3RD ANNIVERSARY CHALLENGE

It was three years ago, the last Sunday in October, 2003, that Gerald & Ruth Moreland came to the Warren Church of Christ for a trial sermon. The church voted that day to call them to come be their minister. They began their ministry the first Sunday in January 2004. It has been a wonderful time since then. We have seen many joyous occasions celebrated together with new members being added and decisions made for the Lord. The Morelands want to thank the Warren community for their warm reception and the wonderful way we have been accepted into the life of this great town. They hope they can have many more years together.

To celebrate this anniversary Gerald is challenging the church to have 250 present for the day. We are calling the day "Try the Tithe" taken from Malachi 3:10 where God challenges us to "Test Him" in this tithe and see if He will not pour out more blessing than we can imagine. He will be speaking on the "Generosity of God." Gerald has said he will tithe on the attendance that day and ride his bike home, right after Bible School, up newly paved SR 5 to Huntington and take newly paved SR 224 on to his home in Markle, making about 25 miles on the day. 25 miles would be 10% of the 250 present. His Youth Minister, Todd Winkler, has said he'll ride the distance with him, since he also lives in Markle. There may be others in the church that will join in on the ride. He walked home on the first anniversary back in 2004 when they went over 200 and walked to Huntington and rode in bike back to Warren in 2005 for the church's 90th Anniversary when they had over 300. He says this challenge should be a "nice Sunday afternoon ride"!

We invite the public to join us for this special day as we also officially dedicate the new pews we've installed in the balcony and in the back of the church building. The balcony was remodeled earlier in the year and the new back pews were installed just last week. We'd love to fill the house of God will joyful worshippers this coming Sunday, Oct. 29 at 9:30 A.M. Another special of the day will be Lori Mower, director of the Huntington Co. Week Day Religious Education program, who will report on the amount of participation our students give to this unique opportunity of learning. 25% of this 5th Sunday offering will go to this worthy mission outreach. It will be a great day and we hope you can join us for this event. The church is located at the corners of 3rd & Wayne Streets in downtown Warren.

KUDOS, KICKS & KARATS

UPTOWN GARDENER

by Ruth Herring & Her Daughters

We will be helping the Uptown Gardener out this week, by helping her write this column. We will start out with what the Gardener is up to. "As many of you know, this writer met fate with some stairs and now I have a hip fracture. I'm doing quite well, but will be slowed down for several weeks. I promise as soon as I am able, I will try to get the letter started again. My thanks to all of you who have sent cards, flowers and prayers. Your kindness means a lot to me."

As we were growing up, the fall season always brought many apples into our house. I can remember going to many orchards in the area and getting a good supply. One memory I can remember is going to the Bradford Family orchard. If I am remembering right, they had a big cider press. Now I'm not a big fan of apple cider, but my sister is. But I do enjoy at least a taste of it every fall, and that usually does me until next year.

Apples come in many different types and you can make lots and lots of good stuff with them. Over the years, we have had homemade applesauce, apple dumplings, apple cake, apple bread, crisp, cobblers and the list goes on, but I think the best thing Mom would make is meatballs. Yes, she would put apples in the meatballs. Quite strange but quite good. This recipe has been at our dinner table several times over the years. In fact, my daughter loves them so much, we had to make them for her graduation party. I had many people ask for the recipe, but never had the time to write it out, so I figured this would be a good recipe to contribute to the column this week.

Gayle, my Dad, Wayne, and I would like to thank everyone personally, for all of the kindness shown to Mom while she is recuperating from her accident. The surgeon said Mom is a very young woman on the inside, and he fixed her up to run another hundred thousand miles, and we are grateful for that. Sometimes I think that all of that good stuff she grows in the Uptown Garden, makes her healthy and strong. Hopefully she will be back in full swing in a couple of weeks. God Bless you all and Thank you for being loyal readers of the column, she really enjoys writing this.

SUPPORT MEDICAL ADVANCES

Give Blood this Month in Huntington County.

Every 15 minutes, someone in the United States is diagnosed with a medical condition that requires a blood stem cell or bone marrow transplant. November is National Marrow Awareness Month, and while not everyone is eligible to donate bone marrow, you can help save a life through blood donation.

