FOOD MINISTRY NOTICE

We want to inform everyone who is supporting the Angel Food Ministry in Warren that this coming Saturday, September 26, COULD BE OUR LAST SATURDAY for the food to be dropped off at our Warren location. Orders have been down enough that AFM headquarters has informed us that starting in October we will have to pick our orders in Marion. If we could get them back up to 100 or more, they would still deliver in Warren. We need to hear from you about this important ministry. We will be having a meeting of all the volunteers and representatives from the supporting churches this Saturday, September 26 to discuss this situation. We know times are hard and AFM has extended the deadline time to help folks hold on to their money a little longer before receiving their orders. We feel this is a wonderful ministry that is helping many folks with their food bills. If you have comments let us hear from you at 375-3022. Thank you for supporting the Warren Angel Food Ministry.

THE UPTOWN GARDENER

by Ruth Herring

Fall is fast approaching us and it is rather nice to be slowing down a bit. The garden is sad looking and about as exhausted as I am. Still have the potatoes to dig then I can do the fall cleanup. The compost bin is getting full and plan on seeing some nice rich compost come next spring.

The little yellow finches have pretty much cleaned out the sunflowers, they were certainly busy at them this summer. Each spring I find many seeds sprouting, some of which I let grow and many I pull out, if not I would have a ton of them blooming. Ours were very tall this year some were probably 8 feet or more tall. We enjoy watching the finches working on the seeds. I have not bought sunflower seeds for many years. The finches take care of that for me.

Soon the humming birds will be leaving and will miss the busy little birds. Each year we have only one pair coming to the feeder but they keep us entertained.

There was no greater lover of the birds, no matter what kind, than my dad. He and I had a favorite spot up Loon Creek where we went supposedly to fish. He would have me make some sandwiches and treats and we would head up the creek with fishing poles and sack lunch to our special spot, supposedly to bring home fish for supper. Most of the time we never bothered to dig any worms for bait we would snag a few crawdads and use the tails for bait. One time we decided to make bait balls as we called them from the peanut butter sandwiches. Believe it or not it really worked, we caught some nice sun fish and blue gills with our special bait.

More times than not we would just sit back and watch the birds and tell mom the fish were just not biting. You know it is really hard for the fish to jump up on the bank and hook themselves on the poles that were leaning up against the tree. He taught me the names of many birds and how and when they migrated to other areas and why. We spent many great hours along Loon Creek relaxing and knowing that coming home there was plenty of chores to get done. What great memories.

This past weekend we had the pleasure of spending it with our Gayle, it is always a good to spend special times with our girls. She was being kind to her sister filling in at the Opera House while she was on a few days of vacation. She also helped me with the last day of the farmers market. She enjoyed visiting with people she hadn't

AREA NEWS

MY TOWN and Yours BY DENNIS STROUD

The first big remodeling of the Exchange Bank was done in 1933. There was some very interesting new material used in the job. They called it the "Bandit Barrier." It was to stop the bandit before he got started on the business he came to transact. When you entered the bank there was not much of a change and then you noticed a thing to put your money in where the open window used to be. Then your money disappeared and you could see the teller reaching for it on the other side.

The teller would speak to you and it would sound so clear that you would look for the hole to speak through, but there wasn't any. The glass partition was made of a material that transmits sound in addition to its other qualities.

The glass, in the partition, was one and three sixteenth inch thick and was made in three layers. It was manufactured by a special process to make the glass bullet-proof. The glass was framed in steel and steel plates covered the entire partition not occupied by the bullet-proof glass. Even the door to enter that area was covered in steel. Over the partition, reaching to the ceiling, was a screen of heavy wire mesh which was bullet-proof. The windows along side the building was covered with the same kind of heavy wire. The rear outside doors was reinforced and the rear windows were barred.

The old furniture was kept, since it was discovered the material in the fifty year old desk was better than in the modern furniture. All of that furniture you would be able to see at the Salamonie Valley Museum. In that year Joseph P. Good became president of the bank.

YOUTH DEER HUNTING

Individuals allowed to participate in Indiana's two-day youth deer season, Sept. 26-27, have been expanded to include 16- and 17-year-olds for the first time.

The special event, which is being held for the fourth consecutive year, provides youth licensed hunters (17 years old or younger) who are accompanied by an adult (18 years old or older) the opportunity to take one antlerless deer in addition to all other tags for the remaining deer seasons.

In the past, youth seasons were open only to hunters 15 years or younger. The new rule defining youth hunters as those 17 years old or younger was passed in July.

"The change in youth season age limit will provide more opportunity to younger hunters," said Chad Stewart, DNR deer biologist. "This season fosters the relationship between young hunters and experienced supervisors as they spend time in the field learning proper hunting ethics and procedures."

