Participants will see a live owl, build a screech owl nesting box, and enjoy a night hike and unique meal.

"The experience of walking through a cold winter's night listening for owls will be a favorite memory for our participants," said Marvin McNew, director of Upper Wabash Interpretive Services. "The pause to listen for sounds from the wild and to notice nature's beauty can bring a wonderful sense of peace."

The program fee is $10 per participant. Advance registration is required by calling (260) 468-2127.

This event is at J. Edward Roush Lake, property office address 517 N. Warren Road, Huntington, 46950. Upper Wabash Interpretive Services itself is located in the Salamonie Interpretive Center, 3691 S. New Holland Road, Andrews, 46702.

PITCH, HIT & RUN

This spring youngsters ages 14 & under will have the unique opportunity to showcase three fundamental baseball skills – pitching, hitting and running - for the once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to compete on-field at the 2007 Major League Baseball All-Star Game.

Pepsi Major League Baseball Pitch, Hit & Run (PHR) is the official skills competition of Major League Baseball. PHR is a great way for youth organizations nationwide to put their town on the map and allow children in their community the opportunity to advance through two levels of competition to compete at a Major League ballpark. Organizations interested in hosting a local competition may visit www.mlb.com/phr.

This free grassroots program is in its 11th year of existence and is designed to provide youth across North America with an integrated competition that recognizes individual excellence in core baseball skills. Children compete in four age groups: 8 & under, 9/10, 11/12, 13/14, and have the chance to advance through four levels of competition, including the Local, Sectional, Team Championship and National Finals.

Once advancing to the MLB Team Championship, participants will compete at a Major League Ballpark. From there, the top four competitors nationwide from each of the four age groups will win a trip to the National Finals to compete for the National Championship during All-Star Week in San Francisco, Calif.

WATER WELL LOANS

Certain low-to moderate-income individuals or families may be eligible for money to construct, repair or improve household water well systems through 1 percent interest loans from the Foundation for Affordable Drinking Water.

The Foundation was established through the National Ground Water Association.

Qualified applicants can borrow up to $8,000 at 1 percent interest for a term not to exceed 20 years. To qualify, households must:

- * Own the home and use it as the principal residence.
- * Have as the primary drinking water source an individual household well system located on the property of the home.
- * Must meet income eligibility requirements.
- * Be located in a city, town or unincorporated area with a population of less than 50,000.

Currently, the program is available in Alabama, Colorado, Idaho,

Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Nebraska, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

The Foundation will not underwrite a loan once a project is underway or has been completed. Most new home construction projects are not eligible.

Another important aspect of the loan program is to educate loan recipients on the importance of regular well maintenance and annual testing of their well system.

Complete information, including application forms and requirements and income eligibility limits, can be accessed by going to www.ngwa.org and clicking on the link for Foundation for Affordable Drinking Water. Applications and additional information can also be obtained by contacting the Foundation at 800-551-7379, or email Paul Humes at phumes@fadw.org.

You also can learn more about the program by going to www.wellowner.org and clicking on "Financing."

"Water is essential, and the Foundation is committed to helping those in greatest need," said Humes, foundation director. "If you have a real need and meet the qualifications for this program, we encourage you to apply."

THE UPTOWN GARDENER

by Ruth Herring

Holidays being over and I am enjoying the seed catalogs and day dreaming of the real spring and just how much I will be able to do this year outside. This weather is great so far as heating bills go but it can be quite a serious situation for vegetation. You may have perennials coming thru the ground, not much can be done to stop the growth. In past years I have waited until the ground froze and tried to cover the growth with mulch. That seems to help as much as anything. Usually if the growth is not to severe the plants will restart in the spring.

This year I have resolved to not worry about it. Not much fun trying to handle a rake and cane at the same time. Just remember Mother Nature always has her way.

I did venture out to check the rose bushes and they were starting to leaf out so I decided to bring in some cuttings and try starting them to see if they will root. So far they look good. It was good to get my hands in some soil again. I surely enjoy my sun room and now have some beautiful geraniums blooming, really feels like spring out there.

I'm sure soon enough we will be blessed with plenty of winter weather.