In order for bone marrow and stem cell operations to be a success, a blood transfusion is necessary. A bone marrow transplant requires a transfusion of one or two units of blood each day for approximately five weeks. This means that a patient will need between 35 and 70 units of blood to survive post transplant. You can give blood at one of the following blood drives:

- Thursday, Nov. 9, at Huntington University Habecker Dining Commons Banquet Room from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Huntington University is located at 2303 College Ave. in Huntington. To schedule your blood donation appointment, go to www.givelife.org and enter sponsor code "HuntingtonU."
- Thursday, Nov. 9, at Knight Civic Center from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Knight Civic Center is located at 132 S. Nancy St. in Warren.
- Monday, Nov. 20, at the Lions Club from 12 noon to 6 p.m. The Lions Club is located at 381 Leedy Lane in Andrews. This is a Pint Size Heroes drive.
- Friday, Nov. 24, at the VFW from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. The VFW is, located at 220 W. Park Dr. in Huntington. All presenting donors will receive a can Koozie®.

If you are at least 17 years of age, weigh a minimum of 110 pounds and are in good general health, you may be eligible to donate blood. All donors need to present positive identification. For more information or to schedule your blood donation appointment, please call 1-800-GIVE-LIFE (1-800-448-3543).

SOUP SUPPER

Banquo Church is hosting a Soup Supper on Saturday, October 28th. There will be several kinds of soup to choose from along with Peanut Butter or Toasted Cheese sandwiches, Pop, Tea, Orange Drink, and Coffee. Dessert will be available by donation too.

Supper will be from 4:00—6:00 p.m. (or until we run out of soup!) and is a Free-Will donation dinner.

The Banquo Church is just north of the intersection of Huntington County Road 900 S. and State Road 105 in southwest Huntington County.

All proceeds will be used for the Banquo Book Scholarship Program. This program assists our college students with books and other materials.

COUNCIL NOTES

The Van Buren Town Council met on Wednesday evening, Oct. 18. The meeting, held in the Council Room at Town Hall, was conducted by president Tony Manry.

The meeting opened at 7 p.m. with all in attendance repeating the Pledge to the American Flag.

Minutes of the previous meeting were approved as submitted.

Council voted to purchase a new tornado siren. The new siren is expected to be heard in a radius of one mile outdoors. It will also include battery back-up.

A citizen in attendance urged that as many as possible attend a CAFO meeting on Thursday evening. It was determined that this is one of the most important projects to be undertaken in Grant County. It was also noted that it is important to protect businesses and taxpayers.

It was also noted that four businesses have been closed in the Van Buren city limits in October. Cause of the closings was lack of support from the town.

It is time to renew trash pick-up contracts and bids are to be in by Nov. 15.

Officer Pat Collins gave his report to Council.

A town Halloween Party will be held on Oct. 31 at the elementary school. Trick or Treat hours

HARVEST DANCE

The American Red Cross and the Knights of Columbus are pleased to present the first annual Harvest Dance. This event is being held to support the many community programs that the American Red Cross offers to all Huntington County residents. Programs such as disaster education, health and safety training, and blood services better equip community members to prevent, prepare for, and respond to emergencies. The event will take place Saturday, October 28th, 2006, from 7pm-midnight at the Knights of Columbus Hall, located on 23 1/2 E. Market St. The cost of admission will be $5 per person; those 21 and older will be granted admission with a valid ID. Thank you for supporting your Huntington County American Red Cross, and we hope to see you there! The DJ will be Dr. Feelgood's from Ft. Wayne and he will be playing a variety of music from the 50's to today.

The American Red Cross has helped people mobilize to help their neighbors for 125 years. Last year, victims of a record 72,883 disasters, most of them fires, turned to the nearly 1 million volunteers and 35,000 employees of the Red Cross for help and hope. Through more than 800 locally supported chapters, more than 15 million people each year gain the skills they need to prepare for and respond to emergencies in their homes, communities and world. Almost 4 million people give blood—the gift of life—through the Red Cross, making it the largest supplier of blood and blood products in the United States. The Red Cross helps thousands of U.S. service members separated from their families by military duty stay connected. As part of the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement, a global network of more than 180 national societies, the Red Cross helps restore hope and dignity to the world's most vulnerable people. An average of 91 cents of every dollar the Red Cross spends is invested in humanitarian services and programs. The Red Cross is not a government agency; it relies on donations of time, money, and blood to do its work.

DAY OF HEALING

Record turn-out is projected for the 14th annual Day of Healing: A Personal Growth Conference, an event hosted each fall by the Wabash Friends Counseling Center. Featuring keynote speaker and author Dr. John Townsend, The Day of Healing will take place on Saturday, October 28, at the Honeywell Center, 275 W. Market St., Wabash.

