LETTING YOUR KIDS LEARN TO BE MORE INDEPENDENT

from the American Counseling Association
 At this time of the year, many parents find themselves stressed as they watch their children become more independent. Summer's over and that son or daughter is heading off to college for the first time. Or maybe a teen is now entering high school, or a younger child is involved in a sport with older kids, but suddenly you see your role as that all-important parent becoming much smaller.

While we all want to protect our kids, we also have to recognize that a normal part of the development process is for the child to grow separate from the parent, to make more of his or her own decisions, and yes, to sometimes make bad decisions.

It can be difficult to realize that "mommy and daddy" aren't needed as much as they once were. For some parents, accepting that growing independence is extremely difficult and the parent may hold on too long and try to do too much. The result can be a child who is going to have a hard time making his or her own decisions, and in accepting the consequences that come from those decisions.

It can also result in children who suddenly become rebellious as they recognize their desire to be more independent, but find themselves being constantly led by someone who wants to make all the "right" decisions for them.

So is the answer simply to back off and let your child run free? That's not a condition any parent would welcome.

Rather, what you want to do as a parent is recognize the ways in which your child is growing and becoming more self-sufficient, and then identifying opportunities when you can help them move the process forward.

Yes, sometimes you do have to let your child make a bad decision. The consequences that come from such decisions are part of the learning and growing process. While you still want to be there to keep horrendous things from happening, letting minor fails occur will help ensure that better decisions are made in the future.

The role of a parent in a healthy relationship with the child is to be there when help is needed or when guidance is requested, but not to be a stopgap against possible bad decisions. It's fine to offer sympathy and understanding when something goes wrong, but smart parents don't always jump in to make it right.

STANLEY SISTERS

For the 25th consecutive year, the Stanley sisters vacationed together. Sadly, two sisters, Laura Smithley and Wilma Jean Pilgram, passed away during the past year and are great missed.

We have traveled to various places for 23 years and decided to stay in Warren, since our sister Janet graciously offered to have us vacation at her home, as she did last year also.

It probably doesn't sound exciting to most people to vacation here in Warren, but we have a great time when we all get together. Janet's home has four bedrooms, large living room, dining room, and recreation room, just right for all of us to get together.

Thru the years, we have traveled to French Lick, Indiana, Panora, Iowa, Tippecanoe Lake, Indiana, Oakwood Park, Indiana, Geneva-On-The-Lake, Ohio, Big Lake, Indiana, Baldwin Lake, Michigan, Howell New Jersey, Rochester, Indiana, Elhart, Indiana and Warren.

On Sunday we attended the Covenant Chapel Church near Bluffton where Janet's daughter Cindy and husband Eric attend. Cindy also sang a solo during the service which we all enjoyed and Eric provided the morning sermon.

Janet and Cindy planned all of our meals and stocked all the groceries so it didn't take much time preparing meals, which were very delicious and plentiful.

It was a very relaxing and enjoying vacation as we spent the week together.

For entertainment we had lots of puzzles to put together, games to play, and long walks. Our husbands probably enjoy our vacation as much as we did, they have a relaxing week to do whatever they enjoy doing.

Those vacationing were Evelyn Lindstrom, Pat Furnish, Mary Shaw, Janet Daugherty, Mona Pinkerton, Brenda Kendall, Kate King and Rita Benefiel.

BLOOD DRIVE

The American Red Cross urges the community to give blood and platelets this fall to help restock the shelves following a significant summer shortage to ensure an adequate blood supply for patients in need.

Through the first two weeks of September, the Red Cross is down more than 10,000 donations from what is needed to replenish the blood supply and be prepared for emergencies large and small. Declines in donations can lead to blood shortages and make it difficult to meet patient needs should a disaster or emergency occur.

"September is National Preparedness Month and we urge eligible donors to make an appointment now to give blood or platelets," said Rodney Wilson, communications manager of the Red Cross Indiana-Ohio Blood Services Region. "Whether blood is needed for a chronic condition like sickle cell disease, a routine surgery, a traumatic accident or a large-scale disaster, it's the blood already on the shelves that helps save lives. Red Cross blood and platelet donors play an important role in helping communities be prepared for all kinds of emergencies."

Donors of all blood types are needed as blood products continue to be distributed to hospitals almost as quickly as donations come in. To make an appointment to give blood, download the Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit redcrossblood.org or call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767). Donors are encouraged to make appointments and complete the RapidPass online health history questionnaire at redcrossblood.org/rapidpass to help reduce wait times.

Upcoming Donations in Warren include:

9/29/2016: 2 p.m. - 6:30 p.m., Knight-Bergman Center, 132 S. Nancy St.

NATIVE AMERICANS

The program fee is $2 per child. Advance registration is appreciated. Register by calling Upper Wabash Interpretive Services at (260) 468-2127.

HUNT GUIDE ERROR

Due to an editing error, dates in the 2016-17 DNR Hunting/Trapping Regulations Guide during which new rifle options for deer hunting in the deer reduction zone season are incorrect.

Legal rifle cartridges, including the new rifle options, can be used in deer reduction zones only from

Nov. 12 through Jan. 31, 2017, and only where local ordinances allow the use of firearms.

The deer reduction zone season opened Sept. 15. Until Nov. 12, equipment choices are limited to archery and crossbows.

For more on the deer reduction zone season, see www.in.gov/dnr/fishwild/8534.htm.