So each of you have a great rest of the winter.

Here is a really good cookie recipe to share with you. Makes a lot and fills the cookie jar well. At our house you will hear the lid on the cookie jar being moved quite often, especially if the grandkids are here.

Neiman Marcus Cookies

2 cups butter 2 cups brown sugar 2 cups granulated sugar 4 cups flour 2 tsp. soda 2 tsp. baking powder 2 tsp vanilla 4 eggs 24 oz. package semi sweet chocolate chips 18 oz. size Hershey bar shaved. 5 cups rolled oats 3 cups nuts.

Cream butter add sugars, eggs, vanilla. Put rolled oats in blender and blend to fine (like flour). Mix the oats, flour, soda, baking powder together add to the butter mixture alternately with the chocolate and nuts. Take teaspoon of dough and shape into ball on lightly greased cookie sheet and pat down lightly with fork. Bake 350 about 8-10 minutes. Makes about 10 dozen. They freeze well if you have any left. I have also used the mini M&M's in place of the Hershey bar. ENJOY!

LOOK GOOD ...

FEEL BETTER

Parkview Huntington Hospital will be the site for a Look Good ... Feel Better program on Thursday, Jan. 25, from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m., in classroom three on the lower level. The hospital is located at 2001 Stults Rd. in Huntington.

Look Good ... Feel Better is a free program that teaches beauty techniques to women cancer patients in active treatment to help them combat the appearance-related side effects of cancer treatment.

The programs are offered nationwide in comprehensive cancer centers, hospitals, American Cancer Society offices and other community settings.

In the sessions, Look Good ... Feel Better trained, volunteer cosmetologists teach women how to cope with skin changes and hair loss using cosmetics and skin-care products donated by the healthcare industry. The free cosmetic kits provided at these group sessions are available in light, medium, dark and extra dark shades to enhance all complexion types. Women also learn ways to disguise hair loss with wigs, scarves and other accessories.

Look Good ... Feel Better is a free, non-medical product-neutral program offered in partnership with the American Cancer Society, the National Cosmetology Association and the Cosmetic Toiletry and Fragrance Association (CTFA) Foundation, a charitable organization supported by the cosmetic industry.

Space is limited and RSVPs are required. To make a reservation, contact the local American Cancer Society at (260) 471-3911 or (800) 509-7543.

GIVE KIDS A SMILE DAY

On Friday, Feb. 2, dentists across the state will offer free dental treatment to children from low-income families. The event is the fifth annual Give Kids a Smile Day, and local dentists are seeking children who meet the following criteria:

- Are ages 16 and younger
- Do not have access to dental insurance OR are on Medicaid but do not have a dental provider.

Families wishing to make an appointment for their children should call (800) 694-8851.

Pain from untreated tooth decay does not go away; it only gets worse, and makes it difficult for children to eat, sleep and pay attention in school. The Indiana Dental Association recommends children see a dentist before their first birthday, but only three out of five children have seen a dentist before kindergarten. By then, more than half of 6-8 year olds have tooth decay, according to Healthy People 2000 oral health update. The U.S. Surgeon General has called dental disease a "silent epidemic."

"Children's oral health is everyone's business - not just dentists," said Dr. Catherine Perolat, Indiana's Give Kids a Smile chairperson. "With Give Kids a Smile, we can help some children get the dental care they need, but a one-day event will never be enough."

Dental disease can be prevented through regular brushing, flossing and dental visits. Fluoride and sealants are also inexpensive ways to prevent dental disease. When it comes to dental care, money spent on prevention saves a lot more money in the long run.

POWERSCHOOL

HCCSC currently uses a software system called PowerSchool to manage student information such as demographic information (parent/guardian's name, address, phone numbers, etc.); emergency contacts; health information; attendance; and an electronic gradebook that produces the report cards. PowerSchool will allow parents to access some of their child's school information online with a username and password. You will be able to access:

- * Grades - current and historical
- * Attendance records
- * Teacher comments
- * School announcements

More options may be available in the future, such as access to homework assignments and school lunch balances.

