NIGHT CHILLS

Celebrate the 200th anniversary of the ghoulish birth of Edgar Allan Poe at the Pulse Opera House in Warren, Indiana. The noted writer of mystery and macabre was born in 1809 and in this bicentennial year of his birth the Pulse Opera House is presenting an adaptation of three of his works in the radio readers theatre production of "Night Chills". The adaptation by Billy St. John features three classic works of Edgar Allan Poe including "The Tell Tale Heart", "The Fall of the House of Usher", and "The Cask of Amontillado".

"The Tell Tale Heart" is a classic Poe's tale where the murderer is driven insane by the still beating heart of the slain victim. "The Fall of the House of Usher" takes place in a crumbling manor where Roderick Usher's ailing and assumed dead sister has been entombed, and the manor is suffering the same fate as its owner, death and decay. "The Cask of Amontillado" is the story of a father placing his family's honor over his daughter's happiness by luring her suitor to his entombment and death with a taste of the finest sherry wine.

I AM THE FAMILY CIRCLE

by V. Neil Wyrick

I am the Family Circle.
I am as large as the need,
as wide as the heart,
as high as the mantle of the sky.
I am warm before a fire on a winter night.
I am bright with activity before morning's bright and exciting glow.
I am the roots of millions of men and women scattered throughout this world.

I hold the quiet, grave moments of pain,
the small, personal humor of treasured moments,
the settings for a thousand little acts of living.

Not by chance have I earned my love, for I have made the quilt of ever-growing time with the thin thread of golden memories,
the scarlet thread from the rivers of the heart,
the multicolored threads of a thousand secrets shared.

I serve the living and the dead
and the yet-to-be.

For I echo the truth of history,
ring with the vitality of today,
and hold quietly the promise and hope of tomorrow.
Indeed, I extend from the clear and present moments of now to the hazy, almost forgotten moments of yesteryear.

To the captain marked with the salt of a hundred seas,
to the smooth-faced youth in the lonely corners of this world,
to the father no further away than five o'clock,
I am where men turn in reality and in their dreams.

My language is "all the languages of the world."
My cloak is the shout of the gypsy skirt,
the prim lace of a mountain maid,
the gray flannel of a concrete city.
My customs are as varied as the patterns of the sky.

I am the Family Circle.
I am not perfect, for those within my circled realm are not perfect.
Sometimes I am loud, unkind, and even cruel.
but still I channel the grace of forgiveness,
And guard the throne of understanding,
the hearthstone of men's hopes and dreams.
Without me, man is a star without a sky.
Without me, man is very alone.

MY TOWN and Yours

BY DENNIS STROUD

In 1932, H.L. McLaughlin, representing the Indiana Highway was in Warren securing the right of way for State Road Five to be paved that summer. In August of that year, Irving Brothers of Fort Wayne began setting up their sand and stone equipment for the job. The underbrush was cut away and a huge tank was erected to wash the gravel. This was set up on the old Morrison farm southeast of town.

A quarry was being tested on the Glen Spahr farm down along the river. Workmen began drilling holes in the field to test the stone. The stone there was condemned by the Highway Commission so they used just out of the Morrison field. It was said the Irving Brothers used three tons of dynamite which was tamped down sixty holes. Most everyone in Warren heard the explosion.

A lot of big equipment was moved in the second week of August. Three big companies were to do the job and each used a lot of machinery. Irving Brothers was in charge of getting the gravel and stone out and running it through the washer. In another location, the Grace Company was set up to prepare the concrete to be spread on the road. The third company, The McElroy Construction Company, was in charge of making the grade. Part of the companies outfit was a drove of about sixty mules. This outfit had a camp somewhere in the neighborhood of the Four Mile Cemetery.

The McElroy Company employed a number of men to build the grade using shovels. It required about 30 men to do the work. The stretch of road to be done ran from Four Mile Cemetery to the Huntington/Wells county line south of Warren. More next week.

EUCHRE CLUB

The Jackson Township Euchre Club met at the home of Jo Banter. Mary Jo Zoda won high, Sharron Roush won low and Joan Huffman had the most lones. Others enjoying the evening were Jane Lieurance, Marjorie Michaud, Carolyn Carroll, Sharon Gebhart, Joyce Willman, Marge Jones, Doris Tyler and Phyllis Dickey. We will meet at the home of Carolyn Carroll next month.

SIGMA PHI

Beta Delta Chapter of Sigma Phi Gamma International Sorority met on October 6 2009, at the Knight-Bergman Center. The meeting was called to order by president, Susan Ralston. Roll call was answered by "what was your best Halloween costume"? The saying for the month was "Too much of a good thing is wonderful". Recording secretary, Carol Irick, read minutes of the last meeting and they were approved. Treasurer, Suzette Gephart, gave the treasurers report and it was also approved. Service secretary, Sandy Eichhorn, asked the girls to be thinking about things to do for Thanksgiving and Christmas, as far as service projects. It was voted to give money to Salamonie School for the Washington, DC trip for 7th and 8th graders next spring. We will be taking part in the Scarecrow Festival on October 30 and will also do a scarecrow

EXTREME MAKEOVER

Extreme Makeover: Home Edition is coming to Indiana to surprise one deserving family with a brand new custom-built home. Hallmark Homes, based in Anderson, Ind., will build the home and is coordinating partnership, donations and volunteers.

