MARKET REPORT

Rainy day at the market but several vendors were there. The season is slowing down for many, but we still have a selection to choose from.

Drennan's will no longer be there as they will be at the Bluffton Street Fair with some tasty mini donuts, cider slush, fruit desserts so stop by to see them. Then they will be preparing for the fall activities at the Pumpkin Farm. It is a neat place to go. They will return for the winter market in November and plan to see them at the outdoor market next year. We hope to see Haggerty's back with the different winter squash, pumpkins and other fall items.

Van Buren Lions club will have tenderloins and might want to stock up for the fall and winter.

Turners are bringing a nice selection of apples as they ripen and of course the bakery always has a nice selection of pastry.

The market will be open for another 2 weeks closing September 27. The summer has really gone fast. It has been great spending our Saturday mornings with you.

BREAKFAST

The Warren Sportsman's Club will be having an all you can eat Pancake and Sausage Breakfast on Saturday, September 27th. We will be serving from 6:30-10:30. Cost will be $5.50 for adults, kids 6-12 will be $3.50, and children 5 and under will eat for free. Come out and enjoy a great breakfast and start your day off right.

We will be raffling off several items during the breakfast, so you will need to come out and purchase some raffle tickets. We have 3 great deer pictures, some deer figurines, and a great eagle afghan. We will also be holding a 50/50 drawing during the breakfast. The breakfast and the raffles are open to the public. We hope to see you on Saturday, September 27th. Bring your appetite!

THANKS FOR YOUR SUPPORT

I would like to take a minute to thank all of the people who attended the annual holiday craft show every year for the past 11 years. As they say all things must come to an end and unfortunately this year it has come to an end. For many years that we have ran the holiday craft show, the vendors have always been great. Some of the vendors have been with us for all 11 years. (Thanks Sandy and Diane). It has been very hard in the past couple of years to get quality vendors to participate in the craft show, and in order to have a full show we need the vendors. So I made a very difficult decision and decided with the opening of Handcrafters Marketplace for the holiday season, I would set out of the craft show for this year, in hopes that maybe next year we can give it another try for a bigger and better craft show yet.

I encourage everyone to stop by the Handcrafters Marketplace and say hi. I am sure you will find a special gift for the someone on your gift giving list this holiday season. Also visit the local church bazaars, they are always a nice place to get some Christmas shopping done.

Even though it is early, I wish you all the best of the holiday season and thank you for all of your support over the years.

Sincerely, Treva Flemming,
 Chairman Holiday Craft Show

Following graduation, these recruits can now be called

"Airmen". They go on to technical training at Lackland or elsewhere before their first Air Force base assignment.

Her parents are proud to report that she did maintain her weight and in fact gained 3 pounds while going thru training. During her physical fitness test, she was able to complete the mile and half in 11 minutes; complete 62 push-ups in a minute and 57 sit-ups in a minute!

Leslie will remain at Lackland approximately 8 weeks for technical training in transportation. She will hopefully then return home for 2 weeks leave, before being assigned to her permanent base.

Leslie is the daughter of Mike & Cammy Ackley, granddaughter of Les & Ruthann Ackley and James & Jone Smith, all of Warren.

BAYVIEW READING

Five members of the Bayview Reading Club met at a called meeting September 9 at 2 p.m. in the Heritage Pointe lounge. As there had been no election of officers in April to serve a new year starting in September, former president Lilly Nutter served as President Pro Tem and Margaret Bell as Secretary-Treasurer. The group shared the Club Collect, which had opened many meetings of past years. The theme and meaning of the Collect will go with members in their hearts.

A discussion of the uncertainty of the Clubs future was again opened, in follow-up to similar informal discussions in the spring months. New members have not come into the club in expected numbers, and present members experiencing multiple problems of aging and illness. After a full and open discussion, a vote was taken to determine the future of the club; a majority opinion was to disband at this time.

Experience of years of Bayview Reading Club membership were shared, with many expressions of regret at its ending. The Club has served a valuable purpose since its origin in Warren in 1897. Hundreds of women of the community enjoyed the intellectual and social sharing of members throughout the years. For women no longer able to freely attend meetings due to problems of age and illness, the later establishment of meetings in the United Methodist Memorial Home (Heritage Pointe) was a great advantage. The Club is very proud of its supportive role in the establishment of the Warren Public Library in 1920.

Members present at the last meeting suggested several possibilities for giving the treasury balance of the Bayview Club to a worth cause. Consideration was given to Lilly Nutter's outstanding effort of sending boxes of needed and welcome items to US servicemen in Iraq. She is currently counting 558 boxes having been sent. Also, Bayview Club has, for years, given to the Bread of Life Food Bank. A suggestion of a gift of the Treasury balance to the Pulse Opera was enthusiastically received and it was voted unanimously to give $100 to the Opera. It was voted that the cultural and enjoyable contributions of the Pulse Opera to our community were "in tune" with the objectives of the Bayview Reading Club from its beginning.

