BASEMENT BRIEF

The Bargain Basement is well stocked for back to school shopping. Why not check us out?

The Bargain Basement volunteers want to thank John Williams and Denny Stroud for our fantastic new B.B. signs. It's easy to find us now. Thanks to Denny we also have more light after he replaced many bulbs. We appreciate all the help.

Our donations have been great! There will be new merchandise each week as we process them. It's amazing what comes through our door.

If you haven't been to the B.B. recently - please come down and see all the neat things. Remem-

We always need the larger brown paper bags (from Kroger & Aldi's) so please remember to bring them in.

THANK YOU

Thank you Warren Community Vacation Bible School.
 The Bread of Life Food Pantry would like to thank each child, home, volunteer teachers and churches for giving a "favorite food item" to the Pantry.
 Donations to the Pantry in the summer time are small. But your gift of one hundred and fifty nine items will make a difference in helping the pantry help to feed our neighbors of this community this August.
 Blessings to each of you.

KUDOS

A couple of weeks ago I asked Deb at the Dollar General about a small grocery cart. She had not had any for several years. About three customers behind me a gentleman heard our conversation and told her he had one in his barn and if he could find it, he would bring it in. As I understand, he was not able to find his and mentioned it to a buddy of his, who told him he had some at home and would bring one in. He did and Deb saw to it that I got it.
 I just want to thank these two gentlemen for going the extra mile and doing this random act of kindness for me, a senior citizen they did not know.
 Thank you so much.

SPECIAL OLYMPICS THANK YOU

Huntington County Special Olympics would like to thank the community of Huntington County for help with all of our recent fundraisers. The road block on July was a huge success. Many bottle of water were sold at the Rollin' Into Roanoke car show. The kids (and adults) enjoyed getting their face painted or arm tattooed at the 4-H Fair.
 Also, thanks go to all of the volunteers who stood out in the heat for the road block, those that painted and tattooed and those sold the water.
 Special Olympics is proud to be a part of Huntington County.

AREA NEWS

"We are really excited that we can bring such world-class leaders to Huntington University to train not only our students in the Townsend Institute but area leaders," said Scott Makin, Director of the Townsend Institute for Leadership and Counseling. "Huntington University has always been about giving to the community so its leaders are more strengthened and empowered to make things better. We have invited as many community people as we know to join us and be better equipped as leaders."

This is the first of monthly training events that will take place through the Townsend Institute. Upcoming events will take place on Sept. 18, Oct. 23, Dec. 11, Jan. 22, Feb. 26, March 11, April 29 and May 12.

There is no charge to attending the opening event, however, reservations are required. There is a $12 charge for the luncheon and seating is limited to the first 200. Reservations and pre-payments are required by Monday, Aug. 24. Register online at <http://bit.ly/Townsend-at-HU> Aug 29.

The first of its kind, the Townsend Institute offers degree programs based on his Character-Plus-Competency model, which is based on the content from Townsend's 27 books, writings and teachings. The curriculum is biblically based, addresses the internal world of the leader and client, and uses the latest neuroscience research. It focuses on training the adult learner to help others grow and heal in the personal, relational, behavioral and professional aspects of life. It is designed to be practical and skill-based, allowing the student to become a practitioner who is competent both in theory and technique.

The Institute offers a Master's in counseling, a Master's in organizational leadership and credentials in executive coaching, counseling and organizational leadership. More than just learning the Townsend model, students in the programs will also be personally taught by Townsend. He will lead sessions that demonstrate the different modules from his character growth model. The program is offered onsite at the Huntington and Fort Wayne campuses, as well as online.

"Dr. Townsend and I have been so excited by the overwhelming response to the programs that the Townsend Institute for Leadership and Counseling is offering this fall," Makin said. "We have had three times the amount of students enrolling than our highest goals. We will have nearly 120 students in the fall, and we still have room for more if students contact us within the next three weeks."

The program is drawing both national and international students. For the online programs, students from all across the United States and international students from Africa and Holland are enrolled. There is still space in the program, and applications are due by August. To apply, go to https://my.huntington.edu/ICS/Future_Students/Apply.jnz.

For more information about the Townsend Institute, visit www.TownsendInstitute.org.

NEW SAFE PLACES

The Youth Services Bureau has announced two new businesses that have become Safe Place sites in Huntington County. Jefferson and is open Monday through Friday 5am until midnight, Saturday 6am until midnight and Sunday 7am until midnight. "We are excited to have these two businesses join the team of businesses who are willing to provide young people with immediate assistance during times of crisis," stated Stephen Ward, program coordinator.

Since 1990, the Youth Services Bureau of Huntington County has been providing youth in Huntington County with immediate assistance during times of crisis. JACOBS NAMED CANDIDATE

Each year at the National FFA Convention & Expo, six students are elected by delegates to represent the organization as National FFA officers. Each state association can provide one candidate to be considered for national office. Kathleen Jacobs, will represent Indiana FFA as the candidate for national office at the 88th National FFA Convention & Expo, October 28-31, 2015.