"We are honored to be selected by Extreme Makeover: Home Edition. We look forward to building the home of their dreams in 106 hours flat," says Paul Schwinghammer, president of Hallmark Homes. "It's gratifying to know that we can help make a positive difference for a Hoosier family."

It's not just the family who will have a positive experience. "The real excitement comes in knowing how much the people who volunteer on this project will be changed," says Derek Wilder, Hallmark Homes CEO. "It's a great thing to be part of something bigger than yourself."

Five families are being considered throughout the region and Ty Pennington, the star of the show, will show up on the doorstep of the selected family on Oct. 21.

Hoosiers will be able to visit the site during the build and to volunteer to help. More information is available at www.hallmarkextreme.com.

Businesses and community partners have already signed up to be part of the project. Anderson University is mobilizing students, faculty, staff and alumni to help make one family's dream come true. Other partners include: Carter Lumber, Bilt Best Windows, Reese Wholesale, Climate Master, JN Stone, Modern Trailer Sales, Blakely's Flooring, Madison Millwork, Schneider Electric and Ball State University.

A special Web site, www.hallmarkextreme.com, launched recently to provide around the clock updates during the 106-hour race to the finish.

Spectators and Volunteers - Hallmark Homes is inviting individuals from across Indiana to attend and volunteer during the build. All individuals interested in participating as spectators or volunteers should visit the Web site: www.hallmarkextreme.com.

Sponsorships and Donations - To make a donation please go to www.hallmarkextreme.com. To learn more about sponsorship opportunities, contact Derek Wilder at (765) 620-3883 or via e-mail at derek@hallmarkhomes.com.

NEW DESIGNER

The W.A. Zimmer Company has hired a new project designer with expertise in developing sunrooms, pergolas, and room additions, using new E4 and solar technology.

Jason Bussel has an impressive 16-plus years experience in various areas of the construction industry.

Bussel came to Zimmer from All American Homes in Decatur, Ind., where he worked as a project designer. He co-directed corporate research and product development, including implementing new floor plans, a training program for builders, and a tracking system to keep engineering projects on task and under budget.

W.A. Zimmer hired Jason on June 29, 2009.

"Besides being down to earth and easy to talk to," said Bill Zimmer, CEO of W.A. Zimmer Company, "Jason brings a lot of residential design experience, including a special interest in 'green' building which ties in with our new E4 room addition system."

Zimmer added, "Jason has taken our conceptual drawing ability to a new level so our customers can 'see' their room as we develop a design to meet their needs."

Zimmer said the company anticipates great results with Bussel and looks forward to his contribution to Zimmer's high-standards of sunrooms and room additions using cutting edge technology that reduces cost and increases energy efficiency for homes in Huntington County.

The W.A. Zimmer Company is a locally owned, family company since 1976 that provides and installs sunrooms, room additions, and solar products to fit customer specifications and expectations. W.A. "FOLLOW THE FISH"

For the past 15 years, the First Baptist Church of Warren has hosted a Fish & Tenderloin Supper during the annual Salamonie Summer Festival for the Warren community. In the early years, profits from the dinner were used to supplement the Church Building Fund. For the last few years after the Fellowship Hall church debt was retired, net supper proceeds were used for other church projects and the Small World Nursery School which is now a tenant of the church.

After being challenged by Pastor Bill Fisher last year to "creatively practice your faith" and in consideration of the tough economic times, the Church decided to make the 2009 Fish & Tenderloin dinner a totally "free" experience for the people of Warren. Fund-raising and planning started in November.

The theme of the event was "Follow the Fish" and Ephesians 2:10 was the signature verse and mission statement for the planning. On the first Sunday in June, every congregation member was given an unlimited number of tickets to give away to anyone they chose. Over the next 30 days, more than 1400 tickets were distributed to Warren area residents. The tickets and all advertisement still carried an $8 price tag and no one was to be told prior to July 4 that costs for the meal were being underwritten by the members of the Church. It was also decided that any person who came to the door of the Church on July 4 to purchase a ticket, would be told that there would be no charge and the meal was "on us" this year.

On July 4, 1442 free meals were served to the community. In 2008, the event served 461 total dinners, so this was a more than 3 times increase in the number of contacts the church had with Warren area citizens. More than 100 members of the church family worked the day of the project and each received a blessing in stepping out in faith and doing "good works" for the Warren community.

For those patrons who wanted to pay something for their meal, three separate buckets were available for contribution. On the day of the event, the donations totaled $2,805.12 with each charitable group receiving the amount that was placed in their designated bucket plus an additional $500 donation from the church to both the Small World Nursery School and the Bread of Life Food Pantry and an additional $1,000 to the Tippecanoe Baptist Camp located in North Webster, Indiana.