T T T H TIPS

By: Dr. Kevin J DeaKyne DDS, PC

HOW COULD A "SIPPY" CUP BECOME A DENTAL PROBLEM?

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention compared the dental health of Americans from 1988-1994 and 1999-2002. The result was a 15.2% increase in cavities among 2-5 year olds. Research shows that nearly one-third of the toddlers with decay used "sippy cups," the little plastic drinking cups with lids to prevent spills. Here are a few tips from the American Academy of Pediatric Dentistry.

1. Sippy cups should not be used for long periods of time.
2. Unless being used at meal times should be filled only with water (no pop or high sugar juice).
3. Don't use at naptime or bedtime unless water is used.
4. Schedule regular visits with your family dentist or pediatric dentist to help keep your child cavity free.

APPRECIATION PARTY

The 6th Annual Military Appreciation Party and Freedom Rally will be held at the Allen County War Memorial Coliseum on 4000 Parnell Ave. in Fort Wayne, IN. In the past five years, Rick Stephens has organized this party in honor of our service members and veterans and the event has grown by thousands every year. "This is expected to be one of the largest military appreciation parties in the nation," Stephens says. The party is made possible by the hard work of its volunteers and the graciousness of local companies like Kelly Automotive Group and Steel Dynamics Inc.

At 6pm on Friday, October 3rd, the doors of the Memorial Coliseum will swing wide open to thank the men and women who serve and protect us. Festivities begin at 7pm. Everyone is welcome and encouraged to bring a patriotic flag or sign. The event is free to the public and parking is also free for all service members and veterans. Door prizes at the event will be awarded to the soldiers and veterans of our Armed Forces.

The guests will be greeted by the great sounds of patriotic music from the Fort Wayne Community Band, the Fort Wayne Police and Fire Department Pipes and Drums, Mizpah Bagpipes and Scottish Pipes and Drums, and will be captivated by the Saint Francis University Cheer and Dance Team.

Sheila Van Dyke, an international touring comedian known as the "Ambassador of Laughter," will co-host the event with Rock 104. Van Dyke is a veteran-of-sorts herself, having entertained troops both overseas and stateside with her one-woman show called "Mission of Laughter".

She has performed for our nation's heroes in veteran homes, hospitals and at veteran posts throughout the country.

Once Sheila Van Dyke warms up the crowd, Mimi Burns and the Joey O Band promise to keep the crowd rocking through the night.

We welcome the public and their military heroes to a party of the highest honor!

BEWARE OF DEER

The dwindling daylight hours as fall approaches increase a driver's chance of hitting a deer for two simple reasons: deer are more active at night and darkness at an earlier hour means more vehicles on the road when visibility is poor.

For those reasons, drivers need to be especially wary of deer in the coming weeks.

Nearly 50 percent of all accidents involving white-tailed deer occur between October and December, according to Chad Stewart, deer research biologist at the DNR. The most basic reason is the increase in deer activity.

With their breeding season approaching, deer become more active in the fall. This activity often leads them to encounter roads more frequently, increasing the opportunity for a collision. Factors such as deer density, vehicle density, surrounding habitat, speed limits, and time of day are other contributors to accident frequency.

"With the number of deer and the number of vehicles out there, deer-vehicle accidents will happen," Stewart said. "The best we can do is to take measures to keep them to a minimum."

The best method to reduce your risk of hitting a deer is to practice defensive driving. Remembering the following information will help reduce your chances of becoming a deer-vehicle collision statistic:

- Fall is the most common season to strike a deer.
- Deer are most active between sunset and sunrise.
- Deer often travel in groups, so if you see one, another is likely nearby.
- Drive especially carefully in areas where you have seen deer before.
- Use high beams when there is no opposing traffic; scan for deer's illuminated eyes or dark silhouettes along the side of the road.
- If you see a deer, slow your speed drastically, even if it is far away.
- Exercise extreme caution along woodlot edges, at hills, or blind turns.
- Never swerve to avoid missing a deer; most serious crashes occur when drivers try to miss a deer but hit something else.

Drivers should pay attention to traffic signs warning of deer crossings, which they may be tempted to ignore, and may want to steer clear of gimmicks that claim to offer protection.

"Deer crossing signs have proven effective, but motorists tend to get acclimated to such signs, and their efficiency can be reduced over time," Stewart said.

