THE WEEKLY SPECIAL

by Helen @ Natalie Jeanne's I'm baaaack!!!! With the Thanksgiving Farmer's Market approaching (yes, the rumors ARE true! It will be this Saturday, Nov. 19th, from 10am-12pm in the Eckman Motors Parking Lot), I thought it only appropriate to resume my writing about recipes. One of my favorite Thanksgiving desserts was always made by my grandmother, Nonni. It is Italian in nature, but it is also pie and I know how much Hoosiers love their pie!!! I hope you like this one.

Rice Pie

(makes two 8" pies)

1.5 Cups cooked rice (drain and run under cold water)

4 eggs

1 cup sugar

1 cup heavy cream

½ tsp salt

1 tsp cinnamon

1 tsp vanilla

1 lb ricotta cheese

Mix all ingredients. Doing it by hand is the easiest.

Crust

2.5 cups flour

2.5 tsp baking powder

Pinch salt

½ cup sugar

3 eggs

1 tsp vanilla

½ cup butter or margarine

Mix dry ingredients, then cut in the butter. Make a well; add eggs, vanilla, and mix well. Roll out onto floured board and fit into GREASED pie shells. Pour in filling and bake at 350 degrees at least 30 minutes (it usually takes 45 minutes. Check with a knife in the center).

I hope my Nonni is happy I am sharing her recipes. I guess if she wanted me to keep them secret she would have let me know!! My grand finale in the next issue will feature my absolute favorite of Nonni's traditional, holiday, Italian desserts. Just thinking about it is making my mouth water! Until next week, Bon Appetit!

OPENS AT THE PULSE

On the day after Thanksgiving, the Pulse Opera House will ring in the holidays with Barbara Robinson's classic Christmas story "The Best Christmas Pageant Ever." The show runs November 25 & 26 and December 1, 2, 3, 8, 9, 10. Tickets are $10 for adults and $5 for children 12 and under. The doors open at 7:30 PM and the show starts at 8:00 PM. Tickets may be reserved by calling (260) 375-7017. This is one Christmas treat you won't want to miss!

HOW TO SAFELY DEEP-FRY A TURKEY

Deep-fried turkey is actually a Cajun tradition, and it is an increasingly popular way to cook the main course.

It's not the safest way, in fact a significant number of people have burned down their houses while attempting to do it. The number of burn victims from deep-frying reaches into the hundreds each year. The National Fire Protection Association and the American Burn Association discourage cooking a turkey in this manner. Because it produces a more flavorful bird with a crispy skin, people continue to "deep-fry. Some advice from Underwriters Laboratories:

- . Get a sturdy turkey fryer with four legs and a built-in thermostat so oil maintains its proper temperature.
- . Make sure the turkey is completely thawed and dry or you could be spattered with oil and get severe burns.
- . Fry outside and far away from your house.
- . Follow instructions on the size of turkey to put into your fryer and how much oil to use. Splashing oil can turn your fryer into a flamethrower.
- . Wear gloves designed for deep-frying.
- . Never leave the fryer unattended.

HOW TO CARE FOR PETS IN COLD WEATHER

Though the official start of winter is a few weeks away, in many parts of the country it's cold right now.

That means it's time to plan winter for your pets. The American Society of the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ASPCA) gives this advice, some of which may be new to pet owners.

Pets need extra water in cold weather. Make sure outside animals have fresh, unfrozen water.

If you have a cat: It's best to keep a cat inside all winter, even if he usually spends some time outside. Cats can freeze easily and can get injured or lost in snow or ice.

If you have a dog: Don't walk your dog on salt-treated roads or sidewalks. Salt can injure their sensitive paws, and they may lick it off and get sick.

Let a dog's coat grow long in winter, but brush it often. Buy a sweater for your short-haired dog.

CERVICAL PAIN TREATMENT

Busch Chiropractic Center announces the acquisition of their sixth DRS™ Treatment System and the newest generation of state-of-the-art technology for treating both lumbar disc pain and now cervical disc conditions. For almost a decade, Busch Chiropractic Center has been successfully treating patients who suffer from low back pain.

According to Dr. Richard E. Busch III, president, "Many patients have tried everything from physical therapy, epidurals, and find that even after surgery, they are facing yet another surgery, and, perhaps, fusion. DRS™ is a proven successful, non-surgical, comfortable and safe alternative for appropriate cases. Now we can offer a whole new world for those suffering from cervical disc pain. The demand for this care has been overwhelming."

