TURTLE CLEANING CLASS

There will be a Turtle Cleaning Class at the Warren Sportsman's Club on Tuesday, July 31st at 7:00. Please come out and join us. You will have the chance to see a turtle being cleaned and also to taste some deep fried turtle nuggets. You will be given some recipes on how to cook turtle meat and also some tips on the best way to remove turtles from your ponds. Bring your lawn chair and a drink and come out and learn a new skill. This is a free class and open to the public. We hope to see you on Tuesday, July 31st at 7:00 pm at the Warren Sportsman's Club.

INSPIRED 4

In their 3rd year, Inspired 4 is still a new name in the Gospel Quartet world. Four Christian men with a heart for Christ: Greg Brown, Ron Smith, Brian Eager and Jonathan Sly have joined to form Inspired 4 with the desire to bring God's Word to the community through music.

These four men bring a wide range of musical backgrounds to Inspired 4. Church music programs, barbershop choruses & quartets, community choirs, Gospel quartets, community theatre productions and solo events for more than 25 years greatly enhance the concert experience.

Join us for toe-tapping music such as "Raise the Roof" and "Ride That Glory Train" to popular favorites "Alpha and Omega" and "He Touched Me". Pastor Scott Nedberg will be preaching from the Gospel of John with his sermon "When The Pressure is ON!"

Please join us on Sunday July 29th at 9:30 AM at Warren

United Church of Christ for a morning of music and worship. Fellowship at 9am and following the service, with coffee, donuts and juice. All are Welcome!!!

EMS CLASSES

Huntington North students will have an opportunity to take an EMS class during the spring semester through a partnership with Parkview Huntington Hospital.

Introduction to Emergency Medical Services will prepare students for state certification as a first responder or EMT-Basic, which could lead to a career as an EMT or paramedic. In addition, it provides valuable training for students who may be considering an advanced degree in medicine.

Students enrolled in the spring course will learn about emergency medical service operations, personal and scene safety, scene and patient assessment, and patient care. Students will also have an opportunity to develop first responder skills in simulated situations. At the end of the course, participants will take state certification exams.

Micah Thomas, assistant principal at Huntington North, said students who complete the course and pass the certification exam will have valuable skills that will serve them well as they begin to seek full-time employment. "This is one more opportunity to provide students with real world, hands-on training that translates to job potential."

ALUMNI WEBSITE

A new Van Buren Alumni website will be launched on August 15, 2012. Stop by their booth during the Popcorn Festival to check out the information. There are lots of pictures from the Alumni yearbook published in 1968 and the webmaster is looking for more pictures of the school, town and more to put on the website. Lots of interesting information to be posted for future generations to see and past generations to fondly remember.

BINGO! BINGO!

To benefit The SwitchUp Youth Center in Van Buren.

Featuring Vera Bradley, Premier Jewelry, Thirty-One Bags.

Friday, August 3, 2012 at Hontz Hall in Gas City. Doors open at 5:30 p.m., Bingo starts at 6:30 p.m. $12 in Advance, $15 at the door.

There will be a 50/50 drawing and a raffle for a rolling tote from Vera Bradley.

Food and drink will also be available for sale.

COUNCIL NOTES

Due to the July 4 holiday, the Van Buren Town Council held their only meeting in July on July 18. President Marvin Surber called the meeting to order at 7 pm. All in attendance repeated the Pledge to the American Flag.

Tim Eckerle was in attendance and asked for a tax abatement for Modern Machine and Tool Company. Council approved the abatement.

Citizens were still in attendance concerning clean-up of the town. Council members are also concerned, but are required to serve notice on the owners, allowing the owner a certain amount of time to comply. If owners fail to comply, Council can serve notices as the law allows. If town employees have to mow the properties it interferes with their regular duties.

One citizen who has attended many meetings concerning unempt properties was upset because his taxes have gone up due to the assessed evaluation.

Council voted no to the Grant County Resolution to lower taxes.

Council voted to extend the burning ban to coincide with Grant County.

The Van Buren Fire Department requested permission to purchase a new television to use in practice. Permission was granted.