Participants may use any legal equipment, including shotgun, rifle, muzzleloader, bow and arrow, or crossbow to harvest deer. Hunter orange must be worn, and the youth hunter must possess a legal license while hunting (either youth consolidated hunting license or apprentice license).

A youth consolidated license requires the youth to have passed the hunter education course; however, the new apprentice hunting license allows a hunter of any age the opportunity to purchase a license without taking hunter education. Individuals with an apprentice hunter license must hunt with a licensed hunter who is older than 18 years of age, and must stay in contact with the adult hunter at all times.

Indiana hunters are limited to three apprentice licenses during their lifetime. This allows time for young hunters to decide if they want to continue hunting when they get older. To do so, they must take a hunter education course.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

Volunteers are needed to assist with Ouabache State Park's Fall Festival Weekend, Oct. 30-31.

Ouabache's Fall Festival is an opportunity for families to enjoy the weather and participate in a variety of events in a safe environment. Individuals are needed to help make the pot luck soup, decorate Campview Shelter, and assist with games during the Fall Festival Fair. Other volunteer opportunities also exist.

Anyone, age 16 or older may volunteer. Volunteers will be provided a free evening meal and will be presented with a certificate of thanks afterward. Letters documenting volunteer time will be provided for individuals requesting one for work or school purposes.

To volunteer, contact the park's interpretive naturalist at (260) 824-0926 between 8:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m., or e-mail OuabacheInterp@dnr.IN.gov.

Ouabache State Park is at 4930 E. State Road 201, Bluffton, 46714.

ALZHEIMER'S EDUCATION

The Alzheimer's Association, Greater Indiana Chapter will host a family education event, Promises, Promises, at three different locations. On Oct 14 from 9:30 AM -10:30 AM at Parkview Huntington Hospital, 2001 Stults Rd. Huntington, IN., on Oct. 19 from 5-6 PM at St. James Lutheran Church, 1720 State Road 930 E., New Haven, IN. and on Nov. 18 from 12:30 -1:30 PM at the Ossian United Methodist Church, 201 W. Mill St., Ossian, IN.

Promises, Promise is about promises we make to our family members that binds us in many ways. Guilt, poor decisions, potentially harmful decisions and harm to family members can all come out of promises made in the heat of a crisis, at a moment when one is fearing a greater harm to another family member or an event simply made without an understanding of what the promise might entail in the long run. Promising to "never put me in a nursing home" and "never to sell the family home" are two of the most common promises caregivers have to deal with. Join us as we discuss those "promises, promises" the consequences of promises made and successful ways to manage them.

The program is free and pre-registration is requested. Please

It's FUN BEING NICE

BUT.....

by V Neil Wyrick
Life is often an echo and it can only echo what all the participants are sending out. Think about this; which kind of behavior produces the better world for you and those around you to live in? A growl or a grin? A sneer or a smile? A snide remark or a gentle reminder?

Obviously, that's a loaded question. And while none of us can transform society into the exact shape we prefer, we can certainly make it better or worse. Our actions have a domino effect. People do tend to be more patient toward us when we are more patient to them. I still remember an airport scene where a less than patient gentleman was loudly demanding what he expected to get. Surprise! Surprise! He did not get it.

An ounce of honey is worth infinitely more than a gallon of gall, and cheap at any price. Be nice and you will harvest friends. Be grouchy and we pile up a host of enemies or at the very least a tremendous number of individuals who will be sorry to see us come and glad to see us go.

So, if we agree nice is better, why is being mean and nasty so entrenched in our society? If we understand that "nasty" is a short fuse without restraint, that it starts and continues wars, be they national or just person-to-person, why isn't being nice, which thinks before it speaks, more popular? Unfortunately,

"nice" is too often associated with being weak, and that because we regularly stop right there – just being nice.

Being nice offers all kind of pleasant feelings, everything from warm and fuzzy to downright exciting, but by itself just being nice isn't enough. What if nice were considered a member of the family of kindness and mercy? Now it takes on a whole new meaning. Now it has strength with the power to change the world.

It is "nice" to not say something bad about a person or segment of the population, but it is "kind" to go a step further and speak up for a person or a group being ridiculed. And as for mercy, it needs to be a verb rather than just an adjective. Nice is passive. Kind is active. Nice is "not practicing" vengeance. Kind is "giving" forgiveness.

I guess what I am saying is that we all should work extra hard at giving muscles to our social niceties. That we try to become the kind of folk who practice niceness, kindness and mercy till they are more than skin deep. Become a live-in part of our personality that is as permanent a part of us as the color of our eyes or the shape of our voice or the contour of our thinking.

This poor old world would certainly be a lot better off with a little more altruism than being afflicted by so much swine flu of the soul (piggishness).