DRS System™ is the most advanced device available to U.S. doctors for non-surgical treatment of disc disease. Millions of people seek relief for bulging, herniated degenerative or ruptured disc(s) as well as numbness and tingling or radiating pain in the arms and hands, or legs and feet, facet syndrome, spinal stenosis and many failed back surgery cases. The ORB System™ produces decompression to the disc which reduces the painful herniation and other disc related degenerative conditions. The results are an increase of blood flow to the injury, reduced pain, and increased mobility and tissue repair.

Dr. Busch, is a pioneer in bringing DRS™ technology to the forefront of care within the entire United States, Dr. Busch is a consultant for the continuing development of this technology and protocol. His centers offer a customized treatment protocol with exclusive elements found only at the Busch Chiropractic Centers. This, along with almost ten years of extensive experience, helps account for their high success rates.

Dr. Richard E Busch III explains, "This is the most effective, non-invasive, pain treatment procedure and corrective process for treating herniated disc that is available anywhere in the United States. The treatment lowers the cervical or lumbar intra-discal pressure and is comfortable for the patient, as well as affordable. The results are outstanding. The alternative, which may be surgery, is invasive with all the inherent risks, and often results in months of painful rehabilitation and a high percentage of recurrence. Busch Chiropractic Center is the home of the revolutionary DRS™ treatment and we have been successfully treating thousands of patients with the DRS™ or almost a decade."

Dr. Busch became involved with the DRS™ technology, which was developed by a leading neurosurgeon, over nine years ago because he had the foresight to see that the DRS™ technology was the major advancement for care. "During the past nine years, the demand for DRS™ care has exploded. We have many patients who travel a significant distance to receive this care for disc conditions and I wanted to bring this newest generation of cervical treatment protocol care to this area."

For additional information about the DRS™ protocol for cervical and lumbar conditions, contact the Busch Chiropractic Center. Call toll free, 1-888-471-4090. The Fort Wayne office is located at 505 Riviera Ct., and the new Warsaw Office is located at 497 South Circle Drive West.

BAYVIEW READING

The Bayview Reading Club met for lunch in the Calico room of the United Methodist Memorial Home on November 8, 2005. There were fourteen members present. The tables were decorated with a Thanksgiving theme and hostesses were Lilly Nutter, Dorothy Garretson and Mary Wiley.

President Helen Stokes gave the invocation before the meal was served and then presided for the business meeting. The roll call was given, the minutes of the October meeting read and treasurer report given. Both reports were approved.

Lavone Myers and Mary Wiley were made honorary members of the club by unanimous vote, with appreciation for many years of participation and service.

Lilly Nutter gave the report for the flower and card committee. The business meeting was then adjourned.

Our program was given by Mary Wiley. A very interesting review of an article concerning the work many biologists are doing in trying to uncover the incredible mystery of the migration of birds and animals.

Dorothy Garretson read poems on Thanksgiving. They were beautiful.

Marion Dawson was the winner of the door prize.

The president closed the meeting.

CHAUTAUQUA CLUB

The Chautauqua Club held their first fall meeting on October 7, 2005 at 1:30 p.m. in the Calico Room at the UMMH. Linda Howell served lovely refreshments to 25 members and one guest.

President Oma Zent called the meeting to order with everyone repeating the collect. The secretary and treasurer reports were read. Roll call was answered by members telling about "A Trip I Took This Summer." Some very interesting trips – some went far away – others were close to home.

Peggy Schweikhardt introduced Kathy Drayer Walters, who gave a very interesting talk about White's Institute, established in 1850. She shared how she and her husband Darrell Drayer first became interested in white's – became employed there – and how she has continued there after his death. Young teens are placed there for many reasons – behavioral problems – broken homes – drug addiction are some of the reasons. White's have added many programs over the years – Foster Care, White's accredited high school, Chapel program, Independent Living program, to name a few. Kathy is the canteen supervisor, where she helps girls learn to operate a retail business. White's Institute has made a name change – now it is – White's Residential & Family Services. Their motto: Building character, Offering Hope and Changing Lives.