HCCSC is currently working to make this feature available beginning Monday, February 5, 2007. In order to provide parents access to their child's information, usernames and passwords must be assigned to each child. Each child's username and password, along with detailed directions for accessing the information, will be mailed home by February 5th based on the mailing address provided the school this fall or when the child was enrolled. If you need to update your mailing address, please do so by contacting your child's school by Friday, January 19th. If you would rather pick up your child's username and password in the school's office instead of having it mailed to you, contact your child's school to make arrangements by Friday, January 19th. If you have any questions, please contact the front office of your child's school.

TAXIDERMY EXHIBIT AND DEMONSTRATION

A wide-ranging taxidermy display representing the work of an area father-and-son team will be featured January through March at the Sheets Wildlife Museum and Learning Center in Huntington.

Bob Sutton has been doing taxidermy nearly 40 years and his son, Rob, now 36, has been involved "most of his life ... since he was old enough to work in the shop." Each now has his own shop (Rob commercially for the last 15 years) and separate clientele, but they also share some customers and work together on some projects.

The Suttons' first involvement with the museum came before its opening, when the duo donated work and talent to replace and repaint a shark fin that had to be cut off to remove the big creature from Sumner Sheets' basement. Now, Sutton's Taxidermy is providing a display of their work to give museum visitors a better idea of how wildlife is preserved. One of the ways they'll be doing that is with a demonstration by Rob on Saturday, Jan. 27, from 2 to 4 p.m. During that time he will be preparing a deer shoulder mount.

Museum customers will be able to watch that work as part of the regular admission price for the day.

Among the specimens the Suttons expect to display are ducks, deer, coyote, fox, javelina and antelope, as well as some of the forms and other tools of the taxidermy trade. They also will have photos illustrating some of their work.

"People are always interested in the range of things we've done and the answer is everything from hummingbirds to grizzly bears," says Bob. "We've done several different African animals, also a musk ox~just about everything."

The most unusual taxidermy job done by the business was the preservation of a two-headed calf.

Both men have a lifelong enthusiasm for hunting and fishing.

Bob, who provided hunter guide services for a couple of years, has hunted in several states, the Northwest Territory, Newfoundland, Canada and the Arctic, with game taken including moose, caribou and musk ox.

His bow hunting experience has included taking elk, bobcat and javelina.

Rob's hunting experience has been primarily in this part of the country, but he also has hunted in Iowa, South Dakota and in Missouri, where he and his father own land that features some good deer and turkey hunting opportunities.

For Bob, his most interesting experience was the musk ox hunt. "It was not just for the hunt, but because of where it was, 500 miles north of the Arctic Circle. It was something different than I'd ever seen before.

"In fishing, one interesting experience was two years ago when I caught an 8-foot sturgeon in Washington state.

"One fishing experience I had always wanted to do never happened because it was scheduled for just a few days after 9-11. It was to the Amazon River. My wife Linda was going to go along and I was going to fish for Peacock Bass, but all flights were canceled because of 9-11 and we couldn't go."

The Buttons' educational taxidermy display will be in place Jan. 9 through the end of March.

New museum hours are Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The phone number is 260-356-9453, the web site is www.wildlifemuseum.org and the e-mail address is sheetswildlife@localnet.net.

Museum Manager Shirley Schug will be able to answer questions about the museum and assist those interested in arranging group tours.

LACE UP THOSE SHOES

by The FlyLady, Marla Cilley Since starting FlyLady, I have continually harped on putting your shoes on your feet each morning. I want you to do this and you are not the exception to the rule.

Several years ago I sold skin care products for Mary Kay. One main rule for that company was that you could not make a single phone call in the morning unless you were totally dressed, and I mean really dressed, all the way to dress shoes. The reason behind this duty was that you act differently when you have clothes and shoes on. You are more professional. The customer can tell when you don't feel good about the way you look, even when you think you do. So if getting dressed makes that big of an impression on someone that can't even see you, then what is going to happen to those that can see you; mainly yourself.

