Thought for the Week: Friends may come and go, but enemies accumulate. Thomas Jones

LABOR DAY! WHAT AND WHY IS IT?

by V Neil Wyrick

People were writing about labor long before there was a Labor Day. Sophocles wrote "Without labor nothing prospers." With a chuckle Anatole France penned "Man is so made that he can only find realization from one kind of labor by taking up another." "Sometimes it's important to work for that pot of gold...but sometimes the most important decision in the day simply consists of choosing which color to slide down on the rainbow." (Douglas Pagels)

Labor Day itself is a celebration of two things; a day off to not labor but do as you please and secondly to officially begin to say goodbye to summer. Its purpose can be found on history books as a day to be pay tribute to working day men and women. It can be found on countless jokery pages with comments such as "What do I do on Labor Day? As little as possible."

Depending on who you talk to, the whole idea was thought up by either by Peter McGuire, general secretary of the Brotherhood of Carpenters or by Matthew Maguire, later the secretary of Local 344 of the International Association of Machinists in Paterson, N.J. Having halved the credit between these two it is sufficient to say that no one argued with the idea.

It was relaxing. It was fun. It made its point. The first Labor Day parade took place in 1882 in New York City. The first Monday for its celebration was accepted as official because it was at a half way point between Independence Day and Thanksgiving. The power of Labor has raised up and shrunk again during all the years since. Union membership today is down to its lowest level; 14 %. But Labor Day itself. It is permanent.

Permanent and different from any of the other holidays. It does not celebrate a war or a public figure but rather the common man. Even the most ignorant of men know that the world cannot continue if labor is not at the heart of daily existence. It is the glue that holds civilization together while rest is the common sense that seeks some time of equal respite.

When it comes to working, a large part of the population now spend their time sitting rather than in front of a machine or a plow. My grandfather was a farmer and sitting was a leisure luxury rather than a place of employment. He measured how hard he had been working by how much hay was harvested. Today we look toward a computer go give us a production percentage.

There has always been a battle between labor and management as to what is right and equitable. The fellow at the top of the ladder and worker bee at the bottom. Where balance could be found, it was sought.

Almost everyone agrees that without an honest days labor one can easily become a victim of boredom and want and both sides well know this. So, yes, when the word retirement comes up so comes up the question, "Retire to what." Someone has said the hardest thing about retirement is that you never get a day off.

KUDOS, KICKS & KARATS

THE UPTOWN GARDENER
 by Ruth Herring

Fall is fast approaching us with shorter daylight hours. Have you noticed the leaves are beginning to lose their vibrant green colors and you can hear the leaves rustling in the breezes and some are very dry falling fast.

I have lots of chores I would like to get done in next few weeks. Some of the hardy flowers need to be moved or dug out completely. The soil is so dry and hard it is useless to even try for a while.

These fall like days the squirrels and birds have been busy at the feeders getting fat for the winter. The squirrels should be good and healthy they have cleaned the English walnut tree completely. Next year I need to figure a way to keep them out of it.

My dad loved the squirrels enjoyed watching them play in the trees during the winter months. He was very protective of them. One year when I was home I missed him and found him out at the walnut tree raking up the nuts and piling them in the old outhouse where they stored their winter stash and they were out there with him working just as hard putting away their winter food. He also made certain the birds were fed no matter if they were sparrows or winter song birds. He seems to have plenty of both and I enjoyed watching them just as much as he did.

Later I will give a recipe for suet cake I use for the birds in the winter. I usually use a chicken scratch that you can buy at our local elevator and it also makes a good economical feed. I often mix it with sunflower seed.

Just something to think about with fall soon going to be upon us. I recently bought at the farmers market some butternut squash and we had some fried in butter. I slice it thin about 1/4 inch thick peel it and fry it in butter. It is quite tasty. The larger end I peel cut it up in cubes and mix about 1/3 cup brown sugar 1 tablespoon flour and 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon together and add it to about 3 cups cut up squash and mix lightly and put in a seal a meal bag add 1 pat of butter seal and freeze. I just remove from the freezer and cook in microwave a few minutes depending on your oven wattage. Makes for a tasty addition and quick fix for a meal.

Enjoy the fall season approaching us.

Our lunch was enjoyed at Bella Tower Grill. Helen Fincannon won the attendance prize. Nancy Cook, Karen Conwell and Helen Fincannon made the dailey arrangements. In charge of the September meeting will be Willadean Harte and Shelby Golf.

TOOTH TIPS

BORN TO SMILE

Did you know that while dental disease (cavities) in most demographic groups is on the decrease, cavities among children less than 5 yrs old is on the rise? 28% of our children will experience dental decay by the time they are 3 yrs of age and over 50% will have dental decay by the time they enter Kindergarten.

In 2008, the Indiana Dental Assoc. began funding for Born to Smile. Now the program has been expanded statewide. The Born to Smile program recognizes that with all issue facing parents of a newborn, worrying about a baby's teeth is often low on the priority list.

The IDA, ADA and AAPD recommend the first dental visit take place within six months of the eruption of the baby's first tooth or by age one.

