FARMERS MARKET SPOTLIGHT

This week we are recognizing Judy Raab. She remembers the very first market at "Eckmans". In those days they sold 75-100 lbs of beef in two weeks! As a family they have been raising angus cattle for 14 years. All their cattle are born and raised on their family farm. It takes over a year to feed them out and get them ready to sell. They do not use any hormones. She is a mother to 5 kids and 14 grandkids. If you need some beef come and check out what she has every Sat. from 8-11. Hamburger patties are $3.50 per pound and bulk is $3.25.

There will also be STRAWBERRIES this week. Along with pies, cupcakes, angel food cake, Lions Club breaded tenderloins, flowers and vegetable starts. We had 8 vendors there last week. Come out see what we have this week. Kristi Mounsey 2604146331

We are looking for more vendors.

PRESERVING NATURE'S BOUNTY

Picture your garden overflowing with plump, juicy tomatoes, shiny green peppers, and crisp green beans. Imagine picking juicy peaches, pears, and apples from the local orchards or selecting fresh produce from baskets at the farmers' markets.

Why not save some of this bounty to enjoy all through the year? Food preservation is the process of treating and handling food to stop or greatly slow down spoilage, loss of quality, edibility, or nutritive value caused or accelerated by micro-organisms.

Learn to preserve foods safely. The Purdue Extension Service in Wells County will be conducting 'Preserving Nature's Bounty' workshop to discuss safe home food preservation procedures and to answer the frequently asked questions on canning, freezing, and drying foods. The workshop is scheduled for June 11, 1:00 – 3:00 p.m. at the Wells County Community Center at the 4-H Park.

Please register by calling the Wells County Purdue Extension office at (260) 824-6412, or email mhoag@purdue.edu for a more information. Registration cost is $3.00, payable at the door.

RELAY FOR LIFE

Two Bands will provide outstanding music entertainment at the Huntington Relay for Life event on Saturday, June 8, at 2:00 P.M. at Kreigbaum Field.

The Remony is a pop rock band hailing from northeast Indiana. The group is comprised of five members, four guys, and one gal. The band boasts dual lead vocals and the ability to harness the assertiveness of rock while maintaining a Top 40 sound. In an independent music scene formerly dominated by Indie, punk rock, and experimental music, The Remony offers a unique and distinct voice amidst the noise.

Also taking to the stage during the evening hours at the Relay is the four piece folk band from Huntington, Roustabout. If you like stripped down, intimate songs played on a variety of acoustic instruments then you'll love them. The members are Bob Thompson, Joey Spiegel, Chris Kauffman and Justin Barker.

Roustabout is a folk band steeped in Americana playing original tunes and covering a diverse set of artists ranging from the Avett Brothers to Death Cab for Cutie. Sounds include folk, a bit of rock and even some jazzy love boat inspired grooves. Expect an intimate stripped down sound delivered with great vocal harmonies, and as many different acoustic instruments as four guys can play (guitars, banjo, mandolin, ukulele, upright and electric and light percussion).

When asked why the band is dedicated to the Relay event, Joey Spiegel said: "As a band we try to play any charity event that we can. We all work for nonprofits so we understand how important it is to give back. This is the second year in a row we've been asked to play at Relay For Life and it's a great event to get behind."

Both bands will perform on the Edward Jones Stage at Kriegbaum Field on Saturday evening, June 8. Roustabout will play from 6-7:15 P.M. and The Remony will play from 9-9:30 P.M.

More schedule information is available on the Relay for Life Website and the Huntington Relay for Life Facebook page.

TREE DISEASES

Folks are noticing diseases with their trees this spring. One disease being found in trees across Indiana is anthracnose. The cool and wet conditions that occurred in April as leaves were emerging is the main culprit. In the Huntington County area leaves infected with anthracnose are appearing in oak and maple trees this spring. It is caused by a fungus, and affected leaves will look different depending on the type of tree. Fungicides are not recommended to control this disease.

In some cases maple leaves are shriveling up and trees are nearly defoliated because of anthracnose. Gail Ruhl from the Plant and Pest Diagnostic Lab on the Purdue campus notes that trees are stressed from last year's drought and producing a second crop of leaves to replace those that fall prematurely may cause additional stress. Proper care of drought-stressed trees during the coming summer will be critical.

Lindsey Purcell, Purdue Urban Forestry Specialist recommends the following:

* mulch trees with 2-3 inches of fresh organic mulch (keeping it away from the trunk)

* prune out only dead wood and minimize pruning of green wood to reduce wounding.

* make sure plantings get 1 inch of water each week from either irrigation or rain

* do not fertilize this year as this will only stress the tree/shrubs by forcing new growth

Ruhl has previously taught Master Gardener interns in Huntington County about plant diseases. She uses a triangle drawing to describe how a disease develops in plants. In other words, each of the three sides of the triangle represents something, which must happen for a disease to take hold in a plant. The first side of the triangle is "susceptible host plant", which means that a plant must be prone to getting the disease. The second side is "active pathogen" - this is what causes the disease (ie. fungus). The third side of the triangle is "favorable environment for infection" - note that this usually means experiencing damp weather.

A Purdue Extension publication called "Anthracnose of Shade Trees" (BP-9-W) provides more details. The publication can be found at this link: http://www.extension.purdue.edu/extmedia/BP/BP\_9\_W.pdf

SOCIAL MEDIA FORUM

A Indiana Department of Health Youth Risk Behavior Survey from 2012 shows 9th graders are more likely to be bullied online than other grades with girls more likely to be the target of electronic bullying than boys.

These facts are among the challenges the digital age has created, and the Indiana Youth Institute (IYI) is hosting a forum that will explore how children become vulnerable to peer bullying by using texting, Twitter, Facebook, chat rooms and the internet. Children today are plugged in 24/7, whether it be through the use of social media or their cell phones.

The forum will feature Dan Classen, a former detective for internet crimes against children and cofounder of My Cyber Guardian Education Services, a company that utilizes a research-based, community-driven approach to tackling these important issues. Classen will discuss strategies for eliminating electronic peer victimization and how to equip children to grow into upstanding digital citizens.

The forum will run from 11:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. on Wednesday, June 12 at Matter Park's Garden House, 1 Matter Park Circle, Marion, 46952.

As part of IYI's Youth Worker Café program, the forum is free and lunch will be served, but reservations are required by Tuesday, June 11. RSVP at www.iyi.org/YWC or by contacting IYI Statewide Outreach Manager Debbie Jones via phone at (800) 343-7060 or via email at djones@iyi.org.

Youth Worker Cafés are designed to bring together local youth workers to build relationships and inspire collaborations that will benefit children. This Youth Worker Café is made possible by the collaborative efforts of Family Services Society, Inc. and IYI.
