ON FARM RESEARCH

Purdue University specialists are seeking assistance from area farmers. On-farm research trials are very important to them in providing recommendations for corn and soybean seeding rates as well as nitrogen fertilizer application rates for corn fields.

A Web site (<http://www.agry.purdue.edu/ext/ofr/>) has been developed to serve as a hub for on-farm research collaborations between Indiana crop producers, Indiana Certified Crop Advisers, county Purdue Extension educators, and campus Purdue Extension field crops specialists. Current on-farm research protocols can be found at this Web site.

Bob Nielsen and Shaun Casteel, Purdue Extension specialists, are involved in seeding rate trials for corn and soybeans. Nielsen is also collaborating with other specialists for a nitrogen rate trial. Casteel is currently setting up trials to study soybean row width, as well.

Another on-farm trial involves the impact of foliar fungicide use on soybean yield. Kiersten Wise, Purdue Extension Specialist in the Department of Botany and Plant Pathology, has set up plot widths etc. for farmers who would like to participate in the study. Note that foliar fungicides sold under brand names such as Headline, Quadris, or Stratego are used widely to prevent the spread of disease in soybean fields.

There are additional studies being set up across the state which are not listed on the aforementioned Web site. One Indiana county Extension educator, David Smith from Johnson County, is looking for corn growers who have twin-row planters (corn rows are 7.5" to 8" apart on 30" centers). He is interested in comparing four to five seeding rates in a trial. Smith and other Purdue campus specialists would like to compare these twin-row plots to standard 30" rows (preferably in the same field).

So what results are possible from on-farm research? A good example is the general nitrogen rate recommendations for

AREA NEWS

Indiana corn growers. Additional region and soil specific recommendations are being developed from research that has been on-going since 2006. This information is detailed in a publication, "Nitrogen Management Update for Indiana," that was released in January 2010. The publication can be found at this link: <http://www.agry.purdue.edu/ext/corn/news/timeless/NitrogenMgmt.pdf>.

Currently the researchers are finding that poorly-drained soils of northeast and east central Indiana require about 30 lb. Nitrogen per acre more than the average nitrogen rate recommendation. More field research in several areas of Indiana is needed to determine if other regional recommendations of Nitrogen application rates are warranted.

On-farm trials set up with local dealers, who sell fertilizer, seed and chemicals are also important. Any properly structured research can help farmers to make decisions which affect their bottom-line. Varying weather conditions from year-to-year can impact results quite a bit, so replication in any trial remains important.

As the old adage goes, "One year does not a trend make."

For more information, contact Ed Farris, Agriculture and Natural Resource Educator, Purdue Extension – Huntington County Office, 354 N Jefferson – Suite 202, Huntington by calling 260-358-4826.

SHOTGUN SIGN UP

The Wells County 4-H Shot Gun Safety Club will hold its first meeting Saturday, April 17, 2 – 4 PM at the Wells County Gun Club, 2555 E., 400 N., Ossian.

Youth may become members when they enter third grade and may continue their membership through the completion of grade 12. A member may continue membership for a maximum of ten (10) years.

One of the requirements in the 4-H Shot Gun Safety Club is the ability to physically handle a shot gun. The club will be using 12 and 20 gauge shot guns. The leaders with parents will determine if the youth can safely handle the weight and size of the gun.

The 4-H club has several shot guns for participants to use. Club members that wish to use their own shot guns will be required to have their shot guns safety checked by a licensed gunsmith and return a signed safety certificate to the 4-H Leaders before they will be allowed to use them. Safety certificates will be available at sign up.

Cost of the program is $35 which includes equipment, supplies, insurance, awards and refreshments at the Awards Event. Some partial scholarships are available. Check with leaders or the Extension Office.

The program is taught by 4-H certified instructors. Safety is the main focus of the program.

For more information about the 4-H Shot Gun Safety Club, contact leaders Ryan Kline, 375-3865; James Painter, 639-6547; Jim Hunter, 824-2783; Fred Nash, 694-6736; Kevin Springer, 565-3323; Melvin Purvis, 765-728-5284 or the Wells County Office of the Purdue Extension Service, 824-6412.