Jacobs, 18, hails from the Huntington North FFA chapter and proudly served as the 2014-2015 State FFA Treasurer. While in high school she was involved in FFA, 4-H, Freshman Mentoring, Student Athletic Board, and was also on the swim team. Jacobs enjoyed a variety of leadership Career Development Events (CDE's) but her favorite was extemporaneous public speaking, where she placed fourth in the nation. Jacobs plans on attending Purdue University to double major in agriculture economics and psychology.

National officers commit to a year of service to the National FFA Organization. Each travels more than 100,000 national and international miles to interact with business and industry leaders, thousands of FFA members and teachers, corporate sponsors, government and education officials, state FFA leaders, and the general public. The team will lead personal growth and leadership training conferences for FFA members throughout the country and help set policies that will guide the future of FFA and promote agricultural literacy.

TALKING TO KIDS ABOUT MONEY

iAB Financial Bank and the American Bankers Association are offering tips on how and when to begin teaching your children about money. If they are old enough to ask for a toy or a bike, they are old enough to start learning financial lessons that will last a lifetime. The best financial lessons are part of everyday experience. Look for opportunities to talk about money and be open and honest when you discuss your financial experiences—good or bad.

Here are some examples of teachable moments to help you get started:

At the bank: When you go to the bank, bring your children with you and show them how transactions work. Get the manager to explain how the bank operates, how money generates interest and how an ATM works. Ask the manager for a tour—be sure to ask to see the vault.

On payday: Discuss how your pay is budgeted to pay for housing, food and clothing, and how a portion is saved for future expenses such as college tuition and retirement.

At the grocery: It's easy to give clear examples of "needs" and "wants" using different kinds of foods at a grocery store. Milk (for strong bones) is a need; soft drinks are a want. Explain the benefits of comparison shopping, coupons and store brands.

Chores and allowances: Assign chores and give them a monetary value. Discuss ways to budget and divide allowances. Encourage children to set a financial goal, such as saving for a bike, and figure out how to achieve it.

Paying bills: Explain the many ways that bills can be paid: over the phone, paper or by check, electronic check or online check draft. Discuss how each method of bill pay takes money out of your account. Be sure to cover late penalties, emphasizing the importance of paying bills on time.

Using credit cards: Explain that credit cards are a loan and need to be repaid. Share how each month a credit card statement comes in the mail with a bill. Go over the features of different types of cards, such as ATM, debit and credit cards every $5,000 saved.

Browsing the internet: While online, explain to your children how valuable their personal information and privacy is to you, to them and to online predators. Discuss the risks and benefits of sharing certain information. Then, as a family, make a list of rules for keeping personal information safe online.

Planning a vacation: Whether you are planning an outing to a local amusement park or a once-in-a-lifetime trip, emphasize the value of saving as a family. Set a family savings goal that involves your children. Figure out the cost and discuss ways everyone can help to reach the goal.

iAB Financial Bank, a wholly owned subsidiary of Independent Alliance Banks, Inc., is one of the largest locally-owned community banks in the area and employs approximately 290 people throughout Allen, Huntington, Marshall and Wells counties.

These helpful tips provided to you in partnership with the American Bankers Association and iAB Financial Bank.

TOP 8 REASONS

There are several reasons why teens use alcohol or drugs. It's important that everyone, especially parents, understand these reasons:

1. Other People — Teenagers see lots of people using various substances. They see their parents and other adults drinking alcohol, smoking, and, sometimes, abusing other substances. Sometimes friends urge one another to try a drink or smoke something, but it's just as common for teens to start using a substance because it's readily available and they see friends enjoying it. In their minds, they see drug use as a part of the normal teenage experience.

2. Escape and Self-Medication — When teens are unhappy and can't find a healthy outlet for their frustration or a trusted confidant, they may turn to chemicals for comfort. Depending on what substance they're using, they may feel blissfully oblivious, wonderfully happy, or energized and confident.

3. Boredom — Teens who can't tolerate being alone, have trouble keeping themselves occupied, or crave excitement are prime candidates for substance abuse. Not only do alcohol and marijuana give them something to do, but those substances help fill the internal void they feel.

4. Rebellion — Different rebellious teens choose different substances to use based on their personalities. Alcohol is the drug of choice for the angry teenager because it frees him to behave aggressively. Methamphetamine, or meth, also encourage aggressive, violent behavior, and can be far more dangerous and potent than alcohol. Marijuana, on the other hand, often seems to reduce aggression and is more of an avoidance drug. LSD and hallucinogens are also escape drugs, often used by young people who feel misunderstood and may long to escape to a more idealistic, kind world. Smoking cigarettes can be a form of rebellion to flaunt their independence and make their parents angry.