Putting shoes on your feet that lace up are better than slip-ons or sandals, because they are harder to take off. Instead of kicking your shoes off for a quick snooze on the couch, you actually have to go to a bit more trouble. Maybe in that short instant you will realize that there is something more that you can do. With shoes on those feet of yours, your mind says it's time to go to work. You have no excuse for not taking the trash out or putting that box of give-away stuff into the car. You are literally ready for anything. Believe me, when you get that call from school that your child needs you, or that dear friend calls up and says that she needs to talk, "can we have lunch?" You are ready! including shoes.

I see this problem more in the Stay at home Moms because they don't leave home for their job and it is not necessary to get dressed every morning, only their children are going to see them. I want you to listen very closely. You have the most important job of all, raising productive adults. NOW do you want your children to remember that mom didn't get dressed until it was time for Dad to get home or do you want them to have to answer the door because you are still in your gown tail and bathrobe. If you would look at your day just like other people who leave the house, get up and get dressed all the way to shoes because it is time to go to work. Your day will be more productive with shoes on.

I don't want to hear that you don't wear shoes in your house. Buy or clean up a pair just for that reason. It's not going to be you who tracks in the dirt anyway. You are still the boss and you can require your children to remove their shoes. What is the problem here? In most homes you have had trouble even finding the floor, much less keeping the carpet clean. Do you even know what color it is supposed to be? And when you vacuum once or twice a week the dirt goes away. Teach your children to not track in stuff. Have a mat outside the door for them to remove unwanted dirt and mud. I bet you have 10 pair of shoes at the door right now. What does that do to your vacuuming schedule? Make the kids take their shoes outside and clean them up, then take to their rooms. If they had to pay for those expensive tennis shoes they would take better care of them.

That is enough of my rant today. Now get dressed and put those shoes on your lovely on your feet. No excuses! Lace up your shoes and start to FLY!

MEAL MAKING BEGINS WITH BASIC SKILLS

by The Dinner Diva, Leanne Ely Losing weight is by far, the most popular New Year's resolution. A lot of people start fad diets in the New Year but give up before long and go back to old habits. One healthy practice that will make a big difference is cooking your own food. To do that, you need to cook and in order to cook, you need some basic skills.

Basic skills translate into meal making, which is also a crucial component to running a home. Now before you start to panic, rest assured knowing that you don't need a degree from Cordon Bleu in order to make dinner for your family! You need skills - - that is all. That and a good recipe or two. (I can help you with that!)

Cooking skills fall into two different categories: preparation and actual cooking. Preparation involves getting the food ready to be cooked, using skills such as chopping, dicing, and other fun stuff with a knife. All of this translates into preparation or prep work as we Dinner Divas like to call it.

The cooking part (this is where you dispense of the knife and start using the heat) can be a little tricky, but mostly it's because the cook doesn't know the stove. Getting to know your own stovetop is essential, as is understanding concepts like pre-heating (don't put the food in until the oven is heated to the indicated temperature), broiling (food cooked under the heat source), and my favorite, grilling outdoors on a barbecue grill.

I have noticed that inexperienced cooks either overcook or undercook the food when they make their cooking goofs, so following the advice above should help eliminate that problem.

Another problem for cooks is the speed in which they chop. I once had someone email me saying that my recipes took too long to prepare. After corresponding with this gal a few times, I had her break down how long it took her to do everything. When I found out it took her a full five minutes to chop one onion, I knew what the problem was, - she had no knife skills.

This is tough one to write about without showing you, but I will do my best. Believe it or not, this is easy. When you're chopping, you need to use both hands, -one for holding whatever it is that you're cutting (that will be the opposite hand you will be cutting with) and the hand that you are going to cut with. The hand that holds the food we will be transforming temporarily into a claw. Yes, a claw. Why a claw? Glad you asked. Because when you are holding the food in a claw-like fashion, if your knife accidentally gets too close to your fingers, the worst that will happen is your fingers will get too close a shave, but you won't be losing any fingers! Important safety precaution!

Now as far as making the chopping go smoothly and quickly like they do on Food TV; that just requires a rhythm, which will come as you get better at chopping. The idea is to "rock" the blade slightly as you chop. This will build a rhythm and eventually, your speed. Next time you're watching the Food Network, pay attention as Emeril chops effortlessly. He's got his claw going; he's a-rockin' and a-choppin'-the whole thing is an art form. Remember though, you're not Emeril. Go easy and slow and be careful. These are sharp knives we're working with here, not rubber spatulas.

