HUBARTT TO SPEAK ABOUT MURAL

The mural pictured above is currently being displayed at the United Methodist Memorial Home. It was painted by UMMH resident Paul Hubartt (standing at right), a former Warren High School graduate. Mr. Hubartt graduated from WHS in 1937 and then moved away from the area for many years. He worked as a commercial artist in advertising before retiring. He is now a resident of the townhomes at UMMH.

On February 15th (next Wednesday) Mr. Hubartt will host a viewing and question and answer session about the mural. This event will be held at 2:30 p.m. in the 1A Activity Room. The mural will eventually be moved to the Salamonie Valley Museum at the Knight Bergman Center where it will be displayed for all to see.

It is a fascinating piece of artwork that measures 19 feet in length and includes many historical assets of the Town of Warren. The mural also includes a likeness of General Joseph Warren who may very well be our Town's namesake. It is said that Samuel Jones originally named this town Jonesboro, but after finding out that another Jonesboro was already in existence, named the town Warren. Presumably, this was in honor of a Revolutionary War General, Dr. Joseph Warren. General Warren was a dapper, wealthy and prominent doctor from Boston who fought as an ordinary rifleman and died in the fierce Battle of Bunker Hill.

Please bear in mind that this photograph is pieced and shown in black and white - the mural is 19 feet in length. As I am just learning how to do this it isn't as good as I would like. Therefore you really must see this mural in all its glorious color in person at either the United Methodist Memorial Home or when it is finally installed in the museum at Knight-Bergman Center.

Love Your Library

The Warren Public Library is the best bargain in town, but many of you already know that! Circulation of materials continues to grow: 302 more tiems were checked out in January, 2006 than January, 2005.

Growing tired of that Christmas gift? Come to the Library where it is Christmas every day with books, magazines, audio tapes and CDs, video tapes and DVDs for your enjoyment or informational needs.

Anyone living in or owning property in Salamonie Township may have a free library card. Non-residents who do not pay property tax for library service are required by State Law to pay an equivalent yearly fee. For 2006, this fee is $37.00.

To accomodate late afternoon patrons and to make the hours more consistant, the Library is testing new hours through March 31. The Library is open 1:00 - 6:00 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 10:00 a.m. - 3:00 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Let us know what you think. A simple evaluation form is available at the Library or give us a call at 375-3450.

Thank You for "Loving Your Library".

DON'T FORGET FEBRUARY 14
 HAPPY VALENTINE'S DAY!

Make that special someone feel happy and appreciated. Whether he or she is your sweetheart or your friend, a special card or gift can make their day.

That's been true for hundreds of years and is a time-tested way to show that you care. Be sure not to break tradition.

To one and all, we say "Happy Valentine's Day!" (If you don't get chocolate, buy some for yourself and get happy.)

PHILOSOPHER WRITES ABOUT LOVE

At different stages of our lives, the signs of love vary: dependence, attraction, contentment, worry, loyalty, grief. But at heart, the source is always the same. Human beings have the rare capacity to connect with each other, against every odd. We hurtle, bonded by blood or desire, into the question, "What next?" our futures temporarily one, our pasts conjoined in unlikely, fragile alliance.

Love makes us larger and limits our possibilities. It changes our history even as it breaks a new path through the present. It may, through accident or inattention, through expediency or tragic circumstance, cease, but once in place it can never afterward not have been.

Michael Dorris, 1945-1997, prolific author on many subjects

MAKES YOU WONDER ...

- Why a wrong number is never busy.
- Why the third hand on a watch is called the second hand.
- How to get off of a non-stop flight.
- If this is really Phillip's screw driver.
- If killing time damages eternity,
- If you can buy an entire chess set in a pawnshop.
- If part-time band leaders are called semi-conductors.

Surber called the meeting to order at 7 p.m. All in attendance repeated the Pledge to the American Flag.

Minutes of the previous meeting were approved as submitted.