"We are running 80 registrations ahead of our highest conference attendance ever," states Scott Makin, director of the Wabash Friends Counseling Center and Licensed Mental Health Counselor. "In 2004, we had 850 conferees—this year we are planning for over 900. Who knows, maybe we will even hit

The majority of these conferees will gather from the Midwest states, including Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, and Indiana (over half are coming from outside of Wabash); however, one attendee will be traveling from Florida while 3 missionaries from Africa will also be present.

Not only is attendance at an all-time high but display booths in the lobby will be the most ever. Over 20 business and other professionals will be in the main lobby of the Honeywell Center as a service to those attending the conference. Attendees can anticipate a wide variety of displays that will provide products and services that may be helpful to them and their families. Among these will be the Wabash County Mental Health Association, White's Residential & Family Services, WFRN radio station, Joy Christian Bookstore; Eniva; Huntington University Excel Program and Graduate Counseling program; Indiana Wesleyan University LEAP and Graduate Counseling program; In Trust Financial Advisors; Ivy Tech Community College; Oaklawn Psychiatric Hospital; Original Limu; St. Joseph Behavioral Health; Trinity Evangelical Divinity School Graduate Counseling program; University of St. Francis Graduate Psychology; Wheaton College Graduate School; L.I.F.E. Center; Little Bird Portraits; Rainbow Pottery; Springside Life Center; and Wabash County Convention and Tourism Bureau.

There will also be a booth offering $7 discounted subscription rates to conferees from Christianity Today magazine on several of their top magazine choices.

In addition, the conferees are invited to take advantage of other amenities offered during the conference lunch hour such as chair massages by Jami Hashbarger of Helping Touch Massage, 1593 Stitt St., Wabash, complimentary carriage rides by Sentimental Journey Carriage Rides, and live piano music during registration and live violin music over lunch.

For those who enjoy a leisurely stroll, attendees may choose to explore antique shopping in downtown Wabash, the state-of-the-art Wabash County Museum, or historical Paradise Springs Park. A relaxing ride on the city tram will also be available to transport conference attendees to several downtown locations and restaurants.

The Day of Healing will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. Registration is available in advance or on site the day of the conference for $25 per person. A scholarship fund is available through the Wabash Friends Counseling Center for those who are unable to pay the registration fee.

The Day of Healing has been approved by the National Board for Certified Counselors for 5.0 continuing education hours. For more information or to register, call 260.563.8452 or 877.350.1658 or e-mail scott@wabashfriends.org. You may also visit the event website at wabashfriendscounseling.com.

THE SILENT MENACE

"Lead, the Silent Menace...Is Your Child Safe?" That's the message of a new public awareness campaign launched this month by the Children's Lead Poisoning Prevention Program at the Indiana State Department of Health to educate Hoosiers about the dangers of lead poisoning.

"Exposure to lead is not going to cause distinct symptoms in a child, which is why it is called the silent menace," said Loren Robertson, assistant commissioner, Human Health Services. "Without a blood test, parents cannot be certain if their child has lead poisoning."

"Some of the effects of childhood exposure to even low levels of lead include reduced learning abilities, speech delays, developmental delays, hearing disorders, behavior disorders, attention disorders, activity disorders, and anemia," said Robertson. "It is very important to not only be aware of the effects of lead, but also to be certain your child is safe by knowing the risk factors for lead poisoning."

The lead poisoning awareness campaign warns parents of the possible ways children can be exposed to lead, including kids ingesting lead paint dust while parents are remodeling the home and a baby being lead poisoned during pregnancy because the mother, herself, was exposed to lead as a child. The campaign includes a brochure, postcards, a poster, and a billboard.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) says lead poisoning is the most preventable environmental health threat to young children. State health officials report that the effects of lead poisoning are irreversible, worsen with length of exposure and, in extreme cases, may cause coma or even death.

"We urge parents to talk to their health care provider or local health department about getting their children tested if they believe they could have been exposed to lead," said Robertson. "The CDC estimates that nearly half a million children have high enough levels of lead in their blood to cause irreversible damage to their health and lifetime potential."

Most lead poisoning in the U.S. is a result of exposure to lead-based paints and lead-contaminated soil and dust from older homes and buildings. The older the structure, the more likely it is to have lead in the paint, and the most concerning are those built prior to 1978. Indiana ranks 11th nationally for number of older homes.

Three Indiana organizations were among the recipients of a 2006 grant from The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to address this continuing problem. The St. Joseph County Health Department received $3 million, the Allen County Childhood Lead Poisoning Prevention Program received $1.9 million, and Indiana Black Expo, Inc. received almost $358,000.

