RECEIVES SCHOLARSHIP

INDIANAPOLIS — The Indiana Health Care Foundation (IHCF) is pleased to announce that Brenda Moreland, of United Methodist Memorial Home in Warren, was recently honored as one of 13 recipients of the Foundation's annual nursing scholarships. This year, nearly $30,000 in scholarships were awarded to students' who wish to pursue, or who are currently pursuing, a career in nursing and are committed to serving the elderly in a long-term care environment.

Indiana, like other states, is facing a nursing shortage of crisis proportions. "The Foundation Board is committed to helping alleviate this crisis through allocation of more funding for students wishing to pursue a career as a nurse in long-term care," said IHCF committee member Sandi Spaugh.

Students were judged on their personal statements indicating knowledge of, and an interest in, a long-term health care career, commitment to service to others, potential for success, academic performance, quality and extent of extracurricular activities, and demonstrated leadership.

Scholarships were awarded based upon academic and personal achievement and a proven dedication to the elderly in assisted living or nursing facilities.

The Indiana Health Care Foundation, established in 1997 by the Indiana Health Care Association, provides scholarships for individuals pursuing a college education in an area of long-term care. Scholarships are available to individuals who are committed to serving the elderly in Indiana, and are for the purpose of improving the quality of health care in Indiana.

SECURITY FUND UPDATE

Response to the call for funding a security system for the Salamonie Valley Museum and the U.S.S. Salamonie Museum has been great. As a part of the fund raising effort, we are raising funds to assist in the brick work needed to seal out moisture from the building which can often cause as much damage as vandalism. The board is investigating the possibility that your dollars can be leveraged with grants to be even more effective.

LABOR DAY: THIS END-OF-SUMMER HOLIDAY IS FOR YOU

We look forward to holidays, but they usually mix a lot of work and preparation into our time off. Think Christmas, New Year's, and Easter.

Not this time. The Labor Day Weekend is yours, a time to do whatever YOU want. You can snooze in a hammock, putter around the house and yard, see a parade, or go on a picnic (of course that takes some preparation!).

If you have kids, they might want to take advantage of the last day the city swimming pool is open. Though most schools have already started, this day gives summer its proper sendoff.

And with three days to play, there's plenty of time left over for friends and maybe even a cookout.

On Labor Day, we honor the monumental contributions the workers of America have made. They are responsible for the strength, prosperity, and well-being of our nation.

In the beginning, Labor Day was a day of rest for people who worked physically in factories, shops, and construction. They were honored. Now, we all take credit for making our country what it is, no matter where or how we work. We're all part of it and proud to be.

So take a break, take a trip, refresh your body and mind. Whatever you do, stay safe.

SPIRITUAL RETREATS

Tired of dealing with stress-filled complex lifestyles? People from all walks of life, including executives and busy parents, are beginning to step away for a weekend or longer to experience the peacefulness, rejuvenation, and inner joy of a spiritual retreat.

At the Abbey of Gethsemani (where Thomas Merton was a monk), ecumenical retreatants savor an enveloping silence in which to explore the recesses of their minds, hearts, and souls. These nondirected retreats offer guests the opportunity to rest, meditate, contemplate, read, journal, and rediscover themselves.

Acres of land are available for walking while drinking in the beauty of nature and satisfying a deep need for solitude away from the noise and bustle of the world. Retreatants are free to join the monks as they chant the psalms and pray seven times a day.

Many abbeys, monasteries, retreat houses, and Zen and yoga centers offer more formal retreats with talks given by directors but time set aside for each person to pray, socialize, and experience periods of seclusion where they move nearer to their God, Creator, Higher Power, or Inner Being.

Directed retreats can be specialized such as ones for women where feminine experience is connected with the growth of spirituality. Other retreats can be open to all or restricted to couples or men.

Many retreats have a particular theme. "Music and the Spirituality of the Mystics," "Yoga & Spirit Fasting," and "Couple Retreat: All You Need is Love" are among some of the intriguing offerings found at retreat centers.

And remember, even if you cannot break away for a retreat of your own, you can make a retreat at home. Turn off the television, let your answering machine take messages, eat simple food, read spiritual works, and let your mind relax and your soul drink in some quiet time. For a listing of retreat centers go to www.spiritsite.com/centers.

FIRED UP TO FILL BOOTS

August 25 through September 5, 2006 local, union and volunteer fire fighters throughout Northeast Indiana will be out in full force asking area residents to help them "fill their boots" to benefit the local programs of the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Donations (made payable to MDA) may also be dropped off at any area fire station.