Joyce Roethler, representing county veterans, was in attendance. She told about a stand down in October at the Marion YMCA to help veterans in need of help. Any local contributions to the event may be taken to the Van Buren Legion.

Linda Long had a diagram of a

KUDOS, KICKS & KARATS

THE UPTOWN GARDENER

by Ruth Herring

Good Day Warren Weekly Readers

Mom is taking a rest for a bit so Trev and I are doing the writing this week. We are looking at the cookbooks and going thru all the family favorites. We want to take the opportunity again to thank you for all your prayers and time spent with dad while we are yet going thru another life change. Please continue to keep mom and dad in your prayers it is greatly appreciated.

When we were growing up the word organic was totally unheard of but in today's world we would have been so hip. Our garden was, as it seemed to a couple of little girls, very huge and always a project much dreaded. Our chores were to weed the garden and pick green beans, and tomatoes. We always had fresh veggies for supper or in the winter time it was canned. Some sort of meat and usually potatoes or noodles and always desert. Given the fact Trev and I are not slim and trim we were well fed off this huge garden and moms good cookin.

At the end of growing season when we had to bring in all the veggies our project was to take the end of the garden and can vegetable soup and with the green tomatoes make green tomatoes pie.

Green Tomato Pie

Line a 8 or 9 inch piepan with pie crust. Wash and slice thin, enough firm green tomatoes to fill the shell. (Slightly rounded up). Mix together 1/2 cup brown sugar, 1/2 cup granulated sugar, 2 Tbsp flour. Pour over tomatoes. Sprinkle with 2 Tbsp of lemon juice and 1/2 tsp cinnamon. Add 2 Tbsp of butter and then top crust. Bake at 425 for 15 min, reduce heat to 350 for 45 min.

On Birthdays I asked Trev what we did for her birthday, being the week before Christmas we had all kinds of treats sitting around. She said she got a big cake with a big poinsettia on it. But I remember on my birthday we always had homemade ice cream and cake. Since my birthday is the middle of February and the coldest month of the year, we would build a fire in the fireplace sit by the fire and eat homemade ice cream.

Every Sunday we had Cracker Jack. I asked Dad for the recipe and...

... well do you all remember the TV show the Waltons and the

Those also in attendance were Lana Stuber and Opal Brubaker. A founders day service and candle lighting service was also held.

SCHOLARSHIPS AWARDED

The Huntington County Community Foundation announces that Kyle Konz, Megan Leedy, Mary Miller and Stephen Zahm have been awarded 2012 Donald E. and Lou Rayne Scheiber Catholic Education and Charity Fund scholarships. Each recipient is a graduating senior from Huntington North High School.

Konz will be attending Purdue University (West Lafayette) majoring in Civil Engineering and minoring in Spanish. He is the son of Mark and Hope Konz of Huntington.

Leedy will be attending Saint Francis University majoring in Pre-Dentistry. She is the daughter of Thomas and Susan Leedy of Huntington.

Miller will be attending IPFW majoring in Interior Design. She is the daughter of William and Katherine Miller of Huntington.

Zahm will be attending IPFW majoring in Pre-Dentistry. He is the son of Mark and Jodi Zahm of Roanoke.

The Scheiber Huntington Catholic School Fund, which was created in 1997 by Donald E. and Lou Rayne Scheiber, was recently modified and renamed to allow also for the awarding of scholarships. This new purpose is to promote educational opportunities for Huntington County students who are members of three Catholic Church parishes: Saint Mary, Saint Joseph (Roanoke) and Saints Peter & Paul. These are the inaugural scholarships from this fund.

For more information regarding this scholarship or any other scholarships awarded by HCCF, visit our web site at www.huntingtonccf.org.

FORKS FUNDRAISER

The Historic Forks of the Wabash recently conducted fundraisers to reach their goal of raising $2,500. The Modern Woodmen of America offered the opportunity of matching funds up to $2,500 total.

In addition to a garage sale and a silent auction held at the Forks of the Wabash, the Modern Woodmen of America sponsored a matching fund all-you-can-eat fish and chicken fry for the benefit of the Forks. All proceeds were donated to the Historic Forks of the Wabash and will be used for collection preservation and furnishing the archive room.

