THE UPTOWN GARDENER by Ruth Herring

Do you think spring is in the making or are we going to go straight into summer from this cold windy weather. I was at a garden center this week and many plants they had out were totally ruined from the cold. I thought what a waste. I went there to get some pansies for the planter at my front door, so far they survived which they are a cold weather plant but not deep cold.

I am waiting on help for the flower beds I want here at my new home. I could hardly wait to see if anything had been planted around the house by previous owners, not much just a clump of tulips and a lily of some sort. So I think I have free range to do some things. I already have lettuce and spinach in a container planted and should be popping up very soon if it didn't get washed away in the down pours we got.

This weekend was a nice time at my home. The granddaughter from Florida was here with their new baby and was especially nice for Great grandma and Grandma Gayle to see the little guy for the first time. He was quite a traveler for 3 weeks old. All of us had a very nice weekend other than the Floridians not thinking to bring some winter clothes and freezing.

So-on if we are lucky we can start thinking of those nice warm days and get the grills running. For me I sold mine so will make do some other way. My dad would clean off the gardens, we had 2 of them so we would rake off the remains and all the brush and yard stuff from the winter and we had our annual hot dog roast and Mom made usually potato salad and either pie or cake. When the fire died down it was roasting just marshmallows (not s'mores). We always had a fun time and, the best part was having 2 gardens we got to do it twice.

I found a recipe you might like to try this summer using salmon. Dill Salmon On the Grill
 Mix together 1 cup mustard, 2/3 cup chicken broth, 1/2 cup brown sugar, 1/4 white vinegar, 3 tablespoon soy sauce, 3/4 cup vegetable oil, 1/2 cup fresh dill chopped fine, 1/2 cup black pepper. Place about 3 pounds salmon in a large baking dish pour about 1/2 the marinade over the salmon, and refrigerate 2 hours. Coat the grill rack with non-stick spray drain the liquid off the salmon and discard the liquid, place skin side down on grill and grill on medium heat for about 5 minutes baste with remaining marinade and grilling on low heat for 7-9 minutes basting several times while grilling. Enjoy and welcome spring.

VISIT STATEHOUSE

The Boys & Girls Club Warren Site had the opportunity to take five members from their Voice program to the Indianapolis Statehouse on April 3rd for Advocacy Day. The Voice program is a youth led movement against big tobacco companies. While they were at the Statehouse, they were able to listen to several speakers who spoke about how tobacco has affected their lives. They were also able to go on the House floor to present thank you cards to Representative Charlie Brown.

Pictured above are those members, Makenzie Bowman, Taylor Starr, Katy Reed, Taylor Reed, and Tommy Bowman. It was a great experience for our members!

History of Ideas in the Junior year concluding with a symposium at which he will make public presentations; a summer research project in close collaboration with his faculty sponsor, Professor Michael Flaherty; a major research project as a Senior; publication of an article based on this research in the Eckerd Scholar; and a year-long weekly seminar during the Senior year in which he will share progress reports on his research, hear from individual faculty members on life as a professor, and discuss major issues having to do with contemporary higher education.

The Ford Apprentice Scholar program continues to flourish at Eckerd. Graduates have gone on to the nation's best graduate programs and many are now members of college and university faculties. Faculty members look forward to working as sponsors with the highly motivated and talented students who are selected for the program.

The original goals of the Ford Foundation initiative have been more than fulfilled by Eckerd Apprentice Scholar Program.

STAR FINALIST

The 2012-13 Huntington North High School The Campus newspaper has been named a Hoosier Star finalist in the annual competition sponsored by the Indiana High School Press Association (IHSPA).

The award is broken down by school enrollment. The newspaper qualified in Division II, which includes schools with 1,000-2,000 students.

The Campus received a "superior" rating overall, with "superior" and "excellent" ratings for each category, receiving special distinctions in content/coverage and editing. In a written evaluation, the judge said, "You clearly have a well-developed writing program either in your English department or within your journalism elective. Kudos on that...Your stories are well reported and interesting."

All publications rated as either "excellent" or "superior" in the IHSPA's annual critique service qualify as finalists for the IHSPA Hoosier Star Award, the organization's highest honor comparable to a State championship in athletics. With this distinction, The Campus will be evaluated once again by a separate judge. The 2012-13 Hoosier Star winners will be announced at the IHSPA fall convention in October. Since 2010, The Campus has been Hoosier Stars Finalists in 2010, 2011 and 2013, earning a Hoosier Star Merit Award in 2011.