The "Fill the Boot" campaign is held in conjunction with the MDA's annual Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon, aired locally on WANE TV Channel 15 on September 3-4, 2006. The campaign is part of a nationwide partnership between the fire fighters and MDA; fulfilling a pledge to continue the fight against muscle diseases until a cure is found. Last year, firefighters raised over $160,000 to benefit local children and adults served by MDA.

Money raised through this program will benefit the local services of MDA, including a clinic at Lutheran Hospital, assistance with the purchase of wheelchairs and leg braces, support groups and summer camp. All MDA services are provided at no cost to families served.

Funds will also help support MDA's mission to find treatments and cures for over 40 neuromuscular diseases, including the muscular dystrophies, ALS (Lou Gehrig's disease) spinal muscular atrophy, CMT and Friedreich's Ataxia.

For more information, please contact your local fire station or the District MDA office at (260) 486-6698.

TROOPS ARE FORMING!

Back to school time means Girl Scout troops are forming across the community. With the support of adult leaders from all walks of life, girls will meet in schools, community locations, businesses and places of worship to have fun and learn through Girl Scouting's supportive, all-girl environment. Through time-tested activities like crafts and games and contemporary projects, including science experiments, sports, and career exploration, girls develop practical life skills and leadership abilities, become problem-solvers and learn to have healthy relationships and act on their own convictions.

Girl Scouting is open to every girl in kindergarten through 12th grade who makes the Girl Scout Promise, accepts the Girl Scout Law and pays the $10 annual membership dues. Financial assistance is available to ensure that every girl who wants to be can be a Girl Scout. These are the only requirements for membership.

"Girl Scouts enjoy a wide range of activities that enable them to develop self-esteem, learn leadership skills and build an attitude of acceptance and teamwork," says Janet Suter, Director of Membership, Girl Scouts of Limberlost Council. "The adult volunteers are giving of their time to provide these girls with positive role models and they are reflecting the diversity of our community."

For more information about Girl Scouting and membership, girls and their families can call Girl Scouts of Limberlost Council, (260) 422-3417 or 800-283-4812, extension 3338.

Girl Scouting builds girls of courage, confidence, and character, who make the world a better place. Today, as when founded in 1912, Girl Scouts helps cultivate values, social conscience and self-esteem in young girls while also teaching them critical life skills that will enable them to succeed as adults. In Girl Scouting - and its special girl-only environment - girls discover the fun, friendship and power of girls together. Girl Scouts of Limberlost Council, one of more than 300 councils chartered by Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., administers programs in Adams, Allen, DeKalb, Huntington, Steuben and Wells counties in northeast Indiana.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

Girls of all ages are signing up for Girl Scout troops - and Girl Scouts of Limberlost Council needs adult leaders to form new troops! Without more leaders, 100s of girls will be unable to experience the Girl Scout program and its benefits.

Volunteers 18 years of age and older are needed to lead Girl Scout troops and support girls through adult mentoring. Because the Girl Scouting program has evolved to meet the needs of today's girls as well as the busy schedules and varied interests of today's adults, volunteer involvement can be coordinated around active lives.

Because adult mentors from all walks of life are vital to girls, it is also important to remember that volunteers do not have to be parents to be strong, successful troop leaders. College students, business professionals and grandparents, for example, make excellent mentors!

All potential volunteers are required to complete a volunteer application and a screening process prior to being placed in their area of interest.

Opportunities without direct youth involvement are also available. Such efforts could include office assistance, short-term program support, or service on leadership committees.

For more information about becoming an adult volunteer with Girl Scouts of Limberlost Council, contact Ruth Strawser, Director of Volunteer Services, (260) 422-3417 or (800) 283-4812, extension 3318.

Girl Scouts of Limberlost Council, one of more than 300 councils chartered by Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., administers programs in Adams, Allen, DeKalb, Huntington, Steuben and Wells counties in northeast Indiana. Through Girl Scouting, girls and adults participate in a wide range of activities that stimulate self-discovery, provide fun and friendship, help develop skills and build self-confidence.

SPAY/NEUTER PROGRAM IMPROVED

Spay Neuter Services of Indiana (SNSI) announces their new and improved Spay/Neuter Assistance Program (SNAP) and would like to tell the public about our efforts to end pet overpopulation and the suffering and death resulting from pet overpopulation. Together with compassionate veterinarians, SNSI has provided more than 39,000 surgeries since 1977, preventing thousands of unwanted litters of puppies and kittens. Despite this remarkable accomplishment, our work is not done. In Indianapolis alone, more than 50 companion animals are killed per day due to overpopulation and this statistic increases exponentially when surrounding counties and communities are added.