5. Instant Gratification — Drugs and alcohol work quickly. The initial effects feel really good. Teenagers turn to drug use because they see it as a shortcut to happiness.

6. Lack of Confidence — Many shy teenagers who lack confidence report that they'll do things under the influence of alcohol or drugs that they might not normally do. You have the courage to dance if you're a bad dancer, or sing at the top of your lungs even if you have a terrible voice. Alcohol and other drugs also alleviate social anxiety by having something in common with the other people around you.

7. Popular Media — Forty-seven percent of teens agreed that movies and TV shows make drugs seem like an OK thing to do, according to a 2011 study.

8. Misinformation — Perhaps the most avoidable cause of substance abuse is inaccurate information about drugs and alcohol. Nearly every teenager has friends who claim to be experts on various substances, and they're happy to assure your teen that the risks are minimal.

Understanding the reasons for teenage alcohol and drug use allows parents to take preventative action. Educate your teenager about alcohol and drugs, so they understand the harms these substances can cause.

WHO IS OUR ROLE MODEL?

by Johnny A. Phillips
Today, forty years ago (July 31, 1975) Jimmy Hoffa, one of the most colorful figures in American Labor history as well as one of its most influential leaders, mysteriously vanished outside of a Detroit, Michigan restaurant. His inexplicable disappearance has often been attributed to being a Mafia hit, but to this day no supporting evidence has been found. Since many of those who might have served as witnesses are they themselves deceased, his presumed death will likely remain cloaked in secrecy forever.

Hoffa's entire life seemed dedicated to being an advocate for the oppressed worker. From the first labor strike he organized when he was only twenty years old through his ten years as the Teamsters' president, he ceaselessly devoted his energies and talents to improving the working conditions, wages and benefits of the laborers and their families. As one of the most approachable leaders, he was famous among union members for repeatedly saying, "You got a problem? Call me, just pick up the phone." And he meant it.

Equally well-known was Hoffa's dark side. Not only did he fraternize with known members of the Mafia, but his personal philosophy of problem solving was not far removed from the underworld's methodology dealing with dilemmas. Speaking of others who opposed him, Hoffa is quoted to have said, "I do to them first what they were going to do to me, and I do it worse."

Whatever virtue or vice one may find among Hoffa's personality traits, humility was not one of them as exemplified in his statement, "I may have a lot of faults, but being wrong is not one of them."

It is all too easy for the majority of us to condemn him as an arrogant, loudmouthed, evil bully, but in truth he embodied much of same philosophy of problem management as most people --- through power. The difference is that most of us are never provided the opportunity to employ a little tyranny. A more important spiritual truth is that, before we condemn Jimmy Hoffa, we must consider the "log that is in our own eye."

How many of us honestly treat others as we would like to be treated? How many of us actually turn the other cheek when we have been abused or insulted? When we are accosted for a indulgence, how many of us "give them our cloak also"? When is the last time you actually prayed for someone who has done you wrong? Or did even more ("walked the second mile") when forced to indulge someone against your will?

In truth, most of us, at least in our hearts, are more like Jimmy Hoffa than like Jesus. We harbor hate and ill will, and, if given the chance, we would retaliate with a vengeful heart. The difference is that life affords us few if any opportunities to "do to them first what they would do to us, and do it worse."

But all of us have the opportunity every day to follow the behavior of the Lord to be loving and forgiving.

BACK-TO-CAMPUS TIME AND MONEY SAVING TIPS

(StatePoint) Moving to campus can be a fun and exciting time for any student, but it can also be costly. There are several ways to save on all the things your student will need to make his or her dorm a home away from home.

To get on the right track for a successful year at college, check out these tips from the discount experts at Dollar General.

Do Your Homework

Many colleges provide online resources and virtual tours of dorms to give you an idea of what is provided, what you'll need to bring, and what items are prohibited by the school. Reach out to future roommates and decide together what household items can be shared, like a coffee maker, microwave or TV.

Make the Dorm Home

After a long day of classes, a dorm should feel like going home. Personalize the living space with matching bedding, décor and other linens. Retailers like Dollar General offer a large variety of affordable, trendy dorm fashions to make rooms unique and personalized. You can also stock up on favorite snacks and quick meal items for more enjoyable study sessions.

Find the Sales

Start the school year right with new school supplies. Stock up on notebooks, highlighters, pens and pencils for studying. Students will stay better organized with a day planner, calendar or dry erase board to keep assignments and due dates in check.

Back-to-campus sales can often provide the best bang for your buck on such essentials. Take advantage of extra savings with digital coupons and auto-renewal programs to save even more money and stay stocked on campus essentials. Auto-renewals can provide quick delivery to your address, saving time better spent studying.