The board members and volunteers of the Forks wish to thank all who contributed or helped with the fundraisers in any way.

The event is sponsored by Boy Scout Troop 72 and they will be providing food service from their tent, which will be located west of the car display between the car display and the miniature horse pull on the Swiss Heritage pulling track. Proceeds from the food stand will benefit the Boy Scouts and other community organizations.

A trolley will be available for transportation between Berne Swiss Days events in downtown Berne and the car show, the dog races, the dog show, the antique tractor & engine display and the miniature horse pull at Swiss Heritage Village.

GIRLS NIGHT OUT

Christmas City Chorus invites any female singer to visit rehearsals during the month of August for their annual Girls Night Out! It is an opportunity for female singers of any age, musical experience or voice range to experience the fun of rehearsals with singing and group vocal education, meeting the members of the chorus who love to sing and share their music with others and finding out more about membership in the chorus.

Christmas City Chorus is the current 3rd place Division AA, mid-size medalists in Region 4 Sweet Adelines International and in the top 50 Division AA choruses worldwide. The chorus also won the Audience Choice Award for Most Entertaining Chorus at regional competition this past spring. Based in Marion, members come from 9 counties in East Central Indiana for weekly rehearsals. Working for musical excellence through group and private vocal sessions, workshops and coaching sessions is a focus of the chorus. Singers who are challenged to improve musically and who love to sing and perform are encouraged to attend any or all Monday nights in August, 7-9:30 pm at the Church of the Brethren, 2302 S. Geneva, Marion, west of the bypass on 26th.

For more information go to www.christmascitychorus.org or call 765-677-SING.

DNR CAUTION

People who use Indiana's lakes and reservoirs for recreation should be aware that blue-green algae blooms have the potential to cause health problems in humans and animals.

Blue-green algae blooms are a seasonal occurrence in some Indiana waters, fueled by summer heat, sunlight and fertilizer runoff from lawns and farms. Drought and low water levels in lakes and reservoirs can increase blue-green algae quantities and/or toxins.

Some blue-green algae produce toxins that can cause rashes, skin and eye irritation, nausea, stomach aches, and tingling fingers and toes. People who experience any of these symptoms after boating or swimming should seek medical attention.

Dogs and other animals are particularly vulnerable to blue-green algae because they may drink the contaminated water or swallow the algae as they clean their coats.

Two dogs died and two others were sickened earlier this week after swimming in a cove at Salamonie Lake. Symptoms and circumstances suggest blue-green algae toxicity may have been the cause.

Boaters, swimmers and dog owners should:

- Avoid ingesting lake water.
- Avoid contact with algae blooms, which generally appear as a scum on the water surface.
- Shower with soapy water after swimming.
- Bring clean water for your dog to drink on hikes or other outings.
- Keep dogs close and on a leash.

- Bathe your dog with soapy water as soon as possible after a swim.

People who access Indiana's reservoirs from resource management areas, small boat launching sites, fishing access parking lots or unofficial entry points such as dead-end county roads and other remote locations should be especially cautious before entering the water. It is important for visitors to check the property's webpage at www.stateparks.IN.gov and at the property office to ensure that they have current information about property rules and possible algae alerts.

Blue-green algae is most often found in shallow water or coves and bays where water movement is limited.

Weather conditions—wind direction, water temperature, precipitation—can quickly change the blue-green algae cell count and the concentration of toxins in an area.

Hoosiers can help reduce blue-green algae blooms by choosing phosphorus-free fertilizer, limiting the use of fertilizer around waterways, and regularly maintaining septic systems.

The Indiana Department of Environmental Management regularly tests for blue-green algae at 13 Indiana lakes during summer. If high levels of algae or toxins are documented during testing, a notice is posted at algae.IN.gov and caution notices are placed in those locations until algae cell counts return to safe levels.

For additional information about pets, farm animals and blue-green algae go to www.in.gov/boah/2617.htm.

LIVESTOCK DECISIONS

The drought has caused livestock growers to re-think how they can feed their animals in the upcoming months. Area farmers have had a very low yielding second cutting of alfalfa and hay crops. So, this important feed resource will be at a much lower inventory than normal.