On April 27, 6:30 – 8:30 PM the beginners will meet to learn the safety procedures, range rules and basic archery skills.

Advanced members will meet on April 28, 6:30 – 8:30 PM and continue through June.

All meetings will be held at the 4-H Park Quonset Building (upstairs) at the 4-H Park in Bluffton.

Shooting range rules, safety skills and archery technique will be explained.

Regular meetings will begin on May 4 and continue each Tuesday.

4-H Club membership is open to youth when they enter the third grade and continues through grade 12. A member may continue membership for a maximum of ten (10) years.

Member fee is $25.00. (The second member in the family is $20.) (Includes archery information, equipment, insurance, and awards) Check should be made payable to 4-H Archery Club. Scholarships available – check with leaders. No person will be turned away for financial constraints.

Parents and interested adults are welcome to attend with the youth. Adults who are interested in helping or becoming a certified instructor are also encouraged to attend. Members attending may use the clubs equipment or bring your own simple or compound bow.

The 4-H Archery Club encourages youth to learn safety procedures and the seven steps of Archery. These seven steps include the stance; nocking the arrow (placing the arrow correctly in the bow); the draw (the pull action of the bow); the anchor (how far to pull back the string); the aim or hold (remembering to look at what you want to hit – the bull's eye); the release (letting go of the string); and the follow through (until the arrow reaches its destination).

For more information about the 4-H Archery Club, contact 4-H Archery Leaders Terri & Dan Quinn, 622-6617; John Earnest, 557-5000; or the Wells County Office of the Purdue Cooperative Extension Service, 824-6412.

John Minnich and his father had gotten most of the hard work out of the way and it was time to tap the trees. Early in March it had turned cold and snowed, so the sap was running pretty good. On a good day they made 40 trips to the storage tanks. Each barrel, when evaporated, would make about five pounds of sugar.

John said he liked the hard work and staying out in the woods. His job was to get up at daylight, replenish the fires, fill the kettles full and then take his rifle into the woods and come back with a fine mess of squirrels, which they cooked for breakfast.

At last John's father grew weary and left for home. John stayed, with the help of his sister; they continued to work until early in the month of April. One day, in early April, their horse became frightened and upset a barrel of sap and tore up the sled. They thought it was time to quit, so they took a survey of their work and found that they had made two thousand two hundred pounds of maple sugar. Next week, taking the product to market.

Your Future; The Heart Is Not A Size

How Is Your CRYSTAL BALL THESE DAYS?

by V Neil Wyrick
Yogi Berra once said, "Prediction is very hard, especially when it is about the future." And yes, that is the problem with resolutions. They have to overcome all the stumbling blocks that lay in that time yet to come.

He was just a little boy who wanted to sell his pottery. It helped to feed his family and all he needed was for the tourist to say, "Yes."

But the tourist was trying to bargain, to drive the already low price down even farther and the little boy was saying for the third time, "I mean no disrespect, Sir, but I weigh my piece of pottery, calculate my time spent making it and that is the cost."

Life is like that, isn't it.

Every decision we make has to be weighed and we have to decide what the cost will be.

Sometimes we have made wrong decisions and hoped we would not have to pay the cost, but it cost every bit of pain and problem we knew it would. We usually can easily speculate what is coming after what we have just done or left undone.

Yes, and sometimes when we have made right decisions, and though they may have cost us dearly in time and effort because there was sacrifice in them, we have given prayers of thanks for it was all worth the effort and the cost. It did give the joy and peace we felt it would.

How to make better decisions?

Allow yourself the wisdom of realizing that sometimes there really is more than one "right decision." When you have rid yourself of this mental and emotional paralysis now you have a choice as to which idea is the best rather than frozen on only insight.

Realize that the secret to success is learning how to fail. I have learned as much if not more from my failures than my successes. Accept the fact that problems are a part of life we may prefer not to have but that they are still a part of life.