A citizen in attendance was concerned about a portion of the roof hanging down over the former Weaver Popcorn office building at the corner of Main and Washington Streets. They were concerned about safety should the portion drop off.

There was a discussion about recycling of pop cans for the local Garfield project. It was suggested that someone with a pickup truck volunteer to deliver the cans (crushed) to the recycling location.

Councilman Dean Baker commended local emergency crews for their quick response on Saturday to a serious automobile accident at the corner of Park and First Streets. The accident involved vehicles driven by Darryl Brane and Paul Burley. Burley remained hospitalized with multiple injuries.

Officer Pat Collins gave his report. Both police vehicles were running well. Collins and Jerry Gephart had attended training.

The Department had applied for Grants to purchase bullet proof vests and lap top computers.

Superintendent Jim Webb reported all meters had been read in January. One water meter had been installed and water leaks repaired.

Weight limit and no smoking signs had been put up.

Engineers recently did a sludge level test.

An income survey is to be conducted in Van Buren soon.

If the patient's need is for use in the home, please call for more information to see if they qualify. Call toll free at 1-800-246-6010.

senior citizens (as well as the permanently disabled) to remain independent in their own homes. Without this awareness and assistance, the family may prematurely choose a nursing home, or make an unnecessary retail purchase on power mobility equipment.

If the patient does not meet all the requirements of the program, they may still be able to help them through a donation program. This is made available when people call wanting to donate their power wheelchairs that are no longer needed.

AWARDED GRANT

During a brief ceremony, Parkview Huntington Hospital awarded Huntington University with a $100,000 grant for a new nursing degree program.

"Partnering with Huntington University in the development of this program is an excellent opportunity for Parkview Huntington Hospital to enhance our already strong ties with the University and at the same time assist in addressing the national shortage of experienced nurses," said Dr. Darlene Garrett, chief operating officer for Parkview Huntington Hospital. "The stability and quality of our nation's health care system relies on a sufficient supply of well-educated and skilled nurses, and the addition of a nursing degree program at Huntington University is a major step toward meeting these needs." Huntington University faculty approved adding a bachelor of nursing degree after two years of formal study. The new program was initially proposed by the Division of Natural and Mathematical Sciences in late 2003, one year after the University opened its state-of-the-art, 93,000 square foot Science Hall, the largest and most high-tech facility on campus.

In the atrium of the Science Hall today, Dr. G. Blair Dowden, Huntington University president, expressed gratitude for the grant.

"We are excited about the partnership with Parkview which will help us expand health care education in Northeast Indiana," Dowden said. "We have consistently received requests for a nursing program at our institution. Soon we will be able to serve a significant group of students that we weren't able to serve before."

Huntington University tentatively has scheduled fall of 2007 as the opening date for the nursing degree program.

"This grant is an incredible expression of support for the University as well as the new nursing program," said Dr. Norris Friesen, vice president and dean of the University. "We have had much encouragement from Parkview Huntington Hospital and the larger Huntington medical community. A grant of this magnitude confirms our decision to develop a high quality nursing program consistent with our Christ-centered mission."

Area health care providers interviewed for the University's study reported a shortage of qualified nurses and expected increasing demand for nurses with the breadth of education represented by the bachelor of nursing degree. Nurse executives interviewed in the study stressed the importance of critical thinking and decision making, which are key features of Huntington's core curriculum in the liberal arts and proposed B.S.N. program.

The University applied for a grant through the Parkview Huntington Hospital Foundation, an organization which gave $331,559 toward various community projects in 2005. Community hospitals, like Parkview, are guaranteed no less than $50,000 per year to return to the local area in the form of competitive grants which are funded by the hospital's bottom line.

"I'm very excited that Parkview Huntington Hospital has decided to partner with us as we seek to establish our nursing program," said Dr. Beth Burch, chair of the Division of Natural and Mathematical Sciences. "Early on they gave us their support verbally, but it is so encouraging to see them show support with a financial commitment, and we greatly appreciate that. We look forward to working with Parkview over the coming years to provide additional nurses, which are so sorely needed around the country and around the world."