Those attending were Barbara Baer, Janet Beavans, Nancy Bonham, Ann Brauchla, Jean Cress, Elaine Eckman, Sharon Gebhart, Linda Howell, Phyliss Hubartt, Joan Huffman, Karen Hunnicutt, Georgina Laymon, Florence Mott, Jane Ruble, Peggy Schweikhardt, Lora Ann Shafer, Ann Spahr, Carolyn Sparks, Harriett Tobias, Alice Whitmore, Betty Yoder, Oma Zent, Mary Brown, Ruth Alice Christner, Bertha Turner and guest, Kathy Drayer Walters.

November 4, 2005 the club met in the Calico Room at UMMH. The collect was repeated after president, Oma Zent, called the meeting to order. Roll call was answered by 25 members and one guest sharing memories of their senior trip. Secretary and Treasurer reports were read. Discussion about taking treats to White's.

Betty Yoder gave a very interesting program on the study of hymns. Words and music not always written at the same time or by the same person. Hymns she shared about were Whey I Survey The Wondrous Cross – Come, Ye Thankful People Come – America the Beautiful – Blessed Assurance – Battle Hymn of the Republic – Silent Night and Amazing Grace. We enjoyed singing some of the hymns.

Lovely refreshments were served by hostess Carolyn Sparks to Barbara Baer, Janet Beavans, Sue Blair, Nancy Bonham, Elaine Eckman, Linda Howell, Phyliss Hubartt, Joan Huffman, Mary

Emma Huffman, Karen Hunnicutt, Georgina Laymon, Ann Miles, Jane Ruble, Robert St John, Peggy Schweikhardt, Martha Shafer, Ann Spahr, Carolyn Sparks, Harriett Tobias, Alice Whitmore, Betty Yoder, Oma Zent, Mary Brown, Ruth Alice Christner, Bertha Turner and guest Lucille Beavans.

MEASURING OUTCOMES

The Parkview Huntington Hospital Health Improvement Committee will hold a free grant workshop, "Measuring Outcomes," on Tuesday, Nov. 29, from 8 a.m. until noon, in classrooms one, two and three at Parkview Huntington Hospital. The classrooms are located in the lower level of the hospital.

Speakers for the event will include retired Pathfinder Inc. Foundation Executive Director Ruth R. Michael, Ed. D., and Parkview Huntington Foundation Director Greg Schnepf.

Michael's topic will be "Effectively Measuring Outcomes," and Schnepf will speak on "Being Good Stewards of Grant Dollars."

The outcome-result workshop, says Michael, will provide an opportunity for those in the community who have received grants, or who anticipate applying for grants, to learn how to evaluate and write an outcome, how to measure the outcome and then report on that measurement.

"It's all about accountability," Michael says.

In addition to the main focus of the workshop, it will also be an opportunity for grant applicants to understand the importance of utilizing grant funds within the framework of the original proposals and of adhering to policies governing the use of those funds.

A free continental breakfast and lunch will also be served.

The purpose of Parkview Huntington Hospital's community benefit program is to fund community health-improvement efforts within the communities Parkview Huntington serves.

As a not-for-profit hospital, Parkview Huntington's mission is to provide quality health services to its patients inside the hospital and to the community outside the hospital. Community benefit funds are one way of expanding efforts of the hospital to improve the health of the community.

To register or for more information, contact Community Health Improvement Coordinator Claudia Ward by Nov. 22 at 800-533-2252, ext. 53307, or 260-355-3307.

SEEKS VOLUNTEERS

To mark the occasion of November as National Hospice Month, Parkview Hospice of Huntington County is seeking volunteers to provide helping hands to current county hospice patients, and is in need of all types of volunteers.

The goal of the hospice program is to allow patients to remain at home, retaining as much decision-making power and control as possible, and in time die with dignity. Hospice is a unique concept of specialized health care provided by skilled professionals and volunteers. It is designed to maintain the quality of life for an individual who no longer is actively seeking curative treatment.

Trained hospice professionals assist the family in caring for the patient, see that the patient's needs are met and keep the patient comfortable and free of pain.

Hospice volunteers perform many services as well, including running errands, light housekeeping, meal preparation, yard work, sewing or mending, reading or simply visiting with the patient or patient's family and providing emotional support.

Volunteer hours, which can range between as few as one to four hours per month, are flexible and can be arranged around personal schedules. All volunteers are required to complete a training and orientation program, which is offered several times a year in Huntington.

Michael Garringer, of Ossian, an information services analyst at Parkview Huntington Hospital, has been a hospice volunteer for about four years. He has experienced many one-on-one situations with patients, "which is something the patient has to want," Garringer said. "Sometimes they just might need someone to help out in other ways, such as running errands."