Facts for Parents

1. Kids predisposition towards tooth decay starts by 1 yr of age.
2. Kids acquire some bacteria associated with cavitites from their mother or caregivers.
3. Increased dental disease in Mom equals a greater chance that dental disease will be passed to the child.
4. ELC - Early Childhood Caries - This is a biofilm induced acid demineralization of enamel (beginning cavity). It follows a distinctive pattern beginning with white lines lesions near gums of upper front teet. Without intervention, the condition progresses to wehre the cavities need filled and if not treated within months can produce oral and facial infections. ⁽¹⁾

Dr Kevin J DeaKyne DDS, PC located at 470 Bennett Dr Suite A Warren, invites Mothers (caregivers) to bring their infant in for a Caries risk assessment and discussion about their child's dental health. Call us at 260-375-2626 or 800-236-0891

OUTDOOR EXPERIENCE

However you like to get off-road—and especially if you don't know enough to have a preference—you'll find options to try at the free Hoosier Outdoor Experience.

The event is Sept. 18-19, at Fort Harrison State Park in Indianapolis.

During last year's inaugural Experience, 13,300 children and adults got hands-on opportunities to try more than 50 outdoor activities. Many took participants "off-road" for the first time.

Off-roading this year includes a mountain bike skills trail, UTV riding, rock climbing, hiking, Jeep/ORV rides, even mini dirt bike rides for tots, plus information and staff from the DNR's Redbird State Recreation Area, an off-roader's playground.

"Off-roading is a year-round recreational activity that can be done as an individual and/or family depending on the skill level of the operator and type of off-road machine used," said Nila Armstrong of the DNR Division of Outdoor Recreation. "People return from these rides with smiles on their face."

Eastgate Chrysler Jeep is the presenting sponsor of the OHV riding area.

The Experience has old-school off-roading, too. On horseback. Free, of course.

Rides of a mile-and-a-half will be offered, first-come, first-served starting at 9 a.m. each day with the last ride leaving at 5 p.m. Horses suitable for beginners will be available to suit ages 6 to adult.

"These horses need to be calm to be in a state park," said Tim Hollars, saddle barn owner, manager and operator at the park, explaining why even people with no prior experience can ride.

Hollars said riders should go to the saddle barn early to reserve a spot because they will fill up fast.

Then there's hiking. Of course you can walk just about anywhere, anytime, but at this event you can learn about backcountry hiking and caving, complete with an inflatable cave. A climbing wall will be available for the vertically minded.

Other activities at this family-friendly event include target shooting, archery, kayaking, fishing and much more. Activities will be organized in six areas—aquatics, cultural, equestrian, outdoors, shooting sports and wildlife. Shuttles will transport participants.

The event runs from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day. Parking, admission, activities, demonstrations and seminars are free to the public, but advance registration at hoosieroutdoorexperience.IN.gov (click on the orange registration icon) helps assure proper staffing. Watch for event updates at the registration website or at Facebook.com/HoosierOutdoorExperience.

The Hoosier Outdoor Experience is presented by the DNR and the Indiana Natural Resources Foundation. The goal is to introduce people to outdoor activities they may have never tried.

If you already enjoy outdoor sports and recreation and want to help others learn to enjoy them as much as you do, sign up to volunteer.

MORE LABOR DAY

Therefore, when the day comes to retired the wise person asks his or herself "Retire to what?"

Nor can we ignore the challenges that each workday produces. Martin Luther King, Jr. was not speaking to labor and management when he said "We must learn to live together as brothers or we are going to perish together as fools" but he could have been.

our withdrawals.

As with anything in our lives, balance is the key. We have to keep our emotion checkbook balanced or we will become overdrawn and eventually have to file for bankruptcy. When we continually have those bad days we are unable to make the deposits that help keep our heads above water. As we spend ourselves emotionally into debt that is over our heads we are like the person that is drowning: Going down once, twice and a third time. Before long we are know something is wrong, but we don't really know what to do about.

So how do we get out of this kind of debt? Sometimes we need to borrow money; not real money, but medication to help balance our emotion checkbook for a time being until we can start making deposits on our own. Please see your emotional financial advisor (Your DOCTOR)! These deposits relieve the stress that keeps pulling you back under. It is not a bad thing to borrow in order to get your feet back on solid ground. When we are sinking and can't find the help we need this is one way to be rescued.

Another way is to start making little deposits all on your own by doing things that make you feel good for just a little while. I know it sounds strange, but go shine your kitchen sink. This simple little act will put a smile on your face and guess what that smile is a great big deposit in your account. The next thing to do is start getting dressed each day. Put on some clothes that you feel good in (another deposit) and then go fix your face and hair! If you look good on the outside your insides will feel good. Just look at the deposits you are making in your bank. Then lay out your clothes for tomorrow and get into bed at a decent hour. These are all daily deposits that will help you to get out of your emotional bankruptcy. Daily routines help to keep this checkbook balanced each day!

When your good days start out numbering your bad ones, you are on the road to emotional financial balance. Each day we deserve to give ourselves a hug! Find some time for you!

Please start making those deposits in your emotional bank. We can't keep spending ourselves into emotional bankruptcy!