If you need a visual of what this all looks like, I have a sketch of it all in my Saving Dinner Basics book. If you want to see me do it, you can see my DVD, Saving Dinner Basics, The How-To Part.

I want to see you succeed in the kitchen. Developing skills and using them is your key to making that happen.

AREA NEWS CONTINUED

Before the Civil War, and for some years after, there was a small dwelling that stood on the northwest corner of Wayne and Second Streets. It was torn down to make room for the Exchange Bank building. The house stood back from the street and there was a small lawn in front. On the same lot was a small wood building, inside were boots and shoes that were made and sold by the owner of both buildings. Mr. Coles made a living in one house, lived in the other, and raised thirteen children. The seventh son and twelfth child was born November, 1859. His name was Albert Coles.

Albert went to work in October 1877 for Dr. Samuel Hupp who had a drug store in a one story frame building which stood next to a three story building where Warren Service and Supplies drive is. Back in those days E.R. Smethurst had a hardware store in the three story building. In the building that Albert started his career in, before Dr. Hupp, was an upholstery shop owned by Moses Johnson and before that Jeff McElhaney had the Cloverleaf Cream Station there.

Dr. Hupp was busy with his doctoring and didn't have time to spend in his drug store. There were no pharmacy laws back then and Albert Coles could do medicine and fill prescriptions for anybody who asked for them. Dr. Hupp built the three story brick building where the outfit was. After Dr. Hupp built the building he caught the western fever and decided to sell his Warren property and go west. Albert formed a partnership with Elias Rinear and bought the stock. The building was sold to Dr. John S. Sprowl and Albert and partner had to find a new location for their stock. At that time Samuel Good had just finished the business block on the east side of the street and they moved into the corner room next to the alley.

The store was equipped with modern show cases for that period and had an up-to-date fountain in the front. After a year, the Rinear interest was sold to J.L. Priddy, who continued for a time and then sold his part to Albert to enter the Exchange Bank. That was in the 1890s and Albert ran the drug store until his death in 1936. The long service had earned him the right to call his business "The Pioneer Drug Store."

PROTECTING YOUR HOME AND INVESTMENT

Now that housing prices are cooling off, you may be considering taking the plunge into homeownership. Ready to take on the financial investment that comes with the new house? Whether you're buying a home for the first or the fifth time, the Your Home, Your Investment package from the Insurance Information Institute, FEMA, the Federal Reserve Board, and the Federal Citizen Information Center is sure to come in handy.

Unless you're Donald Trump, you'll be buying your new house using a mortgage. And you may be considering one of the interest-only mortgages or adjustable rate mortgages that are so popular right now. These mortgages make your monthly payments smaller, but make sure you know all the terms and conditions before you get one. Use the "Mortgage Shopping Worksheet" in Interest-Only Mortgage Payments to record all the information you'll need to select the right mortgage, whether it's a traditional fixed-rate mortgage or an interest-only one.

You've probably thought about insurance for your new home. But did you know that traditional insurance policies don't cover damage caused by flooding? For about $1 a day, flood insurance covers your belongings, your house or condominium, and many items in your basement. About 25% of claims come from outside high-risk flood areas, so flood insurance makes sense whether or not you live in an area at risk of flooding. The National Flood Insurance Guide has more information about the program, how to prevent flooding, and where to buy a policy.

When you're trying to decide how much insurance to buy for your new house, a home inventory makes it easier. Remembering where you bought your 10-year-old fridge and how much you paid may be a challenge. But once you've made the first list of what you own, how much it cost, and a basic description, adding to it in the future will be a cinch. Your Home Inventory has lots of suggestions for easy ways to organize and store your inventory, and it even has a handy checklist to get you started.

Make that home buying plunge with confidence with the Your Home, Your Investment package. There are three easy ways to order:

Send your name, address, and a check or money order for $2.00 to Your Home, Your Investment, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Visit www.pueblo.gsa.gov to read or print more housing-related publications and hundreds of other Federal publications for free.