To have a pet spayed/neutered under the SNAP Program, pet owners can obtain an application by calling our voice mail 317.767.7771 or visiting our website www.spayneuterservices.org/programs.htm. The applicant sends SNSI the completed SNAP application and a money order for $20 (for each pet).

Upon receipt of the application, the pet owner is mailed a spay-neuter certificate and list of participating veterinarians with which to schedule their appointment.

Founded in 1977, Spay-Neuter Services of Indiana, Inc. is dedicated to help end pet overpopulation in Indiana by providing affordable options to spay-neuter surgeries. Centrally located in Indianapolis, SNSI consists of volunteers who work on behalf of the many unwanted and neglected animals in this state. SNSI is not a full service veterinary clinic nor a spay/neuter clinic. SNSI sponsors several different low-cost spay/neuter programs throughout the year. Surgeries are scheduled at participating clinics.

Having awarded more than $150 million to nearly 1300 projects, the Alzheimer's Association is the largest private funder of Alzheimer research. The Association's vision is a world without Alzheimer's disease. For more information about Alzheimer's disease, call 1-800-272-3900.

SR FALL FESTIVAL

The Salamonie Seniors' fourth annual Fall Fest is Sept. 12-14 in the modern campground in Lost Bridge West. The three-day event is designed for retirees age 50 and older.

This year's theme, Back to the Good Old Days, highlights enjoyment in the outdoors and new hobbies for the participants. Those interested should register soon to enjoy the activities of their choice.

"Visitors can take a step back from today's hectic lifestyle and enjoy this relaxing three-day program," said Marvin McNew, director of Upper Wabash Interpretive Services and event organizer.

Tuesday evening features Juanita Rapp of LaFontaine portraying Gene Stratton Porter (19th century novelist and naturalist from the area). Wednesday promises a chance to learn the beginning skills of several potential hobbies including fishing, bird watching, outdoor cooking, casserole cover sewing, apple head carving, woodland knowledge, plein air sketching (ink sketching outdoors with watercolors added), stepping stone creations, arrowheads and artifacts, flytying, and fly fishing basics.

The entrée will be provided at dinner on Wednesday. Patoka musicians Nana and Papa will be the evening entertainment. Thursday morning provides visitors a chance to enjoy arts and writings from local artisans and authors.

A $1 special program fee entitles visitors to a program pass to use for the week's events. Seniors will pay this fee to the interpreters after their arrival and use one program pass for all of the week's events.

Campsites should be reserved using the Central Reservation System. To pay for your site, call 1-866-6CAMPIN[(866)622-6746] or use the Internet, www.CAMP.IN.gov.

This special event is located in Lost Bridge West Recreation Area on Highway 105 in western Huntington County. There is a $4 entrance fee ($5 for out-of-state vehicles) to enter the property. Indiana residents may purchase an annual entrance permit for $36. Those age 65 or older may choose to purchase the annual Golden Hoosier Passport entrance permit for $18.

Visit our Web site at www.dnr.IN.gov/uwis/ for more information or to download a registration form. Registration forms for this event can also be requested by calling the Upper Wabash Reservoirs Interpretive Services, (260) 468-2127 or visiting the Salamonie interpretive center.

CLOWNING AROUND

by The FlyLady, Marla Cilley
What is it about clowns that scare some children? Yesterday I figured it out along with a dear friend. Their face tells a different story than what is in their heart. To a child's instincts they may seem to be hiding something. My dear dear friend suffered with serious child abuse. The abuser was her mother. To the world her mother seemed to be nurturing kind person, but behind closed doors she wore another face. She has nightmares about clowns and when the clown face is removed; it is her mother.

My mother was like that too. Everyone loved her. They didn't see the screaming rude vicious side of her. She put on a different face for them. Are you wearing a lot of different faces and your family can never tell who you are or who you are going to be. It is up to us to change this behavior and make our inside face match our outside face.

When we fall into the trap of perfectionism and pleasing others is when we feel the need to put on another mask. We don't have to protect ourselves any longer. A wounded animal will pretend to be healthy so it will not draw attention to the wound. Aren't we all wounded in some way or another? We don't want anyone to see our pain or our imperfections. We might get in trouble. My dear friend said something yesterday that was so profound that I have to share it with you. Here is what she said to me in an instant message.

There are wounded caregivers that pass on those wounds to their children; what was done to them will in some way be used to be done to you. The first line of their strategy is to mold our self-concept to suit their wounded needs, but we don't know they are wounded. They are where we learn everything.....we love them, we trust them even when they hurt us.

