KUDOS, KICKS & KARATS

THANK YOU!

We would like to thank everyone that remembered us with prayers, cards, telephone calls, concerns, and even food during our surgeries, recoveries, and special anniversary. It would have been much more difficult without support from our family, friends, neighbors and church. God has richly blessed us. We are so thankful for each one of you.

THANK YOU

THE UPTOWN GARDENER by Ruth Herring

Thank goodness for this nice weather we have been having even though we have had some showers. I think daily of the farmers with the struggle getting crops planted. I think most everyone is praying for good growing weather for them so they can catch up on lost time. What a horrible time they have endured.

I almost feel guilty that my garden is doing well, but it is almost like a raised bed and drains well.

The potatoes are blooming and I see some blooms on the beans, I have a row of lettuce that is planted in the shade still doing well, so we are still enjoying our peanut butter and lettuce sandwiches. The flowers are blooming good and I hope I can keep them happy for the rest of the summer. I have enjoyed working with them this summer. I try to spend a few hours each day babying them. Of course the weeds seem to be doing very well even without my encouraging them.

Our kids have already made plans for the July holiday coming up. Gayle will be here for a couple days and has requested a freezer of ice cream and a cook out. I may get real ambitious and make ice cream the way my mom did, with the exception of good fresh cows milk and pure cream we always had available. It was a custard that she cooked for the base of it and it was always very tasty. I will share her recipe later.

I will tell you the story of the time my parents were having a church class party and my mom made her famous ice cream for refreshments. She did this ahead of time and had it all packed in ice and sitting out back under a tree. My older sisters decided to take the ice cream out of the ice cream freezer and hide it in the food freezer in the basement. They filled the ice cream freezer with rocks and put it all back where it was. Time came for the refreshments and mom had a good friend helping her, and all was cool, we were in our rooms upstairs where we were to spend the evening like good little children, but we didn't stay long when mom uncovered the freezer. Thank goodness my dad thought it was kinda funny and that probably saved our souls from a more severe punishment. My part in the whole thing was to help gather some stones and then my life was threatened if I told whose idea it was. Being the youngest it seems I was threatened many times for various things that wasn't my idea.

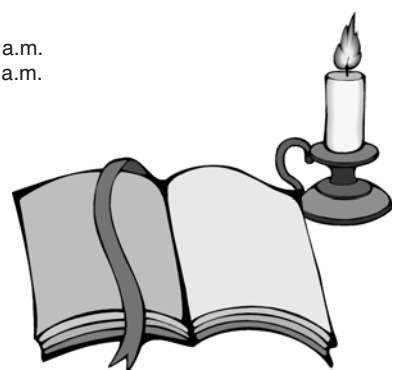

That was just another of the silly things we were always pulling on our poor mom and dad. For some of the locals who thought we were such well behaved children— if they only knew!

Another good day at the market Saturday. There were a few strawberries that sold quickly. We hope to have more. Also a possibility of fresh eggs for Saturday. The good news is that the new tent will possibly be up for us. We are all excited about Daugherty's helping with that. The lot has new stone and graded nice. The vendors are eager to get the market in full motion and hope soon we can see some garden produce coming in.

Van Lions Club will not be there this week with tenderloins but should return the next week. Most all of the regulars will be there, stop by and check out what we have and visit a while. Most times the market is pretty much over by 11:30 so come early.

MEMORIAL RIDE

The Eastbrook Young Farmers will be hosting a Memorial Ride and Drive in memory of friend and member Becky Stuber. In January 2008, Becky passed away from leukemia. The ride will start at 2pm on July 12, 2009 at the Eastbrook High School in Marion. It will be led by the tractor she always drove in the fields. The tractor will leave the ride at the Van Buren Cemetery where a short memorial service will take place. The bikes and cars will then continue on the ride. The ride will come back through Van Buren where Becky's Tractor will then lead other tractors, the bikes and cars back to the high school for a hog roast. The cost of the ride is $20 per person by June 24th which includes a shirt, the ride and hog roast. Any registrations after June 24th will be $25. ### SALUTE TO HEROES

This year the Salamonie Summer Festival is honoring "Our Local Heroes". We as a country would not be able to enjoy the freedoms we do today if it were not for those who have fought for us. The Festival Committee would like to invite all Veterans in the surrounding community to ride in the SSF parade. The parade will be Friday, July 3rd. Veterans interested in attending should contact Jill Eltzroth (260.917.0213) to sign up by Tuesday, June 30th. There will be a banner to mark the occasion that will be carried through the parade. Prior to this event, the Festival Committee is asking all Veterans participating to sign the banner. The next signing date will take place at Heritage Pointe in the Applegate Cove on Monday, June 22 from 8:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. At this time those coming to sign the banner may also sign up for the parade and drop off items to be displayed in the "Bunker" Military Exhibit, during the festival.