Call toll-free 1 (888) 8 PUEBLO. That's 1 (888) 878-3256, weekdays 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Eastern Time and ask for the Your Home, Your Investment package. Have your credit card handy.

Get even more information and take advantage of online government services resources at www.FirstGov.gov and www.Espanol.gov—your official English and Spanish web portals to the Federal government.

Q&A ABOUT ALOPECIA AREATA

You may not know how to pronounce it, but the symptoms of alopecia areata are easy to spot—patchy hair loss. It happens because your immune system attacks your hair follicles instead of germs. And while alopecia isn't a life-threatening disease, losing patches of hair or even your eyebrows can be embarrassing. Learn more about who can get this disease, treatment options, and support if you're one of the four million Americans who have it with Questions & Answers About Alopecia Areata from the National Institute of Arthritis and Musculoskeletal and Skin Diseases and the Federal Citizen Information Center. For your free copy, send your name and address to the Federal Citizen Information Center, Dept. 677N, Pueblo, CO 81009. Or all toll-free 1 (888) 8 PUEBLO, that's 1 (888) 878-3256, and ask for Item 677N. And visit www.pueblo.gsa.gov to read or print this and hundreds of other FCIC publications for free.

EMPLOYMENT LAW GUIDE

As a small business owner, you keep track of everything from electricity bills to trends in your industry to employee salaries. Keeping track of employment laws may be the last thing on your mind, but it's still important. Give yourself one less administrative headache and use the U.S. Department of Labor's (DOL) Employment Law Guide from the Federal Citizen Information Center. It describes all the regulations on wages, benefits, safety and health, and nondiscrimination policies explained in language you can understand, not government-ese. And there are even links for more assistance online and telephone numbers for the DOL agencies that administer the laws in case you've got questions. For your free copy, send your name, address, and a check or money order for $1.00 to the Federal Citizen Information Center, Dept. 376N, Pueblo, CO 81009. Or call toll-free 1 (888) 8 PUEBLO, that's 1 (888) 878-3256 and ask for Item 376N. Have your credit card handy. And visit www.pueblo.gsa.gov to read or print this and hundreds of other FCIC publications for free.

RELIEF FROM PAIN BEGINS WITH PROPER DIAGNOSIS

We've all had sore muscles, stiff knees, an achy joint. Most times, doctors have simple answers for why we hurt. But sometimes, diagnosing the cause can be tricky.

When common causes have been ruled out, use the helpful information in the Difficult Diagnoses package from the Federal Citizen Information Center and the National Institute of Arthritis and Musculoskeletal and Skin Diseases to learn about other possibilities.

If a joint or muscle that used to be fine hurts now, it may not be arthritis. Fibromyalgia may be the culprit.

Fibromyalgia is a syndrome with symptoms that include fatigue, widespread muscle pain, and tenderness at specific points on your body. It's difficult to diagnose, since there aren't currently any lab tests that can identify what causes the pain and tiredness, and the symptoms are a lot like other more common medical conditions. Questions & Answers About Fibromyalgia can tell you more about the syndrome, its symptoms, and treatments.

Unexplainable joint pain, rashes, or tiredness could be lupus. Contrary to what many think, it doesn't matter what ethnicity, age, or gender you are—it can affect you. This disease attacks healthy tissues in your body, but each person has different symptoms. One person may have swollen knees while another could have a rash. Like fibromyalgia, it's also hard to diagnose, since its symptoms are similar to those of many other diseases.

If your body doesn't feel right, pay attention to what hurts. Where exactly does it hurt? When? What seems to trigger it? The more information your doctor has, the better chance he or she will have to correctly diagnose your illness. Use the helpful chart in Many Shades of Lupus to track your symptoms. Doing research is also a great way to become an active participant in the healing process. The medical reference books and journals, computer databases, and medical directories listed in How to Find Medical Information can connect you to lots of information on knowledgeable health care providers, current research findings, and symptoms and treatments.

A proper diagnosis is the first step toward treating your pain. With the Difficult Diagnoses package, you can work with your doctor to begin the healing process.