Stewart said that even when practicing safe driving, sometimes hitting a deer is inevitable. Even if that happens, one thing does not change—caution is still the best approach.

"If you hit a deer, remain calm," he said. "Do not approach the deer unless you are sure it has expired. Despite the gentle nature of deer, their hooves are sharp and powerful, and can be extremely dangerous."

Stewart said that, like cars and people, deer can be found anywhere, so drivers should be on the lookout everywhere.

"Whether you're driving through a state or national forest, your developed neighborhood, or inside the city limits of Indianapolis, keep your eye out," he said. "Though a deer-vehicle accident can occur at any time of the day during any season, your chances of striking a deer are greatest at low-light conditions between October and December."

"Take additional caution during these times, lower your speed, and be alert."

LET THERE BE PEACE ON EARTH

by the FlyLady, Marla Cilley
Tonight I have been wired. I don't even dare go to bed because I know that all I will do is toss and turn because there is an essay burning in my head. Robert calls it the midnight editor at work, but we all know who it really is! The God Breezes are blowing.

As I write; the day is September 12th. It is the day after my son's birthday and I refuse to allow a terrorist action ruin his day. I have chosen to think about the tragedies of 2001 right now in the wee hours of the morning after. I am writing this as I listen to Eric and Andy Dodge sing their rendition of "Let There Be Peace on Earth" from their Christmas CD to be released in a few weeks. I am playing it over and over with their voice filling my head and heart with love and passion for all people in this world!

If only we could love all people without finding fault with their religion, race, accent, sex, political party affiliation and any other thing that makes each one of us a unique person. If only's are hard to deal with.

Let's quit looking at the whole picture and let's just focus on what we can do with ourselves. Until we open up our hearts to love ourselves there will never be enough love to give others. Loving yourself is the fuel to pass that torch of love onto others. Your light shines in a sea of darkness.

I never dreamed in a million years that I would have one or two people wanting to listen to me on the radio, read my essays or that I could even write a paragraph much less two books. I never knew that I had a love that could bless myself and that blessing could be passed on to others.

You can do this too! Your light shines just like your shiny sink! We can pass that light by a thoughtful gesture or a kind word. Sometimes it is just a simple "I so proud of you!" that can kindle joy in someone who has never heard those few words.

When we are surrounded by our clutter we don't recognize those precious opportunities to touch your light to the soul of someone else. Clutter steals our ability to see that precious soul that is hidden behind the visual differences. That clutter is perfectionism.

Perfectionism hides in all the vile acts of this world. It is deep rooted in generations of thinking someone is better than another. Or that a religion is the chosen religion or that someone's race or nationality is the chosen country. Aren't we all going to be surprised to find out in the hereafter that we are all brothers and sisters with the same father and that he is known by many names. In the end we were all arguing for the same thing but we just didn't know it!

Let's love one another first by loving ourselves. If you find any fault with my message then look hard at the perfectionism that separates you from the love that I know is hiding underneath the clutter in your heart. None of us are perfect! We just try to pretend like we are and that false sense of pride destroys the love!

Are you ready to Finally Love Yourself and pass that love to the world?

THE UPTOWN GARDENER

by Ruth Herring

Gee I have lost track but I think it is time for another episode.

The rain we got was glorious, a bit late, but helpful. The garden is about done for this year and I am ready for that. I need to quit as I have only 4 canning jars left and will probably find something to fill them. I don't have the five to seven hundred jars put away as my mom always did, but what I have always taste good in the winter and helps with the grocery bill.

We haven't dug the potatoes as yet but it is on the long list of to do things. Also have some sweet potatoes yet to dig. I always freeze the sweet potatoes. I peel and boil them till almost done then fix a syrup of brown sugar, butter, flour. Sometimes add a little orange zest or juice. I bag up what I want for a meal in a seal a meal bag and add the syrup as needed. Seal and freeze. When ready to serve I microwave them. That way they stay good all winter.

The flower beds are on the long list of to dos. Now it is cooler, I think I will be more energized to tackle them.

Treva and I were coming home a few days ago and noticed that other flower beds were in sad shape so I didn't feel quite so bad about mine.

This time of year we were always busy starting to prepare for winter at home. I was elected to go to the woods to help cut trees that needed to be cut into firewood and help with making sure the out buildings were secure for the winter when it came. Also the corn had to be shucked in the fields, no we did not have a corn picker (yes, we did too, it had 2 legs and 2 arms.) Dad was always glad to have that task finished. Many times it was late fall and cold before we got it done, but it was a good time working along side my dad and coming in to the warm house to a good meal that mom prepared. Especially if she had made breads that day. The house smelled so good.

I don't have a recipe this week but will promise something next time. Till then Happy Autumn.