In addition to the parade and festival activities, the SSF Committee would like to invite any Veteran(s) and/or the families of those currently serving in the Armed Forces, to lend for display, any military related items. Ideas for this exhibit would be medals, pictures, clothing, hats, etc. We ask for items that span all eras up to current time. The "Bunker" Military Exhibit will run during the Warren Festival July 3rd - 5th. The banner will also be on display during the weekend of activities. We will exhibit these items during the festival so those attending can remember and celebrate the hard work and efforts of those who have served and those currently serving our country. All items on display will be returned to the owners at the end of the festival.

Please contact Jill Eltzroth 260.917.0213 or 375.2212 for more information or questions. Items may be dropped off at Split Ends, 210 Wayne St, downtown Warren (next door to Denny's Hardware) as early as June 1st.

Should Women Be More Concerned About Gum Disease???

As a woman goes through different phases of her life there is the potential for a greater risk of periodontal (gum) disease. From the onset, through teenage years, pregnancy and menopause, a woman's hormone changes can affect her oral health. The reason is that hormones alter the bacteria (plaque) that make their home in the mouth. Irritants or changes in the bacteria can make the gums swell and bleed (ex. pregnancy gingivitis). As the disease progresses, this can lead to further breakdown, pocket formation and the starting place for periodontal disease. This can lead to bone loss, which can severely loosen teeth, cause pain, and eventually tooth loss. Other contributors to gum disease are smoking and diabetes. Gum disease is preventable. However, the old "wives for every tale" of losing a tooth for every pregnancy or the baby took all the calcium out of my teeth is simply not true. Regular brushing, flossing and trips to the dentist can reduce your chances getting gum disease. Another concern is crash dieting. Crash diets can affect the production of saliva in your mouth. Saliva is vital to your mouth's ability to cleanse itself. If you are on a diet or thinking about it, see your doctor and dentist to make sure that your physical well being or oral health are not being compromised.

PARENT/TEEN ADVICE

Unemployment statistics are continuing to rise in the United States, and the jobless rate may affect more than the adults in the community. Teens, who would normally take a summer job to make some cash for fun and for the upcoming school year, may find themselves in a tight spot.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the current teen unemployment rate is 21.7 percent, up from last year's 15.8 percent — the highest rate in nearly 20 years.

This summer, your teenager may encounter the challenge of older, more experienced job seekers competing for positions in a tight economy, and may come up empty.

"The thought of our sons or daughters lying on the couch watching TV all summer long is simply not a possibility," says Laura Gauld, co-author of "The Biggest Job We'll Ever Have" and co-founder of TBJ parenting seminars.

"Parents know that kind of behavior can lead to boredom, bad habits, and low self-esteem, and they worry."

What can parents do to support their teens through what may be a summer of unemployment, so that the family may continue to enjoy the season?

Malcolm Gauld is president of Hyde Schools, known widely for their unique approach to helping

"Parents can look at this situation with an eye to short- and long-term goals," says Malcolm, "and stay close to their priorities. We believe in turning obstacles into opportunities, and this is a prime example. Short term, it's only one summer. But long term, it's about an attitude toward life and its challenges. So raise your expectations for your kids."

In the event that your teen cannot locate a summer job this year, the Gaulds offer several suggestions.

FIND A MENTOR. Teens and their parents can seek out a mentor — a family friend, business or community leader — to work with voluntarily, learning their business, and helping them in whatever way they can. This opportunity would be scheduled, like any job, and keep your teen engaged. He or she would continue to learn new things and gain valuable experience for the future.

VOLUNTEER. There are neighbors, churches, and community centers all around, and they need help. Call and volunteer for filing, clean-ups, aiding shut-ins, helping the elderly with lawn work and other activities.

ASSIGN A PROJECT. Parents can offer their teen an important task to do at home, and pay them something for it. Whether it's painting the garage or planting a garden, it needs to be done well. Teens can gain self-esteem when entrusted with an important project at home.

"All kids need to be responsible for jobs, whether in the community or at home," adds Laura. "And they respond positively to feeling needed."

The Gaulds also suggest a Three Point Plan for the family that will help them as individuals and as a unit.

1. *Weekly family meetings*. Take charge and schedule a weekly family meeting where everyone is invited to share ideas, thoughts, challenges, stories. Communication remains very important through this time.

2. *Jobs*. Everyone in the family needs a job, and, as a member of the family, teens are no exception. All members must take on part of the responsibility of creating a clean, welcoming, and organized home.