Editors for The Campus are Kylie Frederick and Hannah Scher. Other staff members include Opinion Editor Logan Gochenour; Features Editor Annie Vance; and photographers Kaley Higgins and Katie Korporal. Kari Highley is the faculty adviser for the newspaper.

TEACH CHILDREN TO SAVE

iAB Financial Bank is partnering with several schools to celebrate Teach Children To Save Day with savings education during the week of April 22, 2013. iAB Financial Bank employees will help more than 475 local youths explore lessons on the value of saving and investing including the difference between needs and wants, learn how to identify expenses, trade-offs and ways to cut spending.

Established by the American Bankers Association in 1997, Teach Children To Save has reached more than 5.6 million young people through the commitment of more than 121,000 banker volunteers. iAB Financial Bank has been involved in the Teach Children To Save program for several years as well as the ABA's Get Smart About Credit program which occurs in the fall after students go back to school.

"This program gives us the opportunity to use our life experiences and banking knowledge to motivate students to become lifelong savers," said Michael C. Marhenke, President and Chief Executive Officer.

iAB Financial Bank offers the following tips for money-savvy parents raising money-smart kids:

- Set the example of a responsible money manager by paying bills on time, being a conscientious spender and an active saver. Children tend to emulate their parents' personal finance habits.

- Talk openly about money with your kids. Communicate your values and experiences with money. Encourage them to ask you questions, and be prepared to answer them—even the tough ones.

- Explain the difference between needs and wants, the value of saving and budgeting and the consequences of not doing so.

- Open a savings account for your children and take them with you to make deposits, so they can learn how to be hands-on in their money management.

- Let friends and family know about your child's savings goal. They'll be more likely to give cash for special occasions.

- Engage your community. Many schools, banks and community organizations share your commitment to creating a money-savvy generation. Engage a coalition of support to provide youth with the education they need to succeed.

The American Bankers Association provides financial education programs and resources that help bankers make their communities better. The association's signature programs, Teach Children to Save and Get Smart About Credit, bring bankers and students together to increase financial literacy.

Independent Alliance Banks, Inc., established in 2005, is a single bank holding company for iAB Financial Bank—the result of a consolidation of Grabill Bank and Markle Bank on October 9, 2012. iAB Financial Bank employs approximately 275 people in our local communities which include Fort Wayne, Bluffton, Grabill, Harlan, Huntington, Leo, Markle, New Haven, Ossian, Roanoke, Van Buren and Warren.

DNR GRANTS

Educators interested in students, grades K-12, on field trips to an Indiana state park or reservoir in the 2013-2014 school year can receive financial help through a new program of the Indiana Natural Resources Foundation. The Discovering the Outdoors Field Trip Grant Program is for public, private, parochial or home-school educators.

"We are proud to be a partner in improving school access to our state's natural and cultural resources through field trip grants for all types of educators and students across Indiana," said Bourke Patton, director of INRF.

The fund was established in memory of Tom Huck, a longtime DNR employee who was an ardent supporter of outdoor experiences for children.

Indiana has 24 state parks and eight reservoirs eligible for field trip funding. Field trips to parks and reservoirs engage students in learning about Indiana's fish, forest, wildlife, natural habitats and conservation.

"Field trips to our state parks and reservoirs give children a sense of place," said Ginger Murphy assistant director for stewardship for the DNR Division of State Parks & Reservoirs. "These trips let them understand how previous generations viewed the significance of Indiana's natural and cultural resources, and at the same time let them make great memories that they will carry into adulthood."

The maximum grant award is $250 per application.

Applications are accepted from May 1 – June 30 prior to the school year for which the grant is requested. Applications must be postmarked no later than June 30.

Applicants will be notified by Aug. 1 regarding potential grant awards.

The grant application is at IN.gov/inrf/educate.html.

Applications and further information is also available by emailing DiscoverOutdoors.Grants@dnr.IN.gov.

Use this moving checklist from the U.S. Department of Transportation so you won't miss anything important like checking out your movers with the Better Business Bureau and making an inventory of what's in your boxes, so you make sure everything gets delivered.

Know your rights before you select a mover and understand any documentation you might be asked to sign. That way you'll know what to do if there's a problem like your possessions getting lost or damaged. If you're moving between states, you may be eligible for liability options from your movers to ensure that your property stays safe.

Find all the forms in one place on USA.gov that you'll need to report your change of address to continue getting your mail and any government benefits you receive. You'll find the post office change of address form, along with additional forms you might need for the Social Security Administration, Veteran's Administration, the IRS and your state's voter registration office.