Many have recently planting sorghum-sudan grass in an effort to have another forage crop by fall. This crop is best to be fed as pasture, silage or a green chop, and it would typically need to be planted by July 15.

There have fortunately been some scattered storms in recent days, which should help with establishing a stand for the sorghum-sudan grass. The drought still has a grip on Indiana, however, so farmers understand that they still may not have a good yield for this late-planted crop.

Both small and large livestock producers are considering selling some or all of their livestock if the situation does not improve soon. The most recent Indiana Crop Report produced by the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture (as of July 16, 2012) showed 87% of pasture in the state was of "very poor" or "poor" quality.

In a drought year, forages of low quantity and quality can leave animals thin and undernourished. Less-than-optimal body conditions can have reproductive consequences not only this year, but next year as well.

Ron Lemenager, Purdue Extension beef specialist, recently made these comments about beef herds, "The environmental conditions we are experiencing have ratcheted stress forward into the heart of the breeding season for those that calve in the spring, meaning it's very probable we'll see more open cows than normal this fall," said Lemenager.

Unfortunately, there are no cheap, easy fixes for producers who have both short pastures and limited hay supplies. Good management means beef producers should develop and implement a strategy that specifies what to do with pastured animals and where winter feed supplies will come from long before the last blade of grass or bale of hay disappears. If not properly managed, a drought year can affect the bottom line for three years.

To avoid the three-year "tail", Lemenager said producers might need to pay the price now to supplement feed and make sure cows are healthy and in moderate body condition. Healthy cows will breed better and can shorten the time producers face fallout from the drought.

A resource available to producers is the Purdue Extension drought Web site: www.purdue.edu/drought. This page includes links to the animal drought information, and it is updated on a regular basis. The site has been designed by general information and by species for easy use.

PAMPERING YOURSELF CAN SAVE YOU MONEY

by The FlyLady

Marla Cilley

Do you ever have one of those days when you just seem to be cursed? When adrenaline starts pumping through our veins for some reason our brains quit functioning. This is why we have so many accidents when we are in a hurry. I want you to think about the last time you got injured or something bad happened to you. Were you rushing around like a chicken with its head cut off?

The adrenalin has us wired and before we know it we have stumbled a toe, tripped and fell or worse yet had a car accident. There is no excuse for rushing. What good does it do us to get in a hurry! Being in a hurry doesn't get us there any faster it just makes our lives miserable, the people around us miserable and sets us up to have an accident. Just taking a simple baby step to stop this vicious cycle will help you to slow down and quit hurrying.

When you catch yourself feeling rushed; take a few seconds to breathe and stop yourself from feeding that urge to hurry. As your look hard at what propelled you into this hurried way of living; I want you to see that it was all because of procrastination on your part. When you stop hurrying you may actually get somewhere on time!

Stop rushing to put out the fires of procrastination. Quit allowing yourself the option of doing it later. We all know that those "laters" build up to "hurrying to try to catch up"! You can do this! One baby step at a time. Starting with going to bed at a decent hour so you can get up in plenty of time to get ready!

A dear friend of mine had an accident the other day. She has two speeds: Fast and Faster! As a result of that adrenaline, she broke a fingernail. This was not any mere break; the nail was pulled away from the nail bed. I cringe just thinking about it. There has been something wonderful to come out of this accident. She has had to go to the beauty shop twice a week to get her hair washed and dried.

This takes an hour out of her day.

She admitted to me that was one of the only times she can sit and relax. Then she told me that it has actually saved her money. Now I didn't quite understand this till she told me that while she was sitting in the salon chair having her hair washed and dried; she was not out shopping. You know how it is if you walk into a store without a list. You end up spending $50 that was not planned. There goes your budget. We are tempted by the sales for things or groceries we really don't need. It all begins to add up. She said with less time to shop she was staying out of the stores.

Who knew that taking a few minutes for yourself could save you money? We don't have to have an accident to learn this lesson. Slow down and smell the roses! Pampering yourself can save you money!