As children we can't afford to know that our very means of survival is wounded so we internalize the blame and incorporate it into our self-concept. Without knowing it, we are using a survival mechanism. It's safer to think that there are things wrong with us, than things wrong with our means of survival without realizing it, these get formed into our self-concept.

Our inner dialog parrots this back to us. We take our inner dialog as the guidance it was created to be, but we were never taught that any of it was corrupted! We follow it like it is all facts and God's word. Even when we get more worldly and learn that all that was done to us, taught to us isn't necessarily true. We were never taught how to "evaluate" the ongoing stream of inner dialog to guide us. It never occurred to us that part of the maturing process is learning not only how to think for ourselves but how to edit our own thinking itself!!!

When she wrote this my mouth just hung open in the shock of how simple yet how true her words were. We came up with a simple technique to help her realize when her clownfaced mother was talking from the grave. We would drown out her words with a honking clown horn like Harpo Marks used to honk instead of talking. All of a sudden we started to laugh so hard. We really didn't have a horn, just the Yahoo image with the clownface and a horn. She began to hear and see her mother as the clownfaced fake that filled her head with negativity. She was deleting her negativity with the laughter and that made the fear go away.

We all have some skewed notions that have been put in our heads; starting with those perfectionism ones. When we can eliminate this Body Clutter from our brains we can begin to replace that corrupted programming with a new way of living our lives, loving ourselves and laughing at the funny things we do.

We no longer have to live in shame thinking that someone is going to find out our dirty little secrets. I want for you what I have; peace. This peace came from replacing the negative programming with kind voices to love me!

Are you ready to FLY and throw away that clown face that is haunting you?

For more help getting rid of your CHAOS; check out her website and join her free mentoring group at www.FlyLady.net or her book, Sink Reflections published by Bantam and her new book, Body Clutter. Copyright 2006 Marla Cilley Used by permission in this publication.

TOP TEN WAYS TO SAVE MONEY

by The Dinner Diva, Leanne Ely
One of the best ways to make more room in your finances is by tightening up your food budget. Here are 10 ways to make that happen.

1. Be a Bounty Hunter. If your grocery store has a sale on ground beef (for example) and it's a great big package, buy it any way, and cut it up into sizes you'll use. Use the freezer quality zipper top, plastic bags. You're going to go to all this trouble, you might as well have something quality to eat when it's time to thaw!

2. Bigger isn't Better. Not necessarily anyway. Don't automatically reach for the biggest package at the grocery store. Compare prices and watch for the price per ounce or unit on the price tag.

3. Make Mine a Markdown. Check around to see if your store has a markdown shelf. Not all stores have these, but some do and you can pick up some good deals.

4. Count Your Losses. Loss leaders (the cheap stuff they advertise on the front of the flyers they send out every week) are designed to get you into the door. But watch out for the end cap displays in the store. They're usually NOT the loss leaders! Just regular merchandise. Don't be duped.

5. Grocery Store Smarts. Give yourself this quick test before leaving the house. Do I have my list? (no list, no store) Is this a bad time to shop? (avoid prime time at the grocery store) Can someone watch the kids? (no explanation necessary) Am I hungry? (you know what happens when you're hungry and you're shopping for food!). If you've passed the test, go to the bathroom, tuck your list into your pocketbook and GO!

6. Spice it Up. I DON'T buy your spices at the regular grocery store. I get mine at a discount store for $1.00 each or 2 for a dollar. I've also bought them from the bulk jars at the health food store for mere pocket change.

7. Take Stock. Create a Perpetual Pantry. That means you bulk up on what you use and need. But you must watch it when you're in that "stocking up" mood. Stock up, but don't hoard.

8. Go Bananas. If your bananas get a little too ripe, don't throw them out—freeze them. Peel and throw them in a freezer bag. They are great for smoothies.

9. Menus aren't just for restaurants. You MUST plan your meals. No plan spells disaster—you know that. It is stressful not knowing what's for dinner.

10. Rubber Chicken. This is the mother of all dollar-stretching recipes. Roast a chicken for meal 1, then use the leftover chicken mixed with beans to make burritos for meal 2 and finally, soup gets made out of the carcass. See how far you can stretch a chicken?

11. My Freezer, My Friend. Everyone loves those new dinner assembly franchise places. We do, too! But we do it at home instead and save big bucks. To find out more how to do this yourself, go to our website, www.savingdinner.com

All of these tips are tried and true and personally, delivered me from debt. Give them a try!