Governor Mitch Daniels has proclaimed October 22–28 as Lead Poisoning Prevention Week. To mark the occasion, the Indiana State Department of Health is encouraging organizations and individuals to do their part in their communities to bring attention to this preventable condition.

Examples include contacting local county health departments for testing locations and requesting public awareness campaign materials from the Indiana Childhood Lead Poisoning Prevention Program. For more information, contact the program at 317-233-1250. Individuals can also visit www.in.gov/isdh/programs/lead for more information on lead poisoning and to download copies of the lead poisoning awareness materials.

In 1919, the Warren Businessmen Association bought a factory site, along the railroad, at the end of West Fourth Street. They built a 40 x 100 building and lured Mr. Locke and his factory to Warren from Fort Wayne. The company was called the Gal-Va Manufacturing Company. This company made wood clothes racks, washing machines, ironing boards, wash boards, wheelbarrows and other wooden articles.

In September, 1919 there was a new room added and E.M. Mossburg became sole owner of the place. There was a good demand for wash boards, ironing boards and washing machines. But ever since the factory started it was difficult to get workmen and materials because of the nation-wide scarcity of both. At that time the name of the factory was changed to the Warren Manufacturing Company.

In 1922, there was a growing demand for the wood Handy washing machine. In June a steady run was made for twenty-four days and 1000 washing machines were finished in that time. But at that time shipping conditions, due to a railroad strike, made it difficult to get raw material and to ship the finished product.

I am looking for more information on the Warren Manufacturing Company. If you know anything about this place please let me know.

FINISH GREAT SEASON

The Lady Eagles, in only their 5th season as a team, ended their best season ever with a season end banquet. They met this season with only 10 athletes, 5 Varsity and 5 Jr. High girls. Their coach this year, Mark Campbell, chose to play at the Varsity level, and took this young team to a level of performance that was almost unbelievable. They were 12-1 in regular season matches winning 36 and losing only 6 games. Their lone loss came from a match with Lakeland Christian Academy of Winona Lake, which regularly plays IHSA teams. They also finished 5th of 8 Varsity teams in the Fort Wayne Invitational Tournament the second weekend of September, winning 5 of 9 games and 1 of 3 matches. They finished their season by winning the Indiana State HomeSchool Volleyball Varsity Tournament. Winning their 4 seeding matches and 3 tournament matches, and 14 of 15 games. So, their overall match record becomes 20-3, and their overall game record is 55-11. Their victories were by an average of 11.5 points, while their losses were by 4.5 points. They won 17 of 23 contests decisively in straight games.

At the Banquet, Stephanie Gahman was chosen for the Team Spirit award, Kaleigh Shultz for Most Improved, Kelsey Featherston for Christian Character and Samantha Kelsey for Most Valuable Player. Tina Criswell was honored for her dedication to the team, by fighting through her recovery from an auto accident last summer. Stephanie Gahman and Tina Criswell were honored as graduating Seniors for their years of participating on the Volleyball team. Tina has been a participating athlete for all 5 seasons. Stephanie also participated all 5 seasons with the Lady Eagles and had 2 previous seasons with the W.A.C.H.E. (Wells Area Christian Home Educators) Lady Warriors.

ANGER & PERFECTIONISM

by The FlyLady, Marla Cilley
When you finally have reached the absolute bottom and you think there is no place to go, there is always two more places. You can give up entirely and be planted six feet under or you can scream out for help and start pulling yourself up! You have a choice. The difference is you have to get mad and scream and not give up.

Anger is not a bad emotion. As women we have been taught to just take it and not explode with anger. Exploding with anger is rage and rage is not OK, but giving yourself permission that you are upset and angry is a good thing and telling the person that you are angry at. When you keep it in it is like poison. So what do we do to ourselves? We turn anger into sad and we feel sorry for ourselves for being mistreated. Then WHAT? The anger goes to sad and then to depression. We eat to make the hurt go away or we sleep to not have to deal with what is!

It is all our perfectionism again sandwiched with that procrastination that paralyzes us into depression. I can see you all shaking your heads at me. "How can perfectionism be the foundation to my feeling bad." Well here is how it all fits together!

When something goes wrong in our lives and we can't fix it; what do we do! We can't fix it to make it right again or we can't change the other person; we want everything back the way it was!! Do you see the perfectionism rearing its ugly head? We do everything in our power to CONTROL THE ISSUES! And make it all better! Only to be shot down time and time again! So if we can't do it right what do we do! We were taught to do nothing!! I wish that was all we would do, but we have to turn it inward to abuse ourselves.