Picture yourself as a decisive person rather than constantly reiterating "I can't ever make up my mind." This becomes a self fulfilling prophecy.

Hopefully you have a value system. Consult the results of a decision. Does it fit with who you are.

Seek opinions from others. The idea is not to blindly follow others but rather meld their thoughts with yours for a better mix or...using their idea to convince you that your idea really is the right one for you.

Remember that all decisions are reversible. If time proves you have made a definite mistake in a decision just leave it and get on with a new direction.

I am an old pilot and particularly when I flew VFR (Visual Flight Reference) I was always having to adjust my course. So it is with decisions.

FIFTY-FOUR WAYS TO FLY

by The FlyLady, Marla Cilley
We all love lists. I started this list when I turned fifty. I decided to update it this year. It is always fun to look at what I have learned and how I have grown. My journey is about progress not perfection.

Things change and life goes on. Learning to finally love myself was the key that unlocked my purpose for living. Here are the lessons I have learned along the way.

1. Sidetracked Paths can be wonderful places to visit.
2. There are no decisions to make if you lay out your clothes at night.
3. Post-It Notes on my Mirror to Floss makes my dentist happy.
4. Drinking water is the cheapest beauty and health treatment.
5. Beautiful music keeps away the bad news.
6. With a happy outlook there is always something to be thankful for.
7. My calendar is my memory!
8. Audio books bless me with the written word.
9. My floors never seem that dirty when I dust mop for 2 minutes.
10. No one can write "Dust Me" when I feather dust daily.
11. Sink shining is an obsession that changed my life.
12. 15 minutes is an amazing amount of time. My timer is my best friend!
13. Weighing every morning is my guidepost for the day not a whipping post.
14. Being in a hurry doesn't get you there any faster.
15. Smiling is contagious to everything around you.
16. Making up my bed makes me smile.
17. Birds at our bird feeders make me happy.
18. A daily bathroom Swish and Swipe blesses me.
19. Eating like a baby every couple hours fires up my metabolism.
20. Our home is not a landfill. Getting rid of clutter saved my life!
21. Our home is not a museum either. Tossing out the bad memories saved my sanity.
22. Lace up shoes empowers me!
23. Shiny sinks give me hope
24. Cleared coffee tables inspire me to write.

25. Flowers in gardens are God Smiles.
26. Gratitude is a precious gift to me. I say Thank You often.
27. Attitude is everything! If you think you can; you will!
28. Hate is like the poison pill you take to kill the other person.
29. Martyr attitudes are just self-pity expressed to hurt loved ones.
30. A load of laundry a day keeps Mt. Washmore away.
31. Forgiveness is freeing to your soul.
32. My home is my happiness file!
33. Front porch rocking chairs are essential anytime of the year.
34. Telephones don't have to be answered.
35. Sometimes hyper-focusing can be fun! You just can't do it all day and all night!
36. Meditation lets the God Breezes blow.
37. Babysteps keep me from feeling overwhelmed.
38. Flowers arranged imperfectly in a vase still look pretty.
39. Routines are not strait jackets they are the framework.
40. Cooking is fun in a clean well stocked kitchen.
41. Fiber in my diet keeps things moving!
42. Taking care of me keeps me feeling healthy, wealthy and wise.
43. I can't help someone who is not willing to help themselves.
44. Having only clothes that make me feel pretty keeps my closet from being mean to me.
45. Surrounding myself with Born Organized was the best advice I ever heeded.
46. Establishing routines helped me to grow up and find my purpose for living.
47. Finally Loving Yourself is the gift that keeps on giving!
48. Delegating is a learned skill; I don't have to do it all just follow up.
49. Loyalty is a gift that you give freely. To receive loyalty you have to give love!
50. If you multitask you can't listen. Stop Drop and Listen.
51. Facebook reconnects with you with old friends. Time FLYs when you have fun.
52. Most everything is small stuff; so what doesn't matter; just doesn't matter.