"The Parkview Huntington Hospital Community Health Benefit program is a remarkable way to address both local and national needs through the granting of hospital dollars back to the Huntington County community," said Greg Schnepf, director of the Parkview Huntington Hospital Foundation. "We are proud to be a part of the creation of Huntington University's new nursing degree program."

In related news, the Parkview Huntington Hospital Foundation awarded the University's Athletic Training Department a $5,000 grant to purchase an auto-sound therapeutic ultrasound machine and a muscle stimulator.

"These machines are great additions to the training department and allow us to treat our students with the most current advances in athletic training technology," said Kevin Vanden Akker, athletic trainer for the University. "They provide our training room with the latest and greatest in equipment. I think it's an excellent opportunity for our students to get treatments like these that will get them back on their feet sooner."

The Athletic Training Department provides sports medicine coverage for more than 200 athletes involved in Huntington's 15 varsity sports. During the 2004-2005 academic year, the department recorded more than 145 injuries that required evaluation, treatment and rehabilitation. Almost half of the injuries were muscle strains or ligament sprains which respond well to the therapeutic equipment the grant will provide.

Parkview Huntington Hospital also provided $3,000 for Hepatitis A and B as well as Tetanus vaccinations for approximately 40 Huntington University volunteers who traveled to Biloxi, Miss., during January Term to aid in hurricane relief efforts.

"I believe that some, maybe many, of the students would not have been able to participate in this relief mission if they had been personally billed for the vaccines," said Donna Heck, registered nurse in the University's Health Services Center. "This may have resulted in a significant loss of helping hands from Huntington University to this ravaged area of our country."

With the completion of the series of Hepatitis A and B vaccination shots, those involved will have life-long immunity to both Hepatitis A and B.

DIGITAL MAMMOGRAPHY

The National Cancer Institute recently completed a study to put to rest a debate that has been several years in the making: Is digital mammography really better? The Digital Mammographic Imaging Screening Trial (DMIST) concluded that for particular groups of women, digital mammography is truly more precise and can detect cancer earlier.

The DMIST study showed that digital mammography was significantly better in screening women under age 50, of any age with very dense breasts, and pre- or perimenopausal women (women who had a last menstrual period within 12 months of their mammogram).

Bluffton Regional Medical Center is the only facility in the region to offer digital mammography. Only eight percent of mammography units in the country are digital.

"We are proud to offer this cutting-edge technology to our patients," said Tom Clark, CEO. "Women in our community deserve the most precise mammogram possible."

Digital mammography takes an electronic image of the breast and stores it directly to a computer. In addition to the ease of storage and transmission of the image, digital mammography also allows radiologists to use software to help interpret digital mammograms. The process uses three quarters less radiation than film mammography.

"The DMIST study confirms the advantages of digital mammography," said Brett Hagedorn, MD, radiology Medical Director at Bluffton Regional Medical Center. "Since 2002, when Bluffton Regional Medical Center purchased the digital mammography unit, both physicians and patients have noticed the enhanced clinical capabilities of digital mammography. Within the Radiology Department, we have also enjoyed the convenience in transmission and storage of digital images."

Bluffton Regional Medical Center is also one of the few facilities nationwide that uses a MammoPad. This FDA-cleared foam cushion creates a softer, warmer mammogram for women.

"The discomfort many women feel during mammography compression is widely known to be a reason that some don't get regular screenings," said Linda Reed, Vice President of Diagnostic Services. "The breast cushion answers these complaints by providing a softer, warmer experience for women."

The recyclable breast cushion is "invisible" to X-rays and does not interfere with the image quality of the mammogram.

Annual mammograms are recommended by the American Cancer Society for women age 40 and older. Women should discuss the advantages of digital mammography with their physicians.