We started with that warm and fuzzy feeling and now we have something infinitely greater. For now, if we encourage ourselves in the direction this column has aimed, we encompass mercy and a more tolerant spirit.

VACATION TIME AGAIN

We only write this because so many people ask us if we have been on vacation yet, as they haven't read about it in the paper. We appreciate everyone's interest in this event, however, we really don't think it is newsworthy. It does give us a little bit of family record to pass on to our children. Speaking of family history, our Mother & Dad had 17 children. Two are deceased. At last count there were 59 grand children. I guess there is probably no chance of any more grand-children since we range in age from 60 years to 86 years.

There were only nine sisters that went on vacation. Jean broke her hip several weeks before and was not feeling up to going on vacation. We sure missed her delicious biscuits for breakfast. I guess we were kind of lazy as we had cold cereal most mornings. On our last Saturday morning, several of us got to have ice cream for breakfast, as we did not want to throw it away. DELICIOUS! I think our age is getting the best of us, because we slept in every morning until seven o'clock. (We were on vacation you know!)

We say every year we are not going to take so much food, however, the gardens produced an abundance of vegetables and we had fresh vegetables all week. Pat brought 6 or 7 loaves of zucchini bread, which was more than we could eat. We had corn, tomatoes, green beans and cabbage left over. We also brought along homemade chicken & noodles, cookies, ham salad and yeast roll mix ready to bake.

It rained several days so we spent those days playing games and reminiscing. Evelyn's daughter and son-in-law, Dan & Diane invited us over on Sunday for a delicious dinner of charcoal roasted chicken with all the trimmings. Of course we had our traditional pontoon ride on the St. Joseph river. It is a delightful ride with all the beautiful homes lining the banks. On Tuesday, seven of us traveled to Shipshewanna to the flea market. Each of us managed to buy articles for "show & tell". On Wednesday evening, Janet & Brenda attended a doll club meeting with Evelyn. On Friday evening, we entertained Evelyn's granddaughter Ashley and her husband Ben. They are newlyweds and we enjoyed their company.... Ben fit right in with our family. Evelyn's son David also joined us.

We stayed at Baldwin Lake, Michigan. This is about our fifth year to vacation here. It is just perfect for us...very large, roomy and a beautiful home. The owners were so proud as they had enclosed the lower porch area and that meant we had another room for our beds. We made it through one night and then the rain came and the room leaked. We had to remove most of the furniture and carpet. They had rushed to finish the room so we could use it and they were very disappointed that it leaked. It didn't slow us down any, we just moved our bed to the small rec room and were very comfortable.

Pat set up her beauty shop one day and gave one permanent and three hair cuts. It is sure nice to have this handy service available.

Barry Jamison probably doesn't know it, but we always enjoy his music during our vacation. We have a couple of CDs that has hymns recorded by Barry. We use these CDs every morning for our devotions and it is just like he is there playing the piano for us. Thanks Barry!

Those enjoying the vacation were Rita Benefiel, Kate King, Pat Furnish, Mary Shaw, Janet Daugherty, Mona Pinkerton, Laura Smithley, Brenda Kendall, Evelyn Lindstrom. We know our husbands enjoyed the week too.

HATTER REPORT

How pleased we were with the interesting day our Mary Palmer planned for us. We toured the homey R-Bakery of Kathy Ralston, nestled in the scenic countryside. We were greeted with all the yummy scents of her delicious pies and cinnamon rolls; and enjoyed her descriptions of the business. We ended up in the lovely party room at the Heritage, to sample all the pies Mary provided to accompany our assorted teas. We were delighted to learn what our love for each pie indicated.

The ladies enjoying this special party were Fritz Boxell, Dianna Bradford, Martha Buzzard, Freddie Couch, Shirley Combs, Chris Knox, Lilly Nutter, Becky Parker, Dee Pattison, Donna Runkle, Joyce Shepherd and our hostess, Mary Palmer.

We completed our plans for riding in the parade of the Bluffton Street Fair next week. So many fun events taking place.

Naturally we talked of good food and indulged on many good things to eat including steaks on the grill.

We made a good salad that was easy and tasty with the steaks and baked potato.

Fresh Garden Salad

For 3 or 4 people skin 3 or 4 medium tomatoes, dice or chop into pieces, a small onion diced, green pepper sliced into thin strips, mix together and make ahead of time a simple syrup of 1/4 cup sugar, 1/4 cup vinegar, 1/4 cup sugar, 2 tablespoon water, 1 teaspoon celery seed, 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder, bring to boiling for a couple minutes to dissolve the sugar, Let cool and pour over the vegetables. This will keep in the refrigerator as left overs, if any, for a couple days, if syrup is too tart add a little more sugar to taste.

Enjoy and have a great fall.