When we are unable to fix things we begin to feel guilty because of our inability to make things right or perfect! We then start to beat ourselves up! It is bad enough when we have been abused by others but now we are abusing the only person that cares for you: YOU!

This is why anger is good! It is focused toward someone else and not yourself. Now it is not good to be angry all the time because you are in fight or flight mode and when you really need to scream out for help you will not be able to. Adrenalin is an amazing body chemical. It is a power surge that supplies the energy right when you need it! This is how a mother can lift a car off of a child. I have said it many times, "Too much of a good thing can be bad for you!" Try eating a whole chocolate cake!

I have a good supply of adrenalin now! At one time I was totally depleted of my resources. I used them all up by always being upset and walking on eggshells. The adrenalin kept me from feeling what was happening inside my own body. It was a drug!

So anger can free you if you use it sparingly! Focus your justified anger toward what is making you angry and not at yourself. Do what you need to do to take care of the situation. Don't turn it inward to punish yourself when you can't fix it! You are not responsible for anyone but you! Let go of the guilt, pain and stress and be good to yourself by getting angry at the right person! Then let it go and get on with your life! You have a job to do! You may not know what that job is but you choose life too! And if you stick around the breeze come your way and you will set out on your journey. Life is a journey not a destination.

So what anger have you been turning inward?

HOW TO STAY SANE GROCERY SHOPPING

by The Dinner Diva, Leanne Ely
Here are some great tips to keep you sane and saving money as you gather your week's groceries:

1. If you leave the house without a list, you will overbuy, underbuy or forget something. Don't DO THIS! We have this tendency to THINK we'll remember and then forget the very thing we needed so desperately. The list is ESSENTIAL shopping equipment!

2. Don't shop when you're hungry. I know you've heard this one at least 800 times, but how many times do you end up eating absolute junk or buying stuff you wouldn't normally because you're starving? A simple snack before you leave the house will quell the hunger monster.

3. The basics of saving money on your groceries are eating things your family likes. Only buy stuff that is on sale if you KNOW your family will eat it. Also, make sure you don't buy in bulk because it's cheaper if it will just end up going bad. I just bought a huge bag of pears one week that were on sale only to give them mostly away. Why? Because they started to go bad. Got them off the sale rack for a great price. Need I say more?

4. Real food costs less. When you consider the health costs and nutritional deficits caused by junk food, even if the dollar amount is higher for fresh apples rather than a frozen snack food that's on sale with a double coupon, which is the better choice?

5. Are you stocking your freezer with extra dinners? This will save your fanny later on when time is tight. Mark them and date those freezer meals, use freezer quality zipper topped bags and use them on those nights when you're running children every which way and trying to get some shopping done. I promise -you will be so pleased with yourself if you have a stash in the freezer for those busy times!

I wouldn't leave you without a recipe - here's a crock-pot recipe from a past Menu-Mailer that is my absolute favorite navy bean soup recipe. And as an added bonus, it will not only freeze well, but your family will be warmed by it, too.

Crock Navy Bean Soup (FREEZES WELL)

Serves 6

- 1 pound dried navy beans
- 2 cans chicken broth — (or use veggie broth)
- 2 cans diced tomatoes
- 1 cup red wine — (optional—can skip)
- 1 onion, chopped
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 tablespoon garlic powder
- 1/2 teaspoon thyme
- 1 pinch crushed red pepper (optional)

Soak your beans overnight, rinse and drain well.

In a crock-pot, combine the soaked beans and the rest of the ingredients. Add water to cover (by an inch).

Cook on low for 4 to 8 hours or until beans are tender. Crock-pots vary greatly in cooking times, depending on brands, age of the appliance, brand and size.

POULTRY SHOW

The Crossroads of America Poultry Club will host an APA-ABA joint National Poultry Show at the state fairgrounds in Indianapolis, Indiana on November 17-18-19 of 2006. All profits from the show will be donated to the APA/ABA Youth Program. Admission is free to the general public.

This is an opportunity to see rare birds that you may never come across again. The national show attracts exhibitors and their finest birds from across the country. The experts who breed these birds will be in attendance and available to tell you about their birds, breeding programs, biosecurity and the increasing interest in heritage breeds.