Garringer admits his hospice volunteerism has been an educational experience. "It's really put things in perspective for me. Some of these folks have been my age or younger, and when I have personal issues, those become very miniscule when compared to the ordeals they face."

Fred and Peg Kendall, of Huntington, have volunteered as a couple for more than five years. Peg Kendall, who has a physical condition that doesn't allow her to work, appreciates the opportunities hospice volunteering provides for her to be around people, she said.

"Volunteering helps me feel productive, gives meaning to my life and I enjoy the personal touch of working with the family. We get far more out of it than we give," she said. "It's such a personally rewarding experience to be able to communicate with someone during this time of his or her life."

Another type of volunteer is the Spice of Life Volunteer. They are required to receive only four hours of training and are never left alone with the patient. Their duties may include yard work, car washing, light housecleaning or putting up holiday decorations, or they may be certified as licensed barbers, hairdressers, nail technicians, mechanics, healing touch practitioners and massage therapists.

Musicians with instruments that are transportable into patients' homes are also needed to help brighten their days.

There are other ways volunteers can help Parkview Hospice, too, such as:

- Errands and office volunteers — Volunteers perform a wide variety of office and support functions, such as answering phones, typing, assembling mailings, filings, assisting with fund-raising and public-relations projects.

- Hospice Helpers — Hospice Helpers are not considered volunteers because they are not trained, but they do support Parkview Hospice by assisting with tasks that do not involve patient contact but benefit patients or support office staff. They may assemble a mailing for fund-raising or to recruit volunteers, build birdhouses or sew gowns or lap throws for patients.

- Donations — The Parkview Hospital Foundation accepts donations to provide care to those without resources to pay for Hospice care. Donations also support the Volunteer and Bereavement Services mandated by regulations, but for which the program is not reimbursed for providing. New material, as well as clean, old sweatshirts, pants, towels and sheets are needed to sew various projects.

For additional information, to schedule training or to schedule a speaker to present a program about Hospice, call 260-355-3920, or call toll free at 800-533-2252 and ask for the Hospice Volunteer Department. The Hospice Volunteer Coordinator can also be reached at mauna.cowan@parkview.com. Parkview Home and Health Hospice is located at 2270 Lake Ave., Suite 200, Fort Wayne, IN 46805.

Giving Wisely to Disaster Victims

People all over the world are opening their hearts and wallets to help the Gulf Coast communities affected by the devastation of Hurricane Katrina.

If you are giving, be sure to donate money to established national relief organizations.

The Federal Trade Commission offers these tips for giving wisely:

. Donate to a charity you know is established or that you have given to before. Do not give to a charity that is unknown and recently established as they may be well-meaning but not have the means to provide assistance. Watch for organizations that mimic the name of a major charity.

. Give to the charity directly, not to the solicitor. Solicitors may take a portion to cover their expenses leaving less money for the victim.

. Never give out personal or financial information to anyone wanting to obtain a contribution from you. Scam artists use social security numbers, bank account numbers and credit card numbers to commit fraud or identity theft against you.

. Check out a charity with the following Websites: The Better Business Bureau's Wise Giving Alliance at give.org and charitynavigator.org

. Contributing online to national charities like redcross.org/donate is safe. Never give cash. For tax purposes and security reasons you can contribute by check or credit card. Be sure to write the official name of the charity on your check.

. If you are approached in person, ask for identification verifying their organization.

. Don't give more than you can afford. Remember that Congress is approving billions in aid to victims and businesses affected by Hurricane Katrina.

. Review written information about the charity. Also ask for proof that your contribution is tax deductible.

2005 INDIANA STANDARDIZED WILD TURKEY TEST

Take the new DNR wild turkey quiz and stun friends and family with your rapid-fire, on-target flow of turkey facts at this year's Thanksgiving Day dinner table.

Responsible hunters check their equipment and aim before they take to the field. Likewise, the responsible Thanksgiving Day dinner-time conversationalist/conservationist should brush up on the newest Hoosier wild turkey trivia before the holidays.

As the centerpiece of early Thanksgiving celebrations, the wild turkey symbolized the natural resource abundance of North America. But by the Great Depression, the noble bird was veering toward extinction.

Today, turkeys represent one of the most successful wildlife restoration stories on the planet. Abundant turkey populations in parts of Indiana have even allowed a 2005 fall turkey hunting season in addition to the state's spring turkey season.
