no matter where they are. "I have clients nationwide and internationally, and now I'm able to prepare their taxes and do their accounting without having to meet face to face," says accountant Andrew Poulos.

2. Embrace cloud storage

At least 77 percent of cloud-familiar consumers aren't backing up their most important items, according to a recent Harris Poll online study, which means they're missing out on an opportunity to have their files with them, anywhere they are. Using a service like OneDrive allows you to save photos, videos and documents organized all in one place, accessible on any of your devices, anywhere.

3. Upgrade as needed

A simple upgrade can add years of life to your existing devices. For example, adding memory or storage to desktop computers will make them perform better and last longer. Or, instead of upgrading your hard drive, try a network-attached storage device, which will let multiple computers on your network easily connect to shared storage.

Updating your operating system is also smart, but if you use an outdated system like Windows XP, it is easiest to upgrade to a new computer entirely. "In April, Microsoft will no longer provide support for Windows XP," says Kristina Libby, the company's director of public relations. "We understand the upgrade process sounds daunting, but it doesn't have to be. There are great offers and deals for consumers out there, and retailers, like Staples, who offer trained staff to help you choose a Windows 8.1 PC or tablet that's right for you."

4. Pack more power

The more you use a mobile device, like a tablet or smartphone, the faster the battery will drain. So make sure you have plenty of power to keep your electronics working. That's what San Francisco-based DataSong does, equipping everyone at the marketing analytics agency with portable USB-powered batteries. "Having power banks to charge our phones in an emergency has been incredibly productive," says Traci Lee Chu, the company's vice president of marketing. Frequently on the road or working on site with clients, DataSong staffers use the backup power to keep their smartphones and tablets connected to the company's big data apps.

5. Leverage the right email tools to keep you organized

Email is one of the most used technology services. In fact, the average person will receive more than 10,000 emails this year, according to The Radicati Group, Inc. Fortunately, you can take control of your inbox and increase your productivity with a number of tools and features so you can easily manage and get to the mail that matters to you most.

The first step most users take when cleaning their Inbox is to get rid of emails that they don't want. For these emails, features like Sweep in Outlook.com allow you to easily delete (and, if you want, block) emails in bulk by deleting a large number of emails from certain senders, keeping only the latest and most relevant messages. This is especially helpful for daily deal mails, or if you want to easily unsubscribe from unwanted mail altogether, try using the simple one-click unsubscribe feature.

6. There's always a solution Technology, like any tool, should make your job easier. In general, if you find your devices and services are slowing you down instead of speeding your productivity along, stop and assess the problem. From simple workflow tweaks to total system overhauls, there's always a solution to get you back on task and make you more efficient than ever.

TAX FILING AND PLANNING TIPS FOR SMALL BUSINESS OWNERS

(BPT) - With an April 15 tax deadline looming, businesses across the country are preparing to file their 2013 taxes. Tax season can be both an administrative and financial burden. New data reports that only 41 percent of small business owners feel very confident they are maximizing their tax benefits for the 2013 year, according to a recent Spark Business OmniPulse Survey conducted by Research Now. In fact, 22 percent of business owners plan to file for an extension this year. The survey also suggests small business owners are faced with a lack of resources and tools when it comes to filing their taxes.

Fortunately, there are a variety of ways to help prepare your business for tax season and minimize your tax burden. Capital One has a few tips to help small business owners reduce stress and maximize tax benefits:

* Hire a professional. Meet with your accountant before you begin. Tax laws change every year, so a professional advisor or CPA can offer guidance on the latest legislation surrounding eligible tax deductions. Equip yourself with updated information at IRS.gov.

* Organize (and digitize) your records. Computerizing your paperwork is a good way to streamline operations and find forms quickly. The IRS requires that you keep paperwork from the last seven years, which includes bank and credit card statements, transactions and expenses.

* Manage finances year-round. To help maximize deductions, keep a detailed log of expenses throughout the year to easily reference when tax time rolls around. Based on what you spend, your business can be eligible to write-off office supplies, equipment, furniture, software, travel expenses and more. Consider streamlining all expenses on a business credit card account to help simplify tracking and maximize rewards.

* File for an extension. You still need to pay your bill, but your business could be eligible for a six-month paperwork extension. Nearly 40 percent of business owners say they plan to file for an extension because they don't have the necessary background information. If you do choose to extend, make sure you file the extension by April 15 or else you could be subject to costly fines.

* Do your research. There are other great ways to help relieve your tax burden, like setting up a low-cost 401(k) plan for you and your employees. Knight-Bergman Center Baseball

It is time to start another year of baseball at the KBC diamond. The KBC Baseball Program will provide T-Ball (ages 5-6) and Coaches Pitch (ages 7-8) for both boys and girls. The age is based on your child's age as of June 1, 2014. If your child is age 9 or older, you must apply with the Warren Baseball & Softball League.

If your child is playing in the Huntington County League, then they are not eligible to play at the KBC.

The entry fee is still $20 per child and there will be no fundraiser activity.

Please make checks payable to KBC and mail to:

KBC

PO Box 437

Warren, IN 46792

Deadline for entries is Saturday, March 31, 2014. Entries received after this time will go on a waiting list and will not be guaranteed a place on the team.