The American Livestock Breeds Conservancy and the Society for Preservation of Poultry Antiquities have collaborated to produce a Rare Breed Poultry Tour. Join us Friday, November 17 at 1:30 to 3:30 pm for guided tours of the rare breed poultry present at the poultry show. See living examples of Nankin and Java chickens, Cayuga ducks, Pilgrim geese, Bourbon Red turkeys and others, and learn about the history and the unique characteristics of these breeds. Tour leaders will include staff and members of the American Livestock Breeds Conservancy, members of the American Poultry Association, and members of the Society for Preservation of Poultry Antiquities, such as:

Frank Reese, Jr., is the national leader in Standard Bronze turkeys and other heritage turkey varieties like the Bourbon Red, Black, White Holland and Narragansett. This year his Good Shepherd Ranch will raise close to 10,000 standard bred turkeys for the heritage turkey market. Mr. Reese's farm also produces Barred Plymouth Rock chickens, Dark and White-Laced Red Cornish chickens, Alyesbury and Rouen ducks and Dewlap Toulouse, Emben and American Buff geese. He has raised fowl for more than 50 years.

Craig Russell, a lifelong poultry fancier and historian. Mr. Russell has served as president of the Society for the Preservation of Poultry Antiquities for more than ten years. He raises old breeds of chickens such as Dorkings, Old English Games, Orientals, old breeds of waterfowl such as Pomeranian geese and more than ten kinds of turkeys.

Danny Williamson, is an American Poultry Association and American Bantam Association licensed judge and a master breeder of White Call ducks, Black turkeys, and Dark Brahma chickens. He works closely with Good Shepherd Ranch to bring heritage poultry back to the market.

Marjorie Bender, is Research and Technical Programs Manager for the American Livestock Breeds Conservancy. She has a M.Ed. in Agricultural Science from the University of California-Davis and has been involved in sustainable agriculture since 1991. Her responsibilities include coordinating poultry census, promoting rare breeds into appropriate habitats, and leading ALBC's heritage turkey conservation effort.

Don Schrider, is a master breeder of Brown Leghorn chickens, poultry author and historian, and works as the Communication Director and poultry specialist for the American Livestock Breeds Conservancy. He currently leads ALBC's pilot project to recover breed production characteristics of the Buckeye chicken; part of the Renewing America's Food Traditions project.

Christine Heinrichs, author of How To Raise Chickens, to be published Spring 2007, is Publicity Director for the Society for Preservation of Poultry Antiquities. Her book includes sections on heritage breeds, traditional breeding systems and natural incubation. She has written about poultry for more than ten years. She is currently seeking property and funding for the first Fowl Trust Site.

These and other poultry experts will be available to answer questions and for print and broadcast interviews, including:

Dr. Charles R. H. Everett is an expert on Oriental Games, but he knows plenty about all kinds of chickens. He grew up on a farm in Tennessee and has been involved with chickens most of his life. He currently serves as Secretary/Treasurer for the Society for Preservation of Poultry Antiquities.

Don Cable began with chickens and a Victory Garden at age eight in San Francisco during World War II. He has continued to raise various types of poultry throughout of his life. He currently serves as Show Coordinator for the Society for Preservation of Poultry Antiquities. He also edits the Nankin Quarterly for the international club devoted to preserving the very old and rare Nankin.

Bill Wulff owns and operates the poultry related publication, Poultry Press. From Indiana, he is one of America's top poultrymen and has won more major poultry shows than any other exhibitor. He was recently featured on the Animal Planet television special, Fowl Play.

Predating dog and cat shows, formal and organized poultry shows have been a competitive comparison of perfected poultry in the United States since 1870. The shows are arbitrated by comparison of the specimen with a written standard that outlines the ideal form and color pattern for each individual breed. These standards and the organizational structure are overseen by two organizations, the American Poultry Association and the American Bantam Association, in much the same way as the American Kennel Club and United Kennel Club oversee dog shows.

There also specialty breed associations which focus on the promotion of particular standard breeds. There are 37 specialty associations holding their national meets at this special show including the prestigious American Poultry Association, American Bantam Association, and the Society for Preservation of Poultry Antiquities.

The American Livestock Breeds Conservancy is also holding its annual conference and members meeting, Becoming Better Breeders – Tools and Strategies for Success, in conjunction with this show. For more information contact ALBC at (919) 542-5704 or visit www.albc-usa.org.

The National Poultry show this year is expected to be the largest poultry show in America's history. Don't miss this once in a lifetime opportunity to see living examples of America's agricultural poultry heritage and resources.