3. *Mandatory Fun*. This is a time (you determine how often) when the family comes together to do something fun. Family members take turns choosing the activity, and even if there is resistance among family members, for example, they do the activity, enjoy themselves, and learn about each other.

The Gaulds underline these points by reminding parents to "be the parent."

"Many parents are in a power struggle with their kids," says Malcolm. "And some have relinquished their authority altogether...the power sits with their kids. The first thing parents have to get on board with, is that they are the adults in the relationship and need to set an example for what they really want from their kids."

In the end, parents can show their kids how to continue to grow as people, as family members, and as citizens, regardless of the economy by sticking with core values.

"The strongest relationships are those resting on a foundation of principles," says Malcolm.

HUNTERS HELP FARMERS

Deer hunters in need of a place to hunt, and farmers/landowners in need of crop damage relief now have a way to contact each other using a tool developed by the Department of Natural Resources.

To participate, deer hunters may submit an online application, July 1 through Aug. 30, at <http://www.IN.gov/dnr/fishwild> to hunt private land in Indiana. Hunters submit for up to two counties they would like to hunt. Farmers/landowners then select individuals to interview for rights to hunt.

The program does not alter normal DNR deer hunting regulations. Hunters must adhere to all bag limits, county antlerless deer quotas and license fees. Farmers/landowners determine whether hunters may harvest antlerless deer or deer of either sex.

Information requested on the application, determined by a DNR survey of farmers/landowners, addresses common concerns about selecting the hunters most likely to address farmer/landowner needs.

To obtain a list of potential hunters, farmers/landowners should contact their DNR district wildlife biologist as listed at <http://www.IN.gov/dnr/fishwild> starting Sept. 14.

Hunters must be 13 years old to apply. Further information will be available in the 2009-2010 Hunting and Trapping Guide.

According to Indiana Code, a hunter who is invited on a landowner's premises for the purpose of hunting does not have an assurance that the premises are safe for that purpose. Therefore, the owner of the premises does not assume responsibility or incur liability for an injury to the person or property caused by an act or failure to act of other persons using the premises, unless the act is of malicious intent or is illegal.

SLOW AND STEADY WINS

THE RACE

by The FlyLady, Marla Cilley
This past week I attended a year end achievement presentation for my grandson's kindergarten class. I refuse to call it a graduation because that is reserved for high school and college. Kindergarten is just the beginning of his educational journey!

At this event the two kindergarten classes gave us a glimpse of what they learned this year. They sang songs, recited timelines and preformed skits. One skit was about the fable of the Tortoise and the Hare. At the end they yelled out the moral of the story, "Slow and steady wins the race!"

As we walked out the door, I explained to Ethan that The Tortoise and Hare Fable was one of my favorite stories and that I tell people about it all the time. That day I had mentioned "Slow and Steady" on my radio show and that I had a song written to help my ladies understand this lesson. He already understands how music helps us to remember things. Their timeline was to music with actions to represent significant events in history.

We are a lot like that Hare. We take pride in ourselves because we think we work well under pressure. We think we are so good at getting things done! We have two speeds like the Hare too! As fast as we can possibly go and dead stop; that is our crash and burn!

In our haste we forget that "Slow and Steady" does win the race! The race is not about the finish line. It is our journey though life. Are we going to be so exhausted at the end of our day that we can't enjoy a story with our children? What about in our retirement years? Are we going to dealing with major health issues because we pushed ourselves with adrenalin? Adrenalin is our drug of choice!

We have always been in such a hurry. This is because we have waited till the last minute to start. Our perfectionism is what causes us to procrastinate. We wait till we think we will have enough time to do it all at once. None of us has huge blocks of time any longer. When we learn to break things down into baby steps we can accomplish even the most mundane tasks without going into "Crash and Burn" high speed gear!

Adrenalin is "speed"! It kicks us into hyper drive to handle emergencies! This is how women can pick up a car to save the baby. Our bodies were not meant to have a continuous intravenous drip of adrenalin just to get through a day. Cleaning house is not a reason to put our bodies into overdrive! Daily routines can help us get our homes clean without putting stress on our bodies.

Whenever you supercharge an engine something has to pay. Just ask a guy who put mothballs in a gas tank to make his car go faster. The car will run real fast till it doesn't. I want you to stop burning out your engine and let "Slow and Steady" become the moral of your story!

Remove from heat and add 3 tablespoons vanilla extract, and 1/2 half teaspoon lemon extract. Pour into 1 1/2 gallon freezer and finish filling 2/3 full with cream. This is how she had it written in Herold Farmers Guide cook book. Have a great summer!