For more help getting rid of your CHAOS, check out her website and join her free mentoring group at www.FlyLady.net or her book, Sink Reflections published by Random House and her New York Times Best Selling book, Body Clutter published by Simon and Schuster. ### KNOW IT ALLS

by V Neil Wyrick

I listen to the politicians pontificate and offer perfect solutions to each and every problem across this great and still growing land. And I only wish they were half as smart as they would want us to believe they are, for then they would be twice as smart as they presently are.

A boss told his employee, "I taught you everything you know - and you still don't know anything!"

"The fundamental cause of trouble in the world is that the stupid are cocksure while the intelligent are full of doubt."

* Bertrand Russell, Mortals and

Others 1: American Essays 1931-35

"A prig is a fellow who is always making you a present of his opinions."

* George Eliot, Middlemarch: A Study of Provincial Life

"How can one absolve intelligent men for engaging in arrogant and demented folly?"

* C.R. Strahan

With November drawing closer and the accompanying political opinions... the season for name calling does increase by leaps and bounds... does it not.

And so I got to thinking... if you speak or write of an individual who politically disagrees with you as "stupid" or "worse names even than that" is it possible you are also "stupid" or "worse names even than that" because you disagree with them?

Is it possible that two people reaching differing opinion from the same set of facts are being equally reasonable and unreasonable.

I know in the last 50 years my political leanings have changed. I will not name whether you can call me a Centrist, a Republican or Democrat because if I did it would simply mean that I would then be denigrated by a different collection of individuals... who promptly saw me as "stupid" or "worse names even that."

And therein lies our problem, as old as time and as unfortunately sure to continue.

In short... cool it... respect that other person and their opinion... cease to grow quite so angry at he or she who is disagreeing with you.

Respect them, not necessarily their ideas, as much as you want them to respect you.

And yes... the lunatic fringe is always with us. but ah now, which lunatic fringe am I talking about...

CHALK UP MORE BACK-TO-#### SCHOOL SAVINGS BY

SHOPPING ONLINE

(ARA) - As the end of summer nears, the flashing red lights of yellow school buses will caution drivers to stop as students board. College students will pull out of driveways with cars filled to the brim with dorm room supplies. And the school bells will echo across the playground, signaling the start and end of classroom learning.

Of course, before school starts in the fall, parents will tackle the task of back-to-school shopping. The "must-buy" list often doesn't change much from year to year. Students of all ages and schooling levels will need pencils, notebooks, new clothes, backpacks and folders. As you develop a shopping list for your children this year, consider making the back-to-school shopping experience a bit easier by staying home, shopping online and saving money. Use these tips for better back-to-school savings.

* Regular school supplies like pencils, pens, rulers and notebooks are best found via big box retailers. But often in the stores, the back-to-school aisles look as if a whirlwind trashed the place. Instead, calmly sit at home with your list in front of you and order the supplies your children need via the retailers' websites. In addition, use cash back sites like Ebates.com, to find extra savings, both on shopping list items and shipping costs. By having all the supplies delivered to your home, you'll have saved yourself the time and stress of taking the children to the store.

* Shop the back-to-school sales online. Many retailers will designate a day, week or even month promoting their back-to-school discounts, and some states will designate a tax-free shopping day for school items and clothing. Take advantage of these savings, and look for "buy one, get one free" offers (very helpful if you have more than one child heading back to school) or free shipping coupon codes to add even more savings.

* Some online coupon sites like Ebates.com offer cash back on your purchases. For example, when shopping for school supplies online, visit your favorite retail stores through Ebates.com, make your purchases and receive cash back rewards based on a percentage of your purchase. Plus, the back-to-school shopping season will bring increased cash back from dozens of popular stores, so take a little time to compare the best cash back rates with each store's coupon codes and discounts to make the most of any available savings.

* College students often qualify for student discounts when using a valid student ID. Electronics like laptop computers and smartphones are typically the biggest budget items on a college student's back-to-school shopping list. Search for seasonal discounts and coupon codes at computer and mobile brand online stores, like HP, Dell, AT&T and Verizon, where additional savings can be gleaned with a student ID. Also, use FatWallet.com as a resource for detailed student and teacher discount guides in the FatWallet blog and check their hot deals forum for the latest back-to-school deals.

Staying home and accomplishing the entire shopping list for your student's back-to-school supplies without having to drive all over town will leave everyone in your family a bit happier and better prepared for the first day of school. Plus, the extra savings you can find while shopping online will help your budget.

Baldwin sisters?? He said it is a secret recipe we were never allowed in the kitchen when dad was making cracker jack.

I am going to let Treva tell you what her favorite recipes are.

--Gayle

Well my favorites are of very many, and if anyone has ever been in my kitchen it shows by the amount of cookbooks I have collected over the years. As of today I have collected close to 100 and that included some I have penned myself. I have always been a cook, I think it runs through my veins.

Since it is 4-H week I will tell you a story of my first cooking project. I think it was a failure in the beginning, but when I look back on it I laugh about it. Well my project category was cookies, and I decided to just use the recipe that was in the 4-H manual. Chocolatecrinkles was the cookie recipe. At the time mom had the flower shop and was really busy with a funeral and wedding, so I was pretty much on my own. The recipe called for melted chocolate so not having a microwave, I had to melt the chocolate on the stove. Mom suggested that melting the chocolate over hot steam would work. Just get the coffee pot full of water and turn it on and when it gets hot put the bowl over the coffee pot and let it melt that way, so that's what I did.

My chocolate was nice and melted and so was the tupperware bowl that I used. So once we got the mess cleaned up and moved on to another batch, without plastic added, we baked the cookies and then had to choose from all the cookies to put on the plate and send them to judging.

When judging day came around I was quite proud of my project, the judge on the other hand was not. They were not done and was automatically given a white ribbon. It just broke my heart, but that white ribbon really meant something to me in the years to follow. It gave me the inspiration to keep on trying and never did I get a champion in 4-H it always gave me the will to keep on trying for the big award.

In the past few years, I have entered open class during the 4-H fair and I can finally say all of my years of experience has finally paid off many times over and have brought home many of the big awards.

So congratulations to all the big winners on their 4-H projects and to the ones that had hoped for the big award, keep trying you too will get the big award some day, it may not be a pretty purple ribbon but the rewards you get from your family are the best and if you look at my family...well they are well fed. Have a great rest of the summer and keep cool, the locust is buzzing...and we all know what that means.

HUNTINGTON COUNTY 4-H FAIR ASSOCIATION INC.

PURCHASES PROPERTY

The Huntington County 4-H Fair Association is pleased to announce it has reached a contractual agreement to purchase 3.31A of real estate at the corner of Evergreen Road and East Taylor Street in Huntington. This property is adjacent to the current Fairgrounds located in Hier's Park.

The property is being purchased from Janet Sue (Day) Heaston. The acreage has been in the Day family over 90 years, as it was originally purchased by Mrs. Heaston's grandparents, Let & Bertha Day, around the year 1920. Janet Day-Heaston is the daughter of Cyril (Cy) and Geraldine (Jerry) Day. Cy and Jerry moved to the property when Janet was just 6 months old. Janet Day left the family home in 1957 when she married Richard (Dick) Heaston, but the property has continued to remain in the family.

Thanks to Cy & Jerry Day and Dick & Janet Heaston, the Huntington County 4-H Fair Association has been able to utilize the property for almost 40 years. The acreage adjacent to the Show Arena in Hier's Park has been used as a close and convenient parking area for 4-H exhibitors and Fair patrons. For the 2012 4-H Fair, the Association will continue to utilize the land for vehicle parking. The Fair Association is currently considering alternative uses for the property as it researches various areas of program growth and expansion.

Purchase of the property was made possible thanks to a $5000 gift from Farm Credit Mid-America. Farm Credit's Marion, Indiana office has been a long time supporter of the Huntington County 4-H program. Their support has been realized through various building projects around the grounds, show sponsorships, showmanship awards, livestock auction support and fund raising efforts such as the biannual benefit auction. Farm Credit Mid-America is a $17.1 billion financial services cooperative serving over 92,500 farmers, agribusinesses and rural residents in Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana and Tennessee. The association provides loans for all farm and rural living purposes including real estate, operating loans, equipment loans, and housing loans. FCMA also provides an array of financial services, including crop insurance and leases. For more information about Farm Credit, call 1-800-444-FARM or visit them on the web at www.e-farmcredit.com.
